WALL ST. CLOSE

Today

Quite an Earthquake. Backward Modern Youth. Where Is John L? Prince and Wall St. Cured.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE Eastern earthquake, reaching from Long Island to Halifax was not quite "a trifling incident." Trans-Atlantic cables lying on the bottom of the ocean were snapped in two, three out of four French lines made useless, Western Union and Postal cables also suffering, service crippled.

Fortunately no earthquake can break the atmosphere, and radio messages will always be available.

ROBERT MAYNARD HUTCHINS, only 30, is head of Chicago University. At 25, he was dean of the Yale Law School.

In old days, oftener than in our day, great things were done by the very young, Alexander, Napoleon, etc.

Young Capt. Nelson, later Admiral and Lord Nelson, when only 25, rebuked by an older officer for youthful presumption, replied, "Sir, I have the honor to be of the same age as the Prime Minister of England."

THE young president of Chicago University might quote that to anybody criticising his youth. He is six years older than Pitt was, when he became prime minister.

AN ITALIAN giant, Primo Carnera, height 6 feet ten, weight 280, having beaten the American, Stribling, in London, will come here and may fight another Italian giant, Vittorio Campolo.

IN THE featherweight prize fight division, Kid Chocolate, colored gentleman from Cuba, delighted New York's refined civilization last night by fighting Jose Martine from Spain. Both speak English.

WHERE are the American exponents of "the manly sport?" Where is John L., where Jack Dempsey, McGovern, the terrible Battling Nelson, much puzzled when Jack London described him as "an abysmal brute." Nelson resented the word "abysmal."

ENGLAND is gratified to hear that the King's second son, the Duke of York, thanks to an Australian specialist, is cured of stuttering, due to a physical difficulty.

The young prince is no longer compelled to refer to his father as the "k-k-k-k-king."

THIS interests Britishers more than news from Wall Street, which was good, yesterday, by the way, prices higher, business slow and normal.

FOR some time it will be a case of indigestion. When an alert prince of high finance capitalizes a few packages of food, for three times as many shares of stock as the total issue of United States Steel, casually offering an issue of $800,000,000, considerable digesting is necessary.

THE way to make business better is to create more business.

Secretary Mellon knows, and asks Congress to increase appropriations for public buildings from $175,000,000 to $423,000,000, to be spent in ten years.

THE plans are made, the buildings are needed. Why not proceed now?

THE country didn't hesitate a minute when other countries wanted ten thousand million dollars to continue fighting each other. If it could afford that, it can afford something for this country.

WISE men of Princeton learn that our milky way is a sort of United States of the Heavens, divided into great "star clouds." Our sun, surrounded by thousands of other suns, lives in one cloud "only" a few thousand light years in diameter. A light year is the distance that light travels in 365 days, going at the rate of 186,000 miles a second.

OUR milky way is made of many "star clouds," as our country is made of many states. A group of star clouds makes one "universe." Endless other universes are visible beyond our "galactic system."

One of our neighbors, another universe is the Coma Virgo galaxy, about 10,000,000 light years away. Add that up.

CHINA and Russia which Wall Street would call "backward nations," are forward, as regards war. Russia, to cripple China's railroad about which there is dispute, bombards the railroad from the air at both ends, that trains may not start or arrive. China fights back with airplanes.

IN industrial building Russia is certainly not backward.

When a six year program of building to cost close to seven billions was announced, American "experts" said it would take Russia 15 years to complete it.

Russia will complete the program in three and one half years. Assisted by American engineers and American capital, Russia has outstripped the United States' record in rapid building.

PENN AVENUE PATROLMAN ACCUSED

Officer Wielded Night Stick On Agent During Liquor Seizure, Warrant Avers

A warrant carging interference, attack and assault on prohibition agents during a Penn avenue saloon raid was issued today for the arrest of Patrolman Albert Meuser, attached to Penn Avenue Police Station.

The information was sworn to before the United States Commissioner by Prohibition Agents J. L. Delaney and Martin M. Micken, of the local enforcement bureau.

Micken charged that Meuser attacked him last night with a night stick and firsts and interfered with the raid on a saloon at 2830 Penn avenue.

AGENT REFUSED DRINK

Immediately after the alleged encounter the dry agents permitted him to be released on his own recognizance when Lieut. P. M. Fallon appeared and said he needed Meuser for duty. The other patrolman, whose number, the informants said, was 350, stood aside when they announced their identity.

Delaney and Micken, they said, went into the establishment to seek evidence of dry law violations, while other agents stood outside. Delaney was refused a drink, he told the commissioner, but said he saw two men drinking at a table under which there was a five-gallon can of alleged liquor.

RUM REPORTED SEIZED

The place was raided and five five-gallon cans of moonshine, 46 pints of liquor and two one-gallon judge of whisky were reported confiscated.

Patrolman Meuser and his companion entered during the raid and interfered, Delaney said.

When Micken told Meuser they were prohibition officers, Meuser replied, "I don't care if you are," and then is alleged to have struck him.

John Gowski, alleged proprietor of the place, was held in $500 bail on a charge of possession of liquor, following his arraignment today.

COURT ACTS IN JAIL LYNCHING

EASTLAND, Tex., Nov. 20.—(INS.)—Investigation of the lynching of Marshall Ratliff, bank robber convicted and sentenced to death in the electric chair, was ordered today by authorities after a mob of 200 stormed the jail here, dragged the man from a cell and strung his body to a telegraph cable wire.

Ratliff, found guilty of the robbery of the bank at Cisco, yesterday staged an attempted jail break and seriously wounded a jailer. He had been returned from the State Penitentiary, pending a sanity hearing, and had feigned paralysis, officials said.

The door to his cell was left open. He stole an officer's gun and attempted to shoot his way to freedom, but was frustrated in his attempt by a jailer, who clubbed him with a pistol.

A mob of 1,000, furious over the shooting of the jailer, Tom Jones, gathered at the jail Tuesday night. Leaders asked for Ratliff, and being refused, took the cellkeeper's keys and dragged the bandit from his cell.

The first rope used was broken and the mob waited impatiently for 15 minutes before another was procured.

Carriers' Billion-Dollar Program Cheers Hoover; Business Parley Tomorrow

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—"Business as usual—and full steam ahead."

These encouraging assurances from leaders in the railroad and banking world reposed on President Hoover's desk today to strengthen the government's effort at keeping American business on an even and prosperous keel until it gets out of the waters muddied by stock market gyrations.

From the executives who control the nation's railway systems, Mr. Hoover received assurances that irrespective of what contortions the stock exchange may go through at this time the railroads are going full steam ahead with upward of a billion dollars in capital expenditures during the next year.

EASIER MONEY PROMISED

From the bankers, members of the Federal advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board, came the promise of easier money conditions, which will prove a boon of inestimable value to every line of business activity.

"Each member of the council reported that business and banking throughout his district are in sound condition, and the prospects were that money will be available at lower rates," said a statement issued at the White House after all angles of the present situation had been discussed.

This statement carried on its face the plain intimation that re-

Earthquake Shocks Felt in Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—A sharp earth shock was reported felt in the west section of Nashville at 8:35 last night. BANDIT SHOOTS, LOOTS SHOP

Police are searching for a lone robber who held up the shoe repair show of Dominick Tramonte, of 1503 North Lang avenue, today, and, after firing two shots in the air, took $20 from the cash register. Tramonte was alone at the time.

The bandit, Tramonte said, drew a revolver and ordered:

"Stick 'em up!"

Before he had a chance to comply, the bandit pointed the revolver toward the ceiling and fired twice to firighten the victim.

"Keep 'em up and keep 'em up high," Tramonte was ordered next.

Warning Tramonte against making an outcry until he had escaped, the holdup man rifled the cash register and walked out.

Hollywood Mourns Death of Early Film Star

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 20.—(INS.)—Pal, one of movieland's famed celebrities, was mourned by many friends today as arrangements were being made for a simple, solemn funeral.

Pal, a bull terrier, went to sleep on the stoop of Harry Lacenay's ranch. His owner called, but called in vain. Pal never awoke.

He was 14 years old, a veteran of the studios. Eight years ago his career began when he played a stellar role in a Wallace Reid picture.

BOULEVARD RAIL SAVES AUTO

Saved from a plunge into Tustin street from the Boulevard of the Allies, B. Kepecs, 806 Wood street, East Pittsburgh, climbed from his car unharmed today as it hung over the edge of the boulevard.

En route to the downtown district, Kepecs' car skidded on the wet asphalt, swung across the street, hopped over the sidewtlk and broke a section of iron guard rail.

The rear wheels were broken and the car hung over the edge of the boulevard.

Portions of the fence dropped into Tustin street and struck a parked auto there. The fence stopped Kepecs' car from tumbling 50 feet into Tustin street.

Third Prohibition Legislator To Be Involved in Liquor Scandal Cases Within Year

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Indictment of Representative Denison (Rep.), of Illinois, a leading dry, for violation of liquor laws, shocked congressional drys today and threatened to precipitate a new prohibition war immediately after Congress launches its regular session December 2.

Although Denison's friends maintained confidence in his innocence and congressional courtesy forbids mention of his name on the floor, the indictment is the culmination of a series of prohibition accusations acutely affecting Congress.

THIRD TO BE INVOLVED

Taunted by its own members and charged with harboring "wet-drinking, dry-voting" legislators, the House has seen three of its number involved in prohibition cases within the last year.

The broad assertion of Senator Gillett (Rep.), of Massachusetts, that he saw members of the House transacting business on the floor while intoxicated has aroused militant drys who may rise to defend the House's reputation in the new session.

Denison, it was pointed out, is the third House member who voted for the Jones "Five and Ten Law" to be involved in an alleged prohibition law violation.

SMUGGLING CHARGED

Representative Michaelson (Rep.), also of Illinois, was indicted on a charge of bringing liquor to Florida from Cuba. He was acquitted, but a brother-in-law was found guilty.

Customs employes in New York alleged that Representative Morgan (Rep.), of Ohio, brought liquor back from Panama last year, but he was exonerated after investigation by prohibition officials.

BROCK, SCHLEE PLANE WRECKS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 20.—(INS.)—W. S. Brock and E. F. Schlee, world fliers, escaped serious injury when their huge transport plane was badly damaged in a forced landing late yesterday near Barnesboro, 30 miles north of here, it became known today.

B. L. Graves, president of the Bach Aircraft Corporation; "Bobby" Trout, girl flier, and Daniel Burke, a mechanic, were passengers in the plane.

The party was en route to Detroit from New York and left Altoona shortly after 2 p. m. after taking on gasoline, ignoring storm warnings.

Ice forming on the wings and a low ceiling are believed to have caused the forced landing, in which the plane was damaged to the reported extent of $4,000.

Hoover Scribbling Offered for Sale

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—An autographed mosaic of triangles, circles, parallelograms and spiders' webs purporting to be by President Hoover is on sale at a dealer's. Freeze Due Here Tonight, Motorists Warned

Snow flurries today heralded the coming of the first frigid weather of the season, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman, who warned autoists to guard against frozen radiators.

Cold weather will continue tomorrow, Brotzman indicated, with arrival from the west of a vast high-pressure belt that was tumbling temperatures west of the Mississippi today.

The mercury will drop to 25 degrees tonight, according to the official forecast, considerably below the minimum temperature this season.

The rivers continued falling today, after reaching a peak of 23.7 feet yesterday noon. The stage at 8 a. m. today was 21 feet at the Point.

Aircraft Believed Down Near North Cape; Pair Missing On Rescue Expedition

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The search for Carl Ben Eielson, missing Polar pilot, got underway today in Siberia despite a blinding blizzard, according to word received from Teller and Fairbanks, Alaska, by the Aviation Corporation.

LOST ON RESCUE MISSION

A dog team also started searching from North Cape.

It is at this latter site that the Norwegian schooner Nanuk is icebound. Eielson, with a mechanic, was making a second flight to the schooner to rescue the stranded members of the vessel.

The report via radio that the plane was sighted near North Cape, although meager, was believed to be later than that received here Monday saying the wreckage of Eielson's plane had been sighted by natives in the vicinity of the icebound ships Nanuk and Stavropol 10 days ago.

SECOND SHIP IN TROUBLE

Eielson and Frank Dorbandt, a fellow pilot, have been moving passengers and furs from the Nanuk, a vessel belonging to the Swenson Fur Company, to the Alaska mainland. Each has made one trip to the Nanuk and return and Eielson was making his second journey to the Nanuk when the report that the wreckage of his plane had been sighted was received from the ship's radio.

The two fliers planned to rescue the crew of the Stavropol, a Russian ice breaker, as soon as they completed the Nanuk job.

FRIENDS NOT ALARMED

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Recalling the fight he made against the Arctic in 1927 when he was forced down near Point Barrow, Alaska, Carl B. Eielson's friends here are not alarmed for his safety.

Eielson, with Capt. Sir George Hubert Wilkins two years ago on an attempt to fly over the "top of the world," was forced down by engine trouble 500 miles out.

Eielson, despite a temperature of 40 degrees below zero and four frozen fingers, repaired the motor and got the plane into the air again, when 80 miles from shore the fuel supply gave out. Wilkins and Eielson made their way afoot, reaching their flying base nearly a fortnight later.

DOHENY TRIAL DATE SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—A motion was filed with the District of Columbia Supreme Court today asking that January 13 be set as the date for trying Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil man, on the bribery charge pending against him.

Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special government prosecutors in the naval oil cases, filed the motion.

It was expected that Frank Hogan, Doheny's counsel, would ask that the trial be postponed until March.

The indictment charges Doheny paid Treasury Secretary Albert B. Fall $100,000 as a bribe to grant to one of Doheny's companies a lease on the naval oil reserve at Elk Hills, Cal. Fall was found guilty recently and was fined $100,000 and sentenced to a year in jail.

home to Congress. Previously Cassidy had been arrested in the House office building.

Conviction of John W. Langley while serving as a Congressman from Kentucky for conspiracy to violate the liquor laws, also was added to the names of dry Congressmen who have run afoul of the law for which they voted.

During the last session Representative Black (Dem.), of New York, threatened to expose "wet drinking, dry voting Congressmen," but the expose was postponed.

Already Senator Sheppard (Dem.), of Texas, and Senator Harris (Dem.), of Georgia, are preparing prohibition moves which bring both Senate and House into quarrels over the law again.

The proposal of Sheppard to make the buyer of liquor as well as the seller subject to prosecution already is being attacked by the anti-prohibitionists and there is considerable opposition to it among the drys.

Harris is expected to demand additional appropriations for enforcement of the dry law, coupled with an attack upon the prohibition regime of the Hoover administration.

Mrs. Florence Kahn, Republican congresswoman of California, and other House members, are preparing to renew their demands that Congress indemnify the families of innocent persons killed by dry law officers. The movement was inaugurated by Mrs. Kahn after the killing of Henry Virkula in Minnesota by customs officers.

DENISON BLAMES TRUCKMAN

MARION, Ill., Nov. 20.—(INS.)—"I will finish my business here and leave for Washington either Friday or Saturday to ask for an early trial," Rep. Everett E. Denison declared today.

The Illinois congressman, who is a leading Dry, was indicted in Washington yesterday for violation of the liquor laws.

Denison blames the error of a New York dock transferman during a blizzard last January for his present trouble. He said the wrong trunk was shipped to his secretary and that his own trunk was left on the dock.

Denison denies he drinks intoxicating liquors and, in a lengthy statement, said his friends would be witnesses to the fact.

Turkey Dinners Will Cost Less This Year

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—A family of five can get a Thanksgiving dinner and $1.50 change from a $10 bill this year, the Mercantile Exchange estimated today. Last year one got only 50 cents change.

The menu includes oyster cocktail, celery and olives, roast turkey, sweet and mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, turnips or peas, rolls and butter, pumpkin pie and coffee.

The reason the cost is $1 less than last year, the Exchange explained, is due mostly to the fact that turkey is approximately 12 cents a pound cheaper. Oysters are a fraction lower and the other commodities are about the same price as last season.

Bill Barring Dry Agents' Wire-Tapping Before House

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS.)—A bill to prohibit wire-tapping by prohibition agents or anyone else was introduced in the House today by Rep. Shafer (Rep.), of Wisconsin.

Violation of the law would be punishable by a fine and from one to 10 years in prison, with the same penalty for use of information so obtained. The bill also would prohibit evidence gained by wire-tapping in courts.

Shafer said he sponsored the bill "to preserve the fundamental liberties of the people" which were taken away from them by a 5-to-4 decision of the Supreme Court upholding wire-tapping by dry agents.

8 OF ROTHSTEIN JURYMEN CHOSEN

By JAMES I. KILLGALLEN, International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The McManus case jury probably will be completed today.

At noon today eight jurors had been chosen to hear the case of George A. (Smiling George) McManus, gambler, accused of murdering Arnold Rothstein, Broadway's "man of mystery," November 4, 1928.

Seven men were seated in the jury box when court reconvened this morning.

Juror No. 3, William Belknap, an insurance man, was excused by Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., when it developed he had an acquaintance with several of the assistant district attorneys.

This was the third day devoted to the business of picking a jury.

M'MANUS ON GUARD

Seven talesmen were examined before one acceptable to both sides was found to take the place of Belknap.

He was Harry B. Langan. Although he said he was friendly with Detective Joe Daley, a state witness, the defense accepted him.

The eighth juror accepted was William G. Schader.

The defendant, McManus, despite his ready smile and easy, nonchalant demeanor, is taking no chance in this, the greatest gamble in his career.

The stake is his life. As he sits there in the most famous courtroom in America—the courtroom where Harry K. Thaw, Police Lieut. Charles Becker, Nan Patterson and other personages were tried—he surveys each talesman appraisingly and listens intently to every word uttered from the witness stand.

BUSINESS WITH VICTIM

The examination of talesmen, while dreary from the standpoint of the audience, is not without its lighter moments. One such interval came when talesman Robert G. McKay, a broker, was being examined. He volunteered the statement that he had known the slain Arnold Rothstein.

"Did you have business with him?" He was asked.

"Business on his part, folly on mine," was the ironical reply.

Asked if he had bet with Mr. Rothstein he answered: "Unfortunately, yes," he was excused forthwith.

For the most part, however, deep solemnity overhangs the courtroom. The hippodrome, so evident in other murder trials, is conspiciously absent. The judge is solemn. The jurors are solemn. The attorneys make no "wise cracks." The battery of newspapermen are repressed—verbally. The audience is subdued. Order is maintained inside and outside of the courtroom.

WAR RENEWED ON NOISY CARS

Council has ordered the safety department to arrest drivers of motor vehicles who operate with cut-outs open and produce other ear-splitting noises.

Attention was called again to the nuisance by Post & Flagg, in the Oliver Building, who complained that a great deal of their business was done by telephone, and the noise from automobiles was seriously interfering with taking orders and messages.

The firm said a complaint was made last May to Mayor Charles H. Kline, but no improvement was noted.

Post & Flagg, the letter said, then engaged a plain-clothesman, who was stationed at Smithfield street and Oliver avenue to check offending drivers.

The names of the offending drivers was turned in to Traffic Court, where they all were discharged, the letter stated.

During the interim, Safety Director James M. Clark received a report on the complaint from Inspector Ben R. Marshall. Marshall confirmed the story of the offending drivers being discharged, but added that the magistrate delivered a warning to the effect that all mufflers should be fixed.

THIRD PARLEY TOMORROW

Heartened and encouraged by these signs of basic business strength, President Hoover was preparing today for the third of his series of business conferences at the White House tomorrow.

This conference will bring a dozen or more outstanding industrialists to Washington to discuss their problems with government officials. President Hoover was not ready this morning to make public the list of those who are coming, but it is expected to include Owen D. Young, General Electric; Alfred P. Sloan, General Motors; Henry Ford and men of similar type.

If the industrialists echo the assurances already given by the railroad men of continued high production and normal expansion, Mr. Hoover will have succeeded in his effort to give the country a reassuring picture of the basic soundness of the country's business structure. And he will be pretty well satisfied.

EMPLOYMENT TO BE TOPIC

Agriculturists and labor heads will follow the industrialists later in the week. Thanks to the stimulus already given agriculture by the federal farm act, the farmers are in a better position today than in some years. There is not much worry on that score.

The President plans to talk employment with the industrialists tomorrow. It is a subject that lies close to his heart, and one as well that, in his opinion, offers the only real danger spot in the country's economic pattern.

So long as employment remains at a high level, so long as there is "a job for every man," he believes the country can look with considerable equanimity on the gyrations of the stock market.

Comparatively few people, in relation to the population as a whole, are affected by the fluctuations of securities' prices. The great buying power of the country, on which depends continuance of prosperity, rests in the large sense with the great mass of workers in every line of endeavor. So long as they are employed they have money to spend, and the purchasing power of the country remains steady and continuous.

EXPANSION PLANS AIDED

Hence, in the opinion of governmental leaders, the highly important point in the present situation is maintenance of employment at its present high level.

The railroads already have given assurances that their plans call for the employment of even more men than at present in their expansion activities and equipment orders.

The promise of easier money to industry is an open invitation to the country's manufacturing enterprises to proceed confidently ahead with their expansion activities. Expansion means greater employment.

And with the railroads already lined up, agriculture on a steady keel, it but remains for the industrialists to fall in line to give a solidly reassuring picture to the country of the basic strength of its business structure.

P. R. R. HEAD OPTIMISTIC

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, declared following the conference that the Pennsylvania intended to carry forward its $100,000,000 program in 1930 and that there would be no reduction in the number of employes in any section. He predicted some falling off in retail semi-luxury purchases in 1930, but no depression in general business.

"There has been a business recession since October, not due to the stock market situation, but rather seasonal," he declared. "This reduction in business might continue unless the truth is apparent that business is fundamentally sound and has nothing to fear from the stock market convulsion.

"Big business is in the best condition in years, and I do not foresee and developments that will slow it up next year."

Mellon Includes New Building Among Conference Aims; Vets' Hospital to Be Aided

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Plans of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for speeding up the federal government's building program as an aid to industrial conditions throughout the country will affect some 116 projects, either authorized or contemplated in the state of Pennsylvania, including Pittsburgh's postoffice and federal building, an analysis of the program revealed here today.

The new building program was announced by the Treasury Department head in connection with the series of conferences President Hoover has called with industrial and financial leaders for the purpose of freeing the business fabric of the country from the recent stock market disturbance.

SEEKS CONGRESS' AID

Secretary Mellon has revealed that the forthcoming regular session of Congress will be asked to expand the Federal building program by authorizing an additional $175,000,000 for this purpose, thus raising the total building commitments to the sum of $423,000,000. At the same time he will ask that work be speeded up to lop off two years of the present 10-year program. This is to be accomplished by increasing the annual appropriations for building operations.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry Heath, in charge of building activities, pointed out today that under the present $248,000,000 program which Congress has already authorized, the state of Pennsylvania has 33 building projects, including Pittsburgh, scheduled for completion during the next few years. Representing a total outlay of $23,072,000, he stated that it is now contemplated that these will be rushed to completion much earlier.

The 33 projects which will benefit by the expanded program, include the following:

BIRMINGHAM (ALA.) STREET SCENE DURING FLOOD WATERS FOLLOWING HEAVY NOVEMBER RAINSTORMS

Gilberts Agree on Parting 'Til John Enlarges Home

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 20.—(INS.)—Too many carpenters hammering around John Gilbert's home on a Beverley Hills knoll is the reason why Ina Claire and Jack have separated, Miss Claire having moved her belongings from the Gilbert home to a rented house all her own in Beverley.

But the separation is not to be permanent at all. The movie couple will be back in the Gilbert home within two months, they declared in a joint interview regarding their domestic plans yesterday.

"We are still very much in love with each other, and are not thinking of separating," the couple stated. "After several weeks we will be back together again."

Gilbert explained that his bachelor home with its one bedroom was insufficient to accommodate Miss Claire, himself, her servants and some 40 trunks.

So he ordered the house remodeled. Carpenters proved too much for the temperaments of both screen stars and they decided on the change until the work is finished.

Gilbert and Ina flew to Las Vegas, Nev., last May 9 and were married. Gilbert had been married twice before this. Miss Claire, the former Inez Fagan, of New York, was married once previously, to James Whittaker, a dramatic critic.

GOOD'S BODY ON WAY HOME WITH NATION'S TRIBUTE

WHITE HOUSE SERVICES HELD

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—James W. Good left Washington in death today after receiving honors that have been accorded few except Presidents of the nation.

For six hours the body of the secretary of war lay in state in the East Room of the White House, with President and Mrs. Hoover joining with the family as the chief mourners.

With all government departments closed uptil 1 p. m. in respect for the cabinet member, the other members of the cabinet and representatives of the diplomitic corps who had known "Jim" Good so well, joined the family and the Hoovers at their vigil around the casket.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

The bronze coffin, draped with an American flag and banked on all sides with floral tributes sent from practically every state and nation, was placed in the center of the room at 9 a. m. It was brought on a gun caisson by its escort of cavalry from an undertaking establishment.

Only nine days ago—Armistice Day—Secretary Good was at the White House in life. He called to accompany the President to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington national cemetery. He complained of feeling bad then and the next day it was decided he enter Walter Reed Hospital for the removal of his appendix. Blood-poisoning developed and he died Monday night.

The funeral service started at 11 a. m., with the Rev. Dr. J. R. Sizoo, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, officiating.

HOOVER NEAR CASKET

About 200 chairs had been placed in the historic East Room for the services. They were occupied chiefly by Washington officialdom, diplomats in court uniform and Americans in somber formal dress.

The President and Mrs. Hoover sat near the casket, the top of which was open. Members of the family occupied the green room, opening off the large east room, where they were screened in semi-privacy.

The four walls were literally banked with flowers.

When the brief services were concluded, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover approached the casket, and the President looked silently for half a minute at the face of his dead friend. Then he and Mrs. Hoover and the rest retired.

SOLDIERS STAND GUARD

The service, which lasted 20 minutes, began with the reading of "I am the resurrection and the light, saith the Lord," followed by the Twenty-third Psalm.

Dr. Sizoo then gave the invocation and the Lord's Prayer, after which eight verses of the fifteenth chapter, First Corinthians, were recited.

During the services a quartet from the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, which Secretary Good attended, sang "Abide With Me."

Two Army sergeants stood at attention beside the casket from the time it entered the White House until the funeral. Each pair was relieved every 20 minutes.

The military procession started at 2 p. m., when the casket was replaced upon a caisson and taken to the train at Union Station. The four branches of the Army, along with the contingents of the Navy and Marine Corps, comprised the cortege. The train left at 3:15 for Cedar Rapids, Ia., the Good home. President Hoover was represented on the train by Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, his military aide.

GUNS BOOM SALUTE

Mrs. Good, the widow; her two sons, Robert Edmond and James W., Jr., and the relatives, including Mrs. Williams Coombes, sister of Mr. Good, and Mrs. John Fletcher, sister of the widow, occupied the Baltimore and Ohio's private car "Maryland."

Among the others aboard the train are Secretary of the Navy Adams, Senators Brookhart, of Iowa, and Deneen, Illinois; Rep. Cole, Iowa, Acting Secretary of War Hurley, Assistant Secretary of War Davison, Gen. Summerall, chief of staff and the 14 enlisted men who comprised the guard of honor around the body since 3 p. m. Tuesday.

During the day guns at Fort Myer were fired at half-hour intervals from revielle until retreat, when a final salute was fired by 19 guns in honor of the dead war secretary.

When the body reaches Cedar Rapids tomorrow a 19-gun salute will be fired at all Army posts and stations throughout the country.

GOOD'S FRIEND DROPS DEAD

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 20.—(INS.)—The funeral of William B. Lutz, farmer and boyhood chum of the late James W. Good, secretary of war, was being planned here today. Lutz dropped dead late yesterday of heart disease while planning to attend the Good funeral.

Friday afternoon, at practically the same hour that the former cabinet member will be buried in Oak Hill Cemetery here, Lutz will be laid to rest.

CLASS-DODGING TEACHERS HIT

Members of the Board of Public Education are not opposed to teachers taking a few days off with pay now and then to visit other schools, since it broadens their views of things.

But when teachers report off for visitation purposes and instead attend weddings in distant towns, or other things, and collect pay it's a different matter.

It is a practice that has been indulged in to a great extent locally, board-members said yesterday. It ought to be stopped, was the general view.

"I am in favor of all proper visiting of teachers to other schools, but I'm not going to let anyone make a mutt of me if I know it," declared Dr. A. L. Lewin, board member.

Others, such as President Marcus Aaron, Dean C. B. Connelley, Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of schools, and N. R. Criss were in accord with Dr. Lewin.

EARLY PARDON FOR MOONEY HINTED

Gov. Young Asks Court to Rush Action on Billings' Plea in Bombing Case

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—A request from Governor C. C. Young to the State Supreme Court to expedite consideration of a petition before it affecting Warren K. Billings, was interpreted here in some quarters today as an indication that an early pardon looms for Tom Mooney and Billings.

The men are serving life terms on their conviction of participation in the preparedness day bombing in San Francisco in 1916.

Their pardon has been strongly urged on the grounds that they were convicted on "framed" evidence, since disproved.

Recently, also, has come to light the confession of Lewis Smith, of Ohio, now dead, that he hurled the bomb for which Mooney and Billings are serving time.

Because of a previous felony conviction, Billings must have the consent of the Supreme Court before he can file application for pardon.

It was early consideration of the application which the governor requested.

The governor refused to comment on his action other than to say:

"It would be unfair to Billings for me to act on Mooney's case before I could officially consider that of Billings."

COLLEGE FIRES 21 OVER RUM

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP).—Twenty-one University of Illinois students were expelled at a meeting of the university council of administration, and Gamma Eta Gamma, fraternity involved in last week's campus liquor scandal, was ordered to show cause why it should not be disbanded.

Eight members of the fraternity were among those ordered expelled.

The wholesale expulsions were said to be the most drastic disciplinary action ever taken by the council. Among the charges against the students were drinking, possession and sale of liquor, and violation of the university no-car rule.

Wilton J. Sherman, of Crown Point, Ind., senior in the law school, who was fined $500 after pleading guilty to possessing liquor found in the Gamma Eta Gamma house in a sheriff's raid early Sunday morning, was one of those expelled on liquor charges. Other members of the fraternity who were dismissed on similar charges were A. J. Withers, of Hibbing, Minn.; E. E. Langbons, of Marion, Ill.; A. Butwell, of Cicero, Ill.; R. R. Hughes, of Burlington, Ia.; J. P. McMillan, of Carthage, Ill.; Charles Binkert, of Quincy, Ill., and Robert J. Hartley, of Toulon, Ill.

STUDENTS HELD MONTHS FREE

CARACAS, Venezuela, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—University students who had been imprisoned since October, 1928, because of participations in political disturbances, were liberated under peace bonds signed by their parents.

The exact number of students arrested last year for demonstrations against the continued power of President Juan Vicente Gomez, who had then exercised presidential powers for about 20 years, has never been made known. Gen. Gomez declined re-election this year, but accepted the post of commander-in-chief of the army.

Reports of the numbers of the students held have ranged from 100 to 500. The disorders in which they took part were most serious in February and March. Several persons were reported killed in the capital and violence was done in other cities. Later many protests were made to the government against the alleged labor on roads and other public works of the student prisoners.

The movement never attained sufficient strength to threaten overthrow of the government, but it did stop entrance of tourists for a time and caused the authorities some embarrassment.

An unsigned and unaddressed note was found in the hotel room reading:

"I would rather be dead than blind. But still it takes nerve to pull on a brain you are not sure exists."

He was identified by his wife, who said he had captained the Ohio State team several years ago. Recently an injury he received then had been affecting his vision, Mrs. Baldridge said.

SINCLAIR'S TERM ENDS TONIGHT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Warden Peake down at District jail was in the market for a new pharmacist today.

Some time about one minute after midnight tonight he's going to lose probably the toniest drug clerks that ever rolled a pill behind the bars of his jail house.

For today is Harry Ford Sinclair's last day in durance vile, as the saying goes. Any time after the stroke of 12 tonight, the millionaire oil baron and sportsman is free to leave the big red house down on the river flats, and it was considered a pretty good bet he wouldn't dally on the way out.

IN SINCE MAY 6

Sinclair has been a prisoner in the district jail since May 6, serving out the time imposed upon him, first, for contempt of the Senate, and later, for contempt of the District Supreme Court. He got three months on the first count, and six on the second, which involved the hiring of detectives to shadow the jury that sat in his mistrial on conspiracy charges. Time off for good behavior is springing the prison door for him in advance of Thanksgiving.

According to tentative plans, Sinclair will motor from Washington direct to his elaborate stock farm in New Jersey for a few days of rest. This is the farm known to race track followers the country over as the Rancocas Stables.

Complete relaxation in the welcome great outdoors will not be long for Sinclair, however. He had though of taking a trip around the world, but the recent antics of the stock market have forced that pleasant idea out of his head. He is going back to Wall Street and pitch in again as the active head of his many oil companies and their subsidiaries.

BACKED BY ASSOCIATES

In this connection, the oil magnate's business associates have stood solidly behind him. Just before he came to Washington to surrender and start serving his time he offered to resign all his chairmanships, et cetera. His fellow board members, however, refused to countenance such a move and re-elected him. Since he has been in jail he had directed vast enterprises by mail and telegraph.

The six and a half months behind the bars may have been, and probably were, distasteful to Sinclair, but they have done him a lot of good physically. Normally of a sturdy build, the regular hours, adequate sleep and plain but wholesome food have put him in fighting trim. He has lost the superfluous weight that was just beginning to show last spring and his general demeanor couldn't be better.

The oil man spent his term as jail pharmacist and assistant to the prison doctor. He graduated in chemistry from college and is a registered pharmacist. His duties as doctor's assistant resulted in the only untoward incident of his stay as an enforced guest of Major Peake.

AUTO RIDES RECALLED

One of the local newspapers discovered that several times a week he was accompanying the physician to another part of town by automobile to tend the needs of another type of prisoners. The howls this information brought from Capital Hill brought a speedy end to Sinclair's auto rides, although the warden had only been following a usual practice.

For a part of the time he was "in," Sinclair had company in the person of Henry Mason Day, his chief lieutenant, who drew four months for hiring and directing the jury-shadowing detectives. In the last three weeks, it has been his pleasure to be joined by three reporters for the Washington Times, sentenced to 45 days for contempt after refusing to divulge the addresses of certain bootleggers. Sinclair doesn't think he has got much of a square deal from the papers and he has spent no little of his spare time in kidding the three unfortunates, they being quartered in the same dormitory with him.

Gucker said he had arranged to borrow the money today from a building and loan association.

Other fellow employes of Smith said he had appeared worried since the death of Heim and the subsequent revelation of the secret marriage of his daughter.

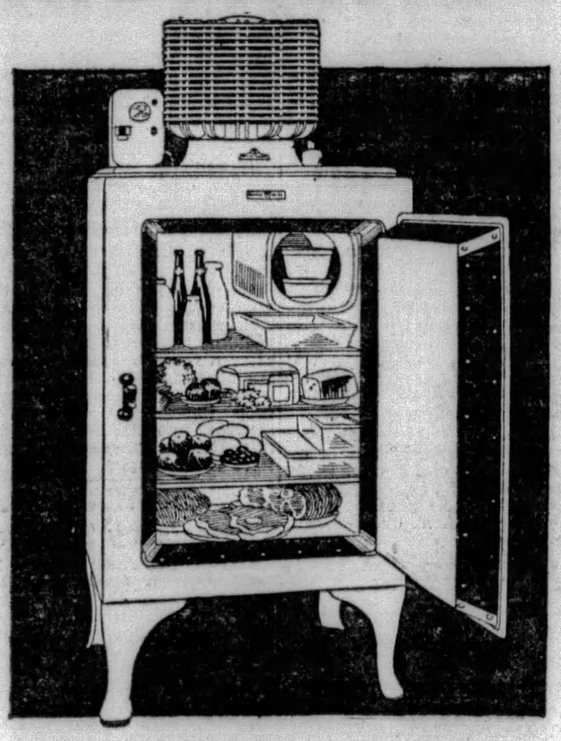
PERFECT REFRIGERATION

HARMFUL bacteria know no season. They thrive on warmth. No matter how chilly it may be outdoors, it's usually hot in your kitchen. Keeping foods safely refrigerated is therefore as much of a problem in autumn and in freezing weather as it is in midsummer.

The General Electric Refrigerator will automatically keep your perishable foods always below 50 degrees—keep them fresh and healthful every day in the year. Whether it be warm or cold, whether you keep kitchen windows open or shut, whether you go away for a week-end, your food will always be in the most perfect condition when you are ready for it.

The General Electric is the only refrigerator with an all-steel cabinet. It is built like a safe. Heat cannot leak in, cold cannot seep out. It is sturdy, dependable . . . and very decorative. All its mechanism is mounted on top in a dust-proof, hermetically sealed steel casing. Quietly it operates, without ever needing to be oiled. And it never creates any radio interference.



More than 350,000 users today of General Electric Refrigerators and not one has ever paid out a single dollar for service or repairs.

SEE A DEMONSTRATION of this most modern of refrigerators. See its accessible freezing regulator. Choose the size you need. There are various models from $215 (at the factory), any one of which you can buy for a small down payment and convenient terms.

Tune in on the General Electric Hour, broadcast every Saturday evening 9 to 10, Eastern Standard Time over the National Broadcasting Company network of 42 stations.

Beauty Expert Likes Our Girls' Complexions

Smog may come and smog may go but Pittsburgh feminine beauty goes on forever.

At least—perhaps not in just those words—that is the verdict of Madame Tourneur, beauty diagnostician, who is in Pittsburgh today to supervise the opening of her customized cosmetic shop in Joseph Horne's. The beauty of Pittsburgh women should be as famous as the city's mills, Madame insists. As for complexions—tres bonne—or emphatic expletives meaning all to the good.

In examining complexions of Pittsburgh women, Madame said she was indeed surprised at their perfection. Because of local atmosphere and the "dryness"—cosmetic for hardness—of Pittsburgh water she expected rather deplorable skins . . . but non, non—perfect!

And there is an all-important way of applying the make-up. Evening make-up requires a certain subtle difference in application than that for a sunny afternoon. And one may entirely spoil a very nice nose by placing rouge spots too near to it.

ENVOY TO WED DIVORCEE

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Katherine Winterbotham Buchanan, the former Mrs. Thompson Buchanan, last night announced her engagement to the Persian consul-general, Dr. Marcellus D. von Redlich. The marriage had been set for last Monday, the announcement said, but was postponed because of the illness of Mrs. Buchanan's mother, Mrs. J. R. Winterbotham.

Yesterday Dr. Van Redlich was quoted by the newspapers as expressing surprise about the entire affair. Last night he confirmed Mrs. Buchanan's announcement.

Dr. Von Redlich also confirmed the fact that Mrs. Buchanan had been a witness for him in his suit for divorce from Mrs. Gertrude R. Von Redlich here last March. Mrs. Buchanan testified that Mrs. Von Redlich preferred living in Austria to Chicago. The consul general had charged desertion.

Thompson Buchanan, playwright, and Mrs. Katharine Buchanan were divorced in 1926.

MUSIC

Maier & Pattison

Carnegie Music Hall

PROGRAM:

Overture to "The Magic Flute" ..... Mozart-Busoni
Prelude, Fugue and Variation ..... Cesar Franck
Rondo in C Major ..... Chopin
Heroical Fountains ..... Pattison
Fantasie and Fugue in A Minor ..... Bach-Bauer
Three Little Pieces ..... Stravinsky
Melodie
Balalaika
Galop
Pinwheels ..... Duvernoy
Standing Before the Ruins of Rheims Cathedral ..... Casella
Scherzo ..... Arensky
The "Beautiful Blue Danube" Waltzes ..... Strauss-Civalns

The Art Society presented Guy Maier and Lee Pattison in a two-piano recital in Carnegie Hall last night, which, on occasion, came perilously near small-town entertainment. There was a very cordial audience, and it seemed to enjoy the entire program.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The music offered was decidedly better than on previous occasions. The Mozart overture lends itself very well to this type of arrangement, although its technique suggests the pianola. Franck's suite is new to these concerts and very welcome. Unannounced it would rarely suggest its composer. Harold Bauer's arrangement of the Fantasy and Fugue suggests little of Bach, unless we recognize the fugue theme, or was it the players' jazzy spirit? Stravinsky offered three very entertaining pieces for sophisticated children. Cacella's war film was a somber picture.

Mr. Maier's arrangement of the Schumann Scherzo is the most successful contribution he has made to two-piano literature, and Mr. Pattison's "Heroical Fountains" is a most serious attempt to translate a fine poetic thought to music, the terror of a soul at death, its migrations toward eternal rest. The composer has woven a veil of mystic harmonies over lugubrious themes. There is much that suggests the dealers in atonality in the veil, much that suggests straightforward academics in the themes.

After hearing these players many times, one remains convinced that their great stock in trade is rhythm. During the Cesar Franck suite there was decidedly a change in style, a departure that gave us hope for more elasticity in their performance, a better consideration for music values, a climbing towards greater artistry.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

KURT PAUR TUESDAY MUSICAL CLUB

Sonata B flat Minor ..... Chopin
Sei Mir Gegruesst ..... Schubert-Liszt
Spring Night ..... Schumann-Liszt
May Breeze ..... Mendelssohn
Spinning Song ..... Mendelssohn
Scherzo ..... D'Albert
Rhapsodie C Major ..... Dohnanyi
Impromptu ..... Liadow
Watteau Paysage ..... Godowsky
Au Bord d'un Source ..... Liszt
Tarantella ..... Liszt

The Tuesday Musical Club heard another of its artist programs in Soldiers Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon, a piano recital by Kurt Paur.

Mr. Paur is identified with Pittsburgh through his father, the last conductor with the former Pittsburgh Orchestra. The son has inherited much of his father's reverence or sane piano playing, and knows how to choose a program of taste and variety. His interpretations are based on the best traditions, making his audience feel the presence of great music rather than of a virtuoso.

Wife Has Seller Of Cold 'Cure' Arrested

SHARON, Pa., Nov. 20.—Because a friend's wife objected to her husband trying to cure his cold by drinking whisky, Harry Elling has been fined for selling liquor.

Elling, at the request of his friends, secured a quart of liquor for him. When the husband started the cold "cure" the wife notified county authorities.

PASTOR-RAIDER BRIBE SUSPECT

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Charges of bribery against a Federal prohibition agent who also is pastor of a Baptist church here were investigated by a Federal grand jury on instructions of Judge Charles I. Dawson, but the jury adjourned without making a report.

The investigation of the agent, the Rev. Allie W. Leigh, followed the filing of three affidavits charging he accepted bribes from bootleggers. Judge Dawson warned the jurors to use extreme care to determine whether the charges had been made through personal spite, political enmity or any form of prejudice.

Leigh has been a prohibition agent for the last several years and has been probably the most zealous in this section. He was formerly chief of police here.

Parkway Trucks All Within Limit

On motion of John S. Herron, Bailey was asked to report to Council whether the city ever prosecuted violators of the truck loading regulations.

Kostja Nikpetosh Is a Russian Peasant

Kostja is a peasant of the new generation—a worker for the New Russia, a more efficient and harder worker than his ancestors were. He spends many of his spare hours, especially during the cold, cruel winters, making nests of dolls and balls and inkwells, assisted by his wife, Helnikita.

After completing a number of these articles, he takes them to the Soviet Government, which buys them from him. He feels a cheering glow of pride in knowing that many of them are sent to America, where they are eagerly bought by admiring gift-seekers.

WILKINS WORKS ON PLANES

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS,
Commander of the Second Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

DECEPTION ISLANDS, Antarctica, Nov. 20 (via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station).—Our Lockheed machines appear like things of the air again. Stripped of their wings they looked forlorn, but, during the first calm spell since our arrival, 20 sturdy Norwegian whalers carried the wings from the storehouse and set them on the fuselages, and tonight the planes are practically assembled.

There has been persistent bad weather ever since we landed, yet, working under tarpaulins, the engines have been overhauled. Two days' work adjusting the controls, etc., should see the planes ready for flight.

The steamship William Scoresby has been placed at our disposal by the British colonial office. She arrived at Deception Islands today. She will continue her routine scientific research, yet will remain within call should we need her to establish our base still further south.

Why Drug the Stomach?

The great clearing house of a man's body is the blood stream, and the stronger each cell is fortified by good food, oxygen and exercise, the stronger will be the bodily resistance (when sick). If we carry more oxygen, thereby increasing the vital resistance of weak organs, we overcome that which has been inherited or carried on by excess and abuse, forcing all the laws of nature to comply with the demands of every weak organ. Health, energy, power and vitality can only be obtained and sustained by the blood cell. This cardinal principle enters the blood cell protein serums which your body is born from and lives and dies for the want of. If there is a deficiency or lost vitality, languor, despondency and debility, you must enrich the blood in order to increase nutrition and permanent results will be obtained. No secret methods employed; no Doctor charges for administration of blood cell serums. Talk to the patients, themselves, which is the best evidence that can be submitted to you. Laboratory examination of blood and urine, Free. Over 35,000 treated at this Laboratory.

Breathe its delightful vapor . . breathe your cold away

VAPEX IS SO SIMPLE AND PLEASANT TO USE . . . SIMPLY PUT A DROP ON YOUR HANDKERCHIEF

ALL DAY LONG, wherever you are, you can breathe the delightful Vapex vapor and feel your head clear in an instant. Swiftly and surely, Vapex breaks up congestion. . . . The secret of this remarkably quick relief that Vapex gives is its high concentration. The formula is so complex that it is impossible to imitate it, and that formula has been jealously guarded since the discovery of Vapex during a war-time influenza epidemic in England. . . . This high concentration in Vapex also makes it very convenient and economical to use. Just a drop on your handkerchief in the morning gives you relief for the whole day. The healing vapor keeps its strength. At night a drop at each end of your pillow lets you sleep—with a clear head and unobstructed breathing. Ideal for children because it is so simple and so convenient. . . . Vapex actually costs only 2c an application. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications. Always insist on V-A-P-E-X; you can easily recognize it by its trim white box with the green triangle. Do not accept a cheaper substitute. . . . Vapex is distributed in the United States by E. Fougera & Company, Incorporated, New York City.

Thrift Means Measuring Values

James Hammond
President
Gimbel Brothers

As President of a large department store, Mr. James Hammond is well able to speak on Thrift. For, continually in contact with the vast amount of buying and selling that is a daily part of our modern life, he sees at first hand the advantages of living within one's income and using money carefully not only in buying goods but also in saving certain amounts regularly to buy future happiness and security. Beginning his career in the position of bank clerk at the humble salary of $35 a month, Mr. Hammond has climbed the ladder of success by applying the principles of thrift and industry to whatever he has to do. He is now President of Gimbel Brothers, Pittsburgh; Vice President of Gimbel Brothers, Incorporated; and Director in several other companies.

In presenting this series of editorials, the Union Savings Bank hopes to show the value which Pittsburgh's leading business and professional men put upon Thrift and Saving.

In addition to Savings Accounts, many men and women find it a convenience as well as a safeguard to pay all household and personal bills by check. The Union Savings Bank will be glad to have you open a Checking Account and try this plan.

ONE of the happiest signs of the times is the new measuring of values by all classes of people. Thrift is applied not only in daily expenditures but also in setting aside a well-defined portion of the income in a savings account. The thrift habit is a driving force. It disciplines the mind, focuses attention, and helps men scale the heights of attainment that otherwise might not be reached. Tomorrow's economically secure men, I might say tomorrow's outstandingly successful men, are those who today are learning to put aside a portion of every dollar earned. Men and women who force themselves to the thrift habit are surely throwing rainbows across their lives.

NUMBER 4 OF A SERIES

Have You $1000?

If not, how would you like to have that amount?

One of our sixteen "Prosperity Handbooks" is entitled "How to Get your first $1000." It not only tells you how, but also shows you how to go on to other, higher goals.

Many of our savers are on their way to their first $1000 goal. We want to help them get there. That is why we offer this Handbook.

If it can help you, or some one in whom you are interested, ask at Window Number 7, in the bank lobby for "Handbook Number 8."

While there, inquire also for folder describing all of our sixteen "Prosperity Handbooks." Boys, girls, fathers, mothers, industrial workers, clerks, stenographers,—there is a "Prosperity Handbook" that fits right into the hopes and aspirations of every individual.

A Bank prospers when its depositors get ahead in the world. It is quite logical, therefore, for this Bank to offer guidance and encouragment to its great family of depositors.

"How can I reach the goal of Independence?" Here is one bank that can give its depositors the answer in a neatly printed pocket guide, which they may study at leisure. Ask at Window Number 7 for a descriptive list of our "Prosperity Handbooks."

If you are not now a depositor with us, we invite you to open an account.

Senators Debate Wilson's Contest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The Senate subcommittee considering the contest of William B. Wilson, former Democratic secretary of labor, for the seat to which William S. Vare, his Republican opponent, was elected in Pennsylvania in 1926 on face of returns, met last night but reached no decision.

Chairman Waterman said another meeting would be called soon and meanwhile the five committee members would go over the voluminous record of the hearings.

Police Investigating University Rioting

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(INS.)—Police and university action was to be taken today as a result of a riot by Columbia University undergraduates following a tug-of-war between first and second year men.

William K. Love, 18, a freshman, and the Rev. Herbert E. Evans, campus religious adviser, were to appear in court today and tell what they know of the demonstration in which traffic was blocked for hours and scores of street car windows broken.

DOWIE'S WIDOW TO LEAD REVOLT

ZION, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Alexander Dowie, widow of the founder of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church, has accepted an invitation to return to Zion, seat of the church, and lead the group that opposes the overseership of Wilbur Glenn Voliva.

Mrs. Dowie wrote yesterday from Greensburg, O., she said she was convinced the healing power of her late husband had been transmitted to her. She plans to conduct services in Bethesda House, headquarters of the "Indepndents," and bless and lay hands on the afflicted who wish to be healed, her friends said.

There are about 100 in the group opposing the overseership of Voliva, who succeeded to leadership upon the death of Alexander Dowie.

INSURANCE SUIT WON BY WIDOW

Mrs. Nell F. Cupp, of Johnstown, Pa., won her fight in Federal Court today to collect life insurance carried by her husband, who was slain.

A jury awarded her $6,554.25, representing the face of the policy, with interest, held by her husband, George Cupp, who was shot to death in an alley the night before Halloween, 1928.

The United Commercial Travelers of America, defendant, had refused to pay the insurance on the ground that Cupp was the victim of "malice murder," which released the company from liability. The complainant contended that robbery was the motive in his slaying.

When Food Won't Digest

suspect Acid Stomach

Perhaps you need MILK OF MAGNESIA

WHAT is usually known as "indigestion" is, in most cases, a sign of excess acid in the stomach. The alkaline balance of your system is upset. Food will continue to sour as long as you neglect this condition. And there is no use neglecting it when it is so easily corrected. Nature has given us the way to avoid gastric disorders caused by an acid stomach. Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

It is sometimes possible to diet your way out of the difficulty. But it takes time even to see whether you can or not. Phillips Milk of Magnesia counteracts the excess acid in a few moments; it brings relief at once. Heartburn, nausea stop in a hurry. All that gas, that unpleasant sense of fullness, those pangs of so-called "indigestion," simply vanish with the use of magnesia. Make no mistake, however, as to the best form of magnesia! Authorities that you cannot question have pronounced Phillips Milk of Magnesia the most perfect formula. Its form is the most effective in the opinion of the U. S. Dispensatory. A delightful product to take. It neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It is alkaline, its action is thorough, and you can't think of anything more soothing to an ailing stomach. Nor is anything half so good, yet harmless to a child of tender age. This perfect anti-acid has also gentle laxative properties; it cleanses and sweetens the entire digestive tract without any of the disturbance common to strong cathartics.

There is only one form of milk of magnesia; it's a liquid, and comes in a bottle. But it takes more than a blue bottle to make Phillips Milk of Magnesia—so get the genuine with Phillips on the wrapper!

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

Pittsburgh Champions Sing In Radio Test Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

TWO Pittsburghers will pit their voices against the cream of singers in the Northeastern part of the United States tonight at 6 o'clock when 30 state champions gather in the WEAF studios for the Atwater Kent Audition.

Two voices will be selected, one a girl and one a boy, and Pittsburgh fans have confidence that these two fortunates will be Julius von Spindler Huehn, a bass-baritone, and Esther B. Edmundson, a soprano. Huehn and Miss Edmundson won the Western Pennsylvania finals, conducted by WCAE some weeks ago.

Winners tonight will be termed district champions. They will compete with 18 other district champions for the $25,000 cash awards and the 10 musical scholarships provided by the Atwater Kent Foundation.

Tonight's contest, lasting two hours, will be broadcast in Pittsburgh by WCAE.

Broadcasting equipment temporarily installed on the deck of "Old Ironsides," in dry dock at Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston, will bring us, through KDKA at 9:30, a pretentious celebration.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Gov. Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, and Rear Admiral Philip Andrews will do the talking while the Aleppo Masonic Band, Boston Symphony Orchestra, Navy Band and a soprano chorus of 12 will round out the entertainment bill. If time permits, a short dramatic sketch, "Old Ironsides in the Tripoli Campaign Against Barbary Pirates," will be presented.

We Now Present

Of 22 announcers on the NBC staff, nine are baritone soloists. Pittsburgh has a better record. All four announcers at WCAE are baritones—Fred Webber, C. Herbert McGee, Paul Grine and C. A. Reger.

Phillips H. Lord, radio's "Seth Parker," received a check from a listener recently. It went to buy a beefsteak dinner for a family in an East Side tenement.

In the absence of C. A. Reger, who was called to his home in West Virginia by the sudden death of his mother, C. Herbert McGee is substituting for "Uncle Gimbee" at WCAE.

HAIL! Donald Rickey Farren—eight pounds—makes his debut in the home of "Bill" Farren. Cigars are in order.

Olive May, the original "Radio Sunshine Girl" appearing as the prima donna in "Believe It or Not" at Loew's Penn, will be featured on Fairfax program through WJAS at 6:30 tonight.

How many remember Grace Israel, the "Sunshine Girl" at WCAE in the early days? She was Cousin Lora's predecessor.

The thousand dollar-a-minute radio rate still prevails for Sir Harry Lauder, who will receive $30,000 for his half hour performance over the WEAF network on December 1.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

To protect night aviators flying between Pittsburgh and Cleveland, WTAM engineers have brilliantly illuminated the new aerials at Breckville, O. Breckville is near the Cleveland airport. The mammoth aerial has also become an ultra fine perch for birds who are fed with bread crumbs daily by Engineer C. C. Russell.

Bryce Delays Business, But Guy Determines to Make Good

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, pert, young, demi-brunette, sees her little brother, Dickie, fall to rise after a dive in the lake. Pat brings up the apparently lifeless body. All hope seems gone when suddenly an airplane sweeps down out of the sky. Pat's father arrives with Guy Elliott, a tall, handsome youth as pilot. Quick action follows and Dickie recovers. Later Elliott kisses and takes Pat for an air ride. Happy days follow, with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce with the seductive lure of shadowy eyes. She is the widow of young William Bryce, whose father owns the airplane factory where Guy works. While trying out her new plane, Barbara has an accident but is saved. In the excitement, Guy forgets an appointment with Pat. Later, while airplaning with Guy, Pat has a glimpse of Barbara in another plane. Pat marvels at Barbara's beauty and wonders if Guy is moved by it. Later, Guy receives a visit from Barbara and her young son, upon whom old Bryce squanders a fortune. Tom Burns, a workman, rages about the unfairness of wealth. His invalid son is dying for want of necessities. When Bryce refuses a loan, Burns leaves swearing revenge. The next night, in the factory, Guy hears a stealthy footstep. It is Burns, who has robbed the safe. He is captured by the watchman and arrested. Bryce refuses to intercede for Burns and he is put in prison. In Pat's home preparations are being made for her to enter college. Hearing much gossip about the youth of today, Mrs. Dawn prays that Pat will remain the sweet girl she is. Pat is happy when her dad buys her a new automobile.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIII.

GORGEOUS and romantic things would now happen to her. She would be courted—oh, joyously wooed. Thrilling young men would strew her path with flowers. This was Pat's dream of college.

And in the next few weeks it gave vivid promise of fulfillment. She found herself riding on a sparkling tide of gaiety—rushing off to teas, to dinners, to dances, the little home audience excited and applauding. Mr. Dickie ran errands for her, told her what kind of lipstick to use, criticized the wave of her hair, the shine on her nails and was generally a most invaluable aid. Laura took last-minute stitches in shimmery new gowns while Richard lazed at the door, whimsically smoking and winking at his "two women."

He teased Pat. Would it be Lee, now? Or was she true to Guy? Lee Templeton, a golden youth whose boyish sweetness intrigued Pat, was already openly in love.

"Oh," said he one night to Pat, "I wish I'd never done anything in all my life that you wouldn't like."

"And have you?" said the girl, touched and saddened.

"Well, somewhat," the boy answered, blushing and pinching Pat's fingers. "I wish I could wipe it all out. I wish I was as fine as I ought to be for YOU, Pat."

To the depths of her pure young heart the confession stirred Pat.

When Lee's big sporting car came dashing up to the hedge and Dickie looked out with enormous eyes and commented: "Gee, you seem to be a winner alright." Pat was young enough to be swept from her feet.

Came the evening of Lee's fraternity dance. Always afterward Pat called it "the evening of the gardenias." Such a corsage as he sent! Gardenias and lilies of the valley—a glorious shower that fell from the shoulder and went clear to her waist both in the back and front.

There was a very, very youthful note: "Pat, you're sweet, you're white like these. Pat, you're SO different."

Pat didn't mind the platitude. She lifted the flowers and pinned them with tender delight on her shoulder. The soft petals touched her throat; perfume came in a little drift about her face. The lilies were so delicate; the gardenias so thrillingly white.

She stood looking at their fragile beauty. And at herself. They lent a touch of ethereal loveliness to her face; gave her skin a kind of waxy radiance. Her eyes shone; they were green glowing stars. Pat ran her hand dreamily over the wave of her soft, shiny brown hair. She thought almost with pain:

"How beautiful they are—oh, how beautiful everything is!"

Her mother's voice cut through the delicious reverie:

"Oh, Pat, you won't wear them, will you? Why don't you take them in the box? They'll be all crushed in that long drive down."

"I was just trying them on," said the girl, absently. "I wanted dad to see me in all my glory. I'll run down now."

She was about to call her father in from the garage when Dickie came flinging excitedly across the patio and into the living room.

"Guy—?"

"Well, look! There he is!"

"Oh, you're going out?"

He was staring at her fixedly; at her dewy eyes and at the radiant corsage, so white against the shimmering green satin. He said softly:

"They suit you, Pat, they bring you out. You look like something out of a picture."

"Oh, Guy, why didn't I know you were coming? Why didn't you come last night?"

"I couldn't. I've been working nights. Don't be disturbed, little Pat."

He went up and took her hand.

She looked into his brown, aquiline face, into his dark hazel eyes. He had never looked so queer—and never before had he seemed so lean and strong. A kind of dark glory about him.

"Pat, walk down to the hedge with me. You have time, haven't you? Say goodby before you go." He still held her hand and now drew her.

They crossed the dark patio. They came to the hedge—to that little grove of trees.

"Pat," said he, reaching for her other hand and turning her to him, "do you know how beautiful you are tonight?"

She glanced up to him, seeking him with a little touch of fear. "Why are you so solemn? Guy, you seem not yourself."

Her face with those extraordinary emerald eyes, glowed in the moonlight. She had her hair parted on the side and it went rippling in shiny waves that left her small ears half exposed. She looked almost pitifully young with that round, smooth forehead, the small tilted nose and those curved, half-parted lips.

"And you, Pat, seem more yourself. You're heightened. Pat, tell me—I wish you'd tell me. Is he THE ONE—the great ONE? And you've found him already?"

She reached up and touched the scar on his forehead. As though she were in a dream, she drew his face down and kissed the red mark. She said softly, slowly:

"No. He's not the one."

He kept his head lowered a moment. All at once he gave a queer laugh. He said in an oddly shaken voice:

"I don't want to muss you. Oh, Pat, dear—"

He slipped an arm about her and drew her so close that she felt the beating of his heart. He kissed her—he seemed drawing her breath and her soul. Then he murmured:

"Now, I've marked you forever, Pat. Your lips are mine."

She had her two hands in his and held against him. And she stood there quiet, her eyes closed and felt her whole being flowing out in light—in a great flowing light to him.

"Go in now, Pat, dear."

"No, I'll wait and wave you goodby."

Long after his car had vanished down the road, Pat stood there in a dream. She wished the shadows would close about her—wished Guy would return and the shadows would close them in—like this—always.

Guy drove quickly. He went back to his workroom. He whistled and Jim came up and licked his hand. He said with a deep, harsh breath:

"We did it, Jim. We had no right to—but we did it."

And for a long while, he sat with his legs crossed and his hand moodily resting on the setter's patient head.

More beautiful than anything he had yet known seemed that touch of her lips on his forehead—on that red, ugly mark. She had kissed it.

Her face as it seemed in the moonlight went before him. Piquant and beautiful—so passionate and pure and sweet.

"I love her," he said softly...

And when the dog, hearing his voice, came up and rubbed his nose against Guy's knee, he reached down with a laugh and repeated:

"I love her, Jim!"

After a long while he turned to a letter on his table. It was from William Bryce:

"Guy—I've not been out to the plant, as you know. This building has been keeping me busier by far than I expected. It will be a month or two before I've really gotten out from under. I think it best that we hold back a little on the plane."

"He's in deep on this fool residence park," Nancy Brack had informed Guy, "and real estate's gone into a slump. You're lucky, Guy, if he doesn't close down on you altogether."

Guy took the letter and put it in his pocket. "I'll make the grade—I've got to make the grade."

He looked at a flower that lay on the desk before him—one of the lilies—she had given it to him. He smelt it—he laughed and pressed it to his lips. Then very carefully tucked it in his vest pocket.

By FAY KING

HOW MANY girls can keep from bursting out into shrieks of laughter when a married man tells her that his wife does not understand him is beyond my comprehension.

Nobody ever understands him better.

No husband ever fooled his wife for one minute, though she may let him think he did.

If some of these foolish girls who so blindly believe all their married boy friends tell them, could see them at home they would not waste heart aches over them.

No woman was ever won over to any man except that he convinced her he really loved her.

He won his wife.

The wife he married in his youth will always have had the best years of his life.

Nothing changes that!

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mother Graham's Tantrum Subsides

IF Queen Elizabeth had been told that someone was to affix her signature to papers of state, she could not have been more royally affronted than was my mother-in-law when I told her that I had given a set of household keys to Katherine.

For a second she stood absolutely motionless, as if stunned. Then she drew herself up to her full height, while what Dicky irreverently calls her "tied-to-the stake" look came into her eyes.

"I thought there would be something like this," she said slowly and with quite terrific dignity. "You are turning over the authority of this house to Mrs. Bickett, not to me. Of course, you are within your rights, the farmhouse, after all, belongs to your father, it is not Richard's, we all are here really upon sufferance. But Richard Second is my grandchild, and I have taken the burden of care of him for years. It seems to me that common decency would have kept you from offering this insult to me even if you do deem me too old and senile to be capable of directing a household any longer."

Much of her tirade was irritating familiar to me, but there was a mournful cadence investing the words "old and senile" which clutched at my heart, and sent me to my mother-in-law's side with a genuine affectionate sympathy. In her ordinary tantrums, I keep my distance and pray for grace not to answer her sometimes maddening strictures. I always know that any show of softness upon my part would only feed her ill humor and egg her on to further scolding. But I felt upon this occasion she was in a distinctly different mood, one bitterly grieved, and acting upon that intutition, I took her into a close and loving embrace before she had fairly finished speaking.

"Please! Mother!" I said softly. "Don't be angry at me when I'm going away tomorrow. Please believe that I meant absolutely no disrespect to you by giving Katherine a set of keys. You are the chatelaine of the farmhouse. She understands that, and so does Katie. But she will relieve you of much of the burden of seeing to things—you know you ought to have your naps regularly and your drives—and Katherine will always be at your call. But it really isn't fair to her or to you to have only the one set of keys. She might need something for Junior, for instance, very badly some time when you were asleep or away. Won't you see my position, and realize that there is no thought of disrespect to you or of weakening your authority?"

She had slumped against me and was softly weeping, the childish pathetic tears of old age. But at my query, she straightened, stepped back a pace, and smiled, a bit grimly, but with perfect good humor. It was the sudden transition which so often marks Dicky's tantrums, and I realized anew that it was as much an inheritance of his as the shape of his nose.

"You should have been a lawyer, Margaret," she told me. "But after all," with ludricous loftiness, "it is a very small matter to bother about. Let her have the keys, by all means, if trailing them around will make her feel any better."

"Of course, I will speak to Katie," I said hastily, "and tell her—"

"You will do nothing of the kind," she retorted promptly, drawing herself up to her full height. "When I need anyone's assistance to manage that ape, I'll let you know. You'll find a different girl when you come back in the spring. All I ask is that Mrs. Bickett does not attempt to interfere with my discipline."

"Oh! I'm sure she won't," I said hastiily, choking back a laugh at the remembrance of the plan of campaign which my little kinswoman had smilingly outlined to me but a day or two before.

"The only possible way of getting along with Mother Graham is to let her hold the big doll all the time," Katherine had said. "Once she is convinced that she is doing that, she is most tractable. Katie and I understand each other. She knows that she is to keep on with the tactics you have used so successfully. She is never to dispute an order Mother Graham gives her, but she is to come to me as she always has done to you to find out whether it is possible to obey it or whether she must use judicious camouflage."

With the remembrance of Katherine's words and my knowledge of her infinite patience and resourcefulness, I was able to make my assurance as to her non-interference sound most convincing, and my mother-in-law nodded sagely.

"You just leave everything to me," she said with a satisfied little smile. "You can go away with not a single worry on your mind about things here. And the Lord knows you'll have enough to worry you in there. That Veritzen man in himself will be enough to send you to an insane asylum if you don't look out."

She was looking at me significantly, and I felt the hot blood rush to my cheeks at her reference. What would my terrifying mother-in-law say next?

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

In Referring to the Husband or Wife

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please tell me through your column why some men in speaking of their wives never say "my wife" but say Mrs. Smith?" Which is proper and why? The same applies to husbands also. Is "my wife" or "my husband" a common phrase? L. S.

WHEN a man speaks of his wife to a friend or to a person who either calls his wife by her first name or might at some time call her by her first name, he should refer to her as "my wife" or "Mary." And the same idea also applies when the wife speaks of her husband; she says "my husband" or "John." The only time that the husband says "Mrs. Smith" or that the wife says "Mr. Smith" is when either is speaking to a tradesman, for instance, or to a servant.

Paying Car Fares

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

If you chance to meet a girl friend's brother or any other young man whom you know only as a neighbor, and he pays your car fare, is it more gracious to say "thank you" or just let the incident go by? F. I.

YOUR question is a "double-header," for there are two questions involved.

No generous impulse of this kind should be allowed to go unacknowledged by an expression of thanks.

The young man meant to show you a courtesy and you should show your appreciation of that kindness by a gracious "thank you."

There is another question involved here. It is good form not to accept or allow a man to pay your car fare when you meet him by chance, and a man should not offer to pay it.

The Engagement Ring Finger

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

On which hand is the engagement ring worn? A friend of mine was told by a jeweler that it is worn on the right hand. I always thought it is worn on the left hand. B.

LIKE you, I have never heard of the engagement ring being worn on the right hand. I think that your friend must have misunderstood in some way—don't you? Anyway, the engagement ring is always worn on the third finger of the left hand.

Lovers—and Others

A SUPER-WOMAN is one who can win an argument with a man—and then get him to say that he loves her.

A man's wife is something like the Equator; in a subconscious way, he knows she's there—but he can look right at her without seeing her.

What no woman can understand is why a man will spend weeks trying to wedge his way into a girl's affections—and then, suddenly turn around in a panic and try to squirm out of them.

* * *

The shyest man on earth never doubts but SOME woman wants to marry him. The shyest man in the world will "shy" at anything that is thrown at his head—particularly if it happens to be a woman.

HELEN ROWLAND

Infatuation, like paralysis, is so often all on one side.

Here's to that woman-politician, who boasts that she has been happily married to the same man for over 30 years! It takes far more courage to go on living with the average man, than to walk out to a good-looking lawyer and spill your tears and your troubles all over his deck.

It's hard for a man to forget a woman's beauty—especially, when she leaves most of it on his coat lapel.

A bachelor should always be a cheerful loser. He can lose at cards, without having to explain to anybody; he can lose an argument without having to start it all over again, next morning; and he can lose a woman, without having to pay alimony.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Defective Hearing a Barrier to Progress

THERE is a "week" for this and another for that. "Apple Week," "Clean-up Week"—you know all about such weeks.

Last spring there was observed the first of the "National Hearing" weeks. This was devoted largely to the children and was intended to point out the significance of deafness as a handicap in child life.

It has been difficult to overcome the inertia of the public. Deafness has been accepted as inevitable. It is common to hear about deafness in children. "It will be outgrown." "It is useless to attempt a cure."

When we find out this defect is widespread, then it is we become alarmed about it. At the suggestion of the Bureau of Education of the United States Department of the Interior, certain surveys were undertaken to find out something approaching the facts. The report is astonishing and disconcerting. It shows that in the United States alone there are more than three millions of children who have impaired hearing. That is terrible!

Of course, there are different degrees of deafness. It may be so slight as to be unsuspected by the child. But sooner or later it becomes a positive barrier to progress.

No one need to be told what disadvantages are suffered by a deaf child. His education is affected, of course. Serious economic and social problems are created.

Deafness has a distressing effect upon the disposition. Many a deaf child becomes morose and retiring. He cannot hear his teacher. His contacts with other children are made difficult. He does not progress in school. He lags in his classes and pretty soon drops out of school.

But now his trouble has just started. Deafness is a dreadful handicap for one who must earn a living. Employment is hard to get and harder to keep.

Perhaps the best advice I can give in this brief article is to advise that every child suspected of deafness be given a careful examination by somebody competent to determine exactly what is wrong. It is by neglect that the ailment grows serious. In its beginning it may well be that appropriate treatment will bring about full recovery.

Deafness is an embarrassment to the afflicted, to his family and associates. It should be overcome if possible. I am glad there are organizations like the Los Angeles League for the Hard of Hearing, organizations spreading information intended to help in the prevention and relief of deafness.

Answers to Health Queries

T. U. Q.—What do you advise for superfluous hair on a young girl's lip?

A.—The electric needle is often most helpful, but the treatment must be given by an expert in this particular kind of work.

A. C. R. Q.—Is ginger fattening?

2—Why is it that I cannot seem to lose any more weight? I have lost 14 pounds, but have remained at the same weight for several weeks although I am following the same diet. I lost three pounds a week when I first started to diet.

A.—No, but should not be taken in excess.

2—If you are following the same diet you should continue to notice results. You may be about the right weight for your age and height at this time.

Comfort so perfect

that you can forget you wear this sanitary pad

Today women prefer Kotex... the sanitary pad that gives comfort and freedom... in place of old handicaps and discomforts

HOW discomforting it is to be conscious of sanitary protection! And so unnecessary today, as millions of Kotex users can tell you.

These millions of women consider Kotex an absolute necessity. It gives you such wonderful comfort...permits such easy freedom of motion... that you can completely forget you wear it!

Why Kotex is comfortable

There are special reasons why this is possible in Kotex.

First of all, Kotex is wonderfully light and cool because it is made of that wonderful substance... Cellucotton absorbent wadding. It absorbs 5 times more than an equal weight of cotton!... thus giving protection without bulk.

And Kotex keeps its delicate softness. It simply cannot pack. Many air-cooled layers keep Kotex delicate though worn for hours.

Kotex conforms to body outlines, There's no awkward bulk. Corners are rounded and tapered. This adds to comfort, and makes Kotex inconspicuous.

Preferred by hospitals

A striking proof of Kotex superiority is the fact that 85% of the leading hospitals use Cellucotton for absorptive purposes. Doctors prefer it for its absorbency and vastly greater comfort.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure ... keeps your mind at ease.

3—Fastidious ... the sign of true daintiness.

4—In hospitals ... Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in 5% of the country's leading hospitals.

5—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a patented process.

Kotex—45c for 12—at any drug, dry goods or department store.

Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12.

Senators Debate Wilson's Contest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The Senate subcommittee considering the contest of William B. Wilson, former Democratic secretary of labor, for the seat to which William S. Vare, his Republican opponent, was elected in Pennsylvania in 1926 on face of returns, met last night but reached no decision.

Chairman Waterman said another meeting would be called soon and meanwhile the five committee members would go over the voluminous record of the hearings.

CHAPTER XIII.

GORGEOUS and romantic things would now happen to her. She would be courted—oh, joyously wooed. Thrilling young men would strew her path with flowers. This was Pat's dream of college.

And in the next few weeks it gave vivid promise of fulfillment. She found herself riding on a sparkling tide of gaiety—rushing off to teas, to dinners, to dances, the little home audience excited and applauding. Mr. Dickie ran errands for her, told her what kind of lipstick to use, criticized the wave of her hair, the shine on her nails and was generally a most invaluable aid. Laura took last-minute stitches in shimmery new gowns while Richard lazed at the door, whimsically smoking and winking at his "two women."

He teased Pat. Would it be Lee, now? Or was she true to Guy? Lee Templeton, a golden youth whose boyish sweetness intrigued Pat, was already openly in love.

"Oh," said he one night to Pat, "I wish I'd never done anything in all my life that you wouldn't like."

"And have you?" said the girl, touched and saddened.

"Well, somewhat," the boy answered, blushing and pinching Pat's fingers. "I wish I could wipe it all out. I wish I was as fine as I ought to be for YOU, Pat."

To the depths of her pure young heart the confession stirred Pat.

When Lee's big sporting car came dashing up to the hedge and Dickie looked out with enormous eyes and commented: "Gee, you seem to be a winner alright," Pat was young enough to be swept from her feet.

Came the evening of Lee's fraternity dance. Always afterward Pat called it "the evening of the gardenias." Such a corsage as he sent! Gardenias and lilies of the valley—a glorious shower that fell from the shoulder and went clear to her waist both in the back and front.

There was a very, very youthful note: "Pat, you're sweet, you're white like these. Pat, you're SO different."

Pat didn't mind the platitude. She lifted the flowers and pinned them with tender delight on her shoulder. The soft petals touched her throat; perfume came in a little drift about her face. The lilies were so delicate; the gardenias so thrillingly white.

She stood looking at their fragile beauty. And at herself. They lent a touch of ethereal loveliness to her face; gave her skin a kind of waxy radiance. Her eyes shone; they were green glowing stars. Pat ran her hand dreamily over the wave of her soft, shiny brown hair. She thought almost with pain:

"How beautiful they are—oh, how beautiful everything is!"

Her mother's voice cut through the delicious reverie:

"Oh, Pat, you won't wear them, will you? Why don't you take them in the box? They'll be all crushed in that long drive down."

"I was just trying them on," said the girl, absently. "I wanted dad to see me in all my glory. I'll run down now."

She was about to call her father in from the garage when Dickie came flinging excitedly across the patio and into the living room.

"Guy—?"

"Well, look! There he is!"

"Oh, you're going out?"

He was staring at her fixedly; at her dewy eyes and at the radiant corsage, so white against the shimmering green satin. He said softly:

"They suit you, Pat, they bring you out. You look like something out of a picture."

"Oh, Guy, why didn't I know you were coming? Why didn't you come last night?"

He went up and took her hand.

She looked into his brown, aquiline face, into his dark hazel eyes. He had never looked queer—and never before had he seemed so lean and strong. A kind of dark glory about him.

"Pat, walk down to the hedge with me. You have time, haven't you? Say goodby before you go." He still held her hand and now drew her.

They crossed the dark patio. They came to the hedge—to that little grove of trees.

"Pat," said he, reaching for her other hand and turning her to him, "do you know how beautiful you are tonight?"

She glanced up to him, seeking him with a little touch of fear. "Why are you so solemn? Guy, you seem not yourself."

Her face with those extraordinary emerald eyes, glowed in the moonlight. She had her hair parted on the side and it went rippling in shiny waves that left her small ears half exposed. She looked almost pitifully young with that round, smooth forehead, the small tilted nose and those curved, half-parted lips.

"And you, Pat, seem more yourself. You're heightened. Pat, tell me—I wish you'd tell me. Is he THE ONE—the great ONE? And you've found him already?"

She reached up and touched the scar on his forehead. As though she were in a dream, she drew his face down and kissed the red mark. She said softly, slowly:

"No. He's not the one."

He kept his head lowered a moment. All at once he gave a queer laugh. He said in an oddly shaken voice:

"I don't want to muss you. Oh, Pat, dear—"

He slipped an arm about her and drew her so close that she felt the beating of his heart. He kissed her—he seemed drawing her breath and her soul. Then he murmured:

"Now, I've marked you forever, Pat. Your lips are mine."

She had her two hands in his and held against him. And she stood there quiet, her eyes closed and felt her whole being flowing out in light—in a great flowing light to him.

"Go in now, Pat, dear."

"No, I'll wait and wave you goodby."

Long after his car had vanished down the road, Pat stood there in a dream. She wished the shadows would close about her—wished Guy would return and the shadows would close them in—like this—always.

Guy drove quickly. He went back to his workroom. He whistled and Jim came up and licked his hand. He said with a deep, harsh breath:

"We did it, Jim. We had no right to—but we did it."

And for a long while, he sat with his legs crossed and his hand moodily resting on the setter's patient head.

More beautiful than anything he had yet known seemed that touch of her lips on his forehead—on that red, ugly mark. She had kissed it.

Her face as it seemed in the moonlight went before him. Piquant and beautiful—so passionate and pure and sweet.

"I love her," he said softly...

And when the dog, hearing his voice, came up and rubbed his nose against Guy's knee, he reached down with a laugh and repeated:

"I love her, Jim!"

After a long while he turned to a letter on his table. It was from William Bryce:

"Guy—I've not been out to the plant, as you know. This building has been keeping me busier by far than I expected. It will be a month or two before I've really gotten out from under. I think it best that we hold back a little on the plane."

"He's in deep on this fool residence park," Nancy Brack had informed Guy, "and real estate's gone into a slump. You're lucky, Guy, if he doesn't close down on you altogether."

Guy took the letter and put it in his pocket. "I'll make the grade—I've got to make the grade."

He looked at a flower that lay on the desk before him—one of the lilies—she had given it to him. He smelt it—he laughed and pressed it to his lips. Then very carefully tucked it in his vest pocket.

Pat was his—Pat and the little fragrant lily.

By FAY KING

HOW MANY girls can keep from bursting out into shrieks of laughter when a married man tells her that his wife does not understand him is beyond my comprehension.

Nobody ever understands him better.

No husband ever fooled his wife for one minute, though she may let him think he did.

If some of these foolish girls who so blindly believe all their married boy friends tell them, could see them at home they would not waste heart aches over them.

No woman was ever won over to any man except that he convinced her he really loved her.

He won his wife.

The wife he married in his youth will always have had the best years of his life.

Nothing changes that!

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mother Graham's Tantrum Subsides

IF Queen Elizabeth had been told that someone was to affix her signature to papers of state, she could not have been more royally affronted than was my mother-in-law when I told her that I had given a set of household keys to Katherine.

For a second she stood absolutely motionless, as if stunned. Then she drew herself up to her full height, while what Dicky irreverently calls her "tied-to-the stake" look came into her eyes.

"I thought there would be something like this," she said slowly and with quite terrific dignity. "You are turning over the authority of this house to Mrs. Bickett, not to me. Of course, you are within your rights, the farmhouse, after all, belongs to your father, it is not Richard's, we all are here really upon sufferance. But Richard Second is my grandchild, and I have taken the burden of care of him for years. It seems to me that common decency would have kept you from offering this insult to me even if you do deem me too old and senile to be capable of directing a household any longer."

Much of her tirade was irritating familiar to me, but there was a mournful cadence investing the words "old and senile" which clutched at my heart, and sent me to my mother-in-law's side with a genuine affectionate sympathy. In her ordinary tantrums, I keep my distance and pray for grace not to answer her sometimes maddening strictures. I always know that any show of softness upon my part would only feed her ill humor and egg her on to further scolding. But I felt upon this occasion she was in a distinctly different mood, one bitterly grieved, and acting upon that intutition, I took her into a close and loving embrace before she had fairily finished speaking.

"Please! Mother!" I said softly. "Don't be angry at me when I'm going away tomorrow. Please believe that I meant absolutely no disrespect to you by giving Katherine a set of keys. You are the chatelaine of the farmhouse. She understands that, and so does Katie. But she will relieve you of much of the burden of seeing to things—you know you ought to have your naps regularly and your drives—and Katherine will always be at your call. But it really isn't fair to her or to you to have only the one set of keys. She might need something for Junior, for instance, very badly some time when you were asleep or away. Won't you see my position, and realiize that there is no thought of disrespect to you or of weakening your authority?"

She had slumped against me and was softly weeping, the childish pathetic tears of old age. But at my query, she straightened, stepped back a pace, and smiled, a bit grimly, but with perfect good humor. It was the sudden transition which so often marks Dicky's tantrums, and I realized anew that it was as much an inheritance of his as the shape of his nose.

"You should have been a lawyer, Margaret," she told me. "But after all," with ludricous loftiness, "it is a very small matter to bother about. Let her have the keys, by all means, if trailing them around will make her feel any better."

"Of course, I will speak to Katie," I said hastily, "and tell her—"

"You will do nothing of the kind," she retorted promptly, drawing herself up to her full height. "When I need anyone's assistance to manage that ape I'll let you know. You'll find a different girl when you come back in the spring. All I ask is that Mrs. Bickett does not attempt to interfere with my discipline."

"Oh! I'm sure she won't," I said hastiily, choking back a laugh at the remembrance of the plan of campaign which my little kinswoman had smilingly outlined to me but a day or two before.

"The only possible way of getting along with Mother Graham is to let her hold the big doll all the time," Katherine had said. "Once she is convinced that she is doing that, she is most tractable. Katie and I understand each other. She knows that she is to keep on wiith the tactics you have used so successfully. She is never to dispute an order Mother Graham gives her, but she is to come to me as she always has done to you to find out whether it is possible to obey it or whether she must use judicious camouflage."

With the remembrance of Katherine's words and my knowledge of her infinite patience and resourcefulness, I was able to make my assurance as to her non-interference sound most convincing, and my mother-in-law nodded sagely.

"You just leave everything to me," she said with a satisfied little smile. "You can go away with not a single worry on your mind about things here. And the Lord knows you'll have enough to worry you in there. That Veritzen man in himself will be enough to send you to an insane asylum if you don't look out."

She was looking at me significantly, and I felt the hot blood rush to my cheeks at her reference. What would my terrifying mother-in-law say next?

The Marry-Go-Round

Lovers—and Others

A SUPER-WOMAN is one who can win an argument with a man—and then get him to say that he loves her.

* * *

What no woman can understand is why a man will spend weeks trying to wedge his way into a girl's affections—and then, suddenly turn around in a panic and try to squirm out of them.

* * *

The shyest man on earth never doubts but SOME woman wants to marry him. The shyest man in the world will "shy" at anything that is thrown at his head—particularly if it happens to be a woman.

Infatuation, like paralysis, is so often all on one side.

Here's to that woman-politician, who boasts that she has been happily married to the same man for over 30 years! It takes far more courage to go on living with the average man, than to walk out to a good-looking lawyer and spill your tears and your troubles all over his deck.

* * *

It's hard for a man to forget a woman's beauty—especially, when she leaves most of it on his coat lapel.

A bachelor should always be a cheerful loser. He can lose at cards, without having to explain to anybody; he can lose an argument without having to start it all over again, next morning; and he can lose a woman, without having to pay alimony.

"A robber demands only 'your money or your life,'" says the cynical bachelor, "but a woman always wants both!"

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

In Referring to the Husband or Wife

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please tell me through your column why some men in speaking of their wives never say "my wife" but say Mrs. Smith?" Which is proper and why? The same applies to husbands also. Is "my wife" or "my husband" a common phrase? L. S.

WHEN a man speaks of his wife to a friend or to a person who either calls his wife by her first name or might at some time call her by her first name, he should refer to her as "my wife" or "Mary." And the same idea also applies when the wife speaks of her husband; she says "my husband" or "John." The only time that the husband says "Mrs. Smith" or that the wife says "Mr. Smith" is when either is speaking to a tradesman, for instance, or to a servant

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

If you chance to meet a girl friend's brother or any other young man whom you know only as a neighbor, and he pays your car fare, is it more gracious to say "thank you" or just let the incident go by? F. I.

YOUR question is a "double-header," for there are two questions involved.

No generous impulse of this kind should be allowed to go unacknowledged by an expression of thanks.

The young man meant to show you a courtesy and you should show your appreciation of that kindness by a gracious "thank you."

There is another question involved here. It is good form not to accept or allow a man to pay your car fare when you meet him by chance, and a man should not offer to pay it.

The Engagement Ring Finger

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

On which hand is the engagement ring worn? A friend of mine was told by a jeweler that it is worn on the right hand. I always thought it is worn on the left hand. B.

LIKE you, I have never heard of the engagement ring being worn on the right hand. I think that your friend must have misunderstood in some way—don't you? Anyway, the engagement ring is always worn on the third finger of the left hand.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Defective Hearing a Barrier to Progress

THERE is a "week" for this and another for that. "Apple Week," "Clean-up Week"—you know all about such weeks.

Last spring there was observed the first of the "National Hearing" weeks. This was devoted largely to the children and was intended to point out the significance of deafness as a handicap in child life.

DR COPELAND

It has been difficult to overcome the inertia of the public. Deafness has been accepted as inevitable. It is common to hear about deafness in children. "It will be outgrown." "It is useless to attempt a cure."

When we find out this defect is widespread, then it is we become alarmed about it. At the suggestion of the Bureau of Education of the United States Department of the Interior, certain surveys were undertaken to find out something approaching the facts. The report is astonishing and disconcerting. It shows that in the United States alone there are more than three millions of children who have impaired hearing. That is terrible!

Of course, there are different degrees of deafness. It may be so slight as to be unsuspected by the child. But sooner or later it becomes a positive barrier to progress.

No one need to be told what disadvantages are suffered by a deaf child. His education is affected, of course. Serious economic and social problems are created.

Deafness has a distressing effect upon the disposition. Many a deaf child becomes morose and retiring. He cannot hear his teacher. His contacts with other children are made difficult. He does not progress in school. He lags in his classes and pretty soon drops out of school.

But now his trouble has just started. Deafness is a dreadful handicap for one who must earn a living. Employment is hard to get and harder to keep.

Perhaps the best advice I can give in this brief article is to advise that every child suspected of deafness be given a careful examination by somebody competent to determine exactly what is wrong. It is by neglect that the ailment grows serious. In its beginning it may well be that appropriate treatment will bring about full recovery.

Deafness is an embarrassment to the afflicted, to his family and associates. It should be overcome if possible. I am glad there are organizations like the Los Angeles League for the Hard of Hearing, organizations spreading information intended to help in the prevention and relief of deafness.

Answers to Health Queries

T. U. Q.—What do you advise for superfluous hair on a young girl's lip?

A.—The electric needle is often most helpful, but the treatment must be given by an expert in this particular kind of work.

A. C. R. Q.—Is ginger fattening?

2—Why is it that I cannot seem to lose any more weight? I have lost 14 pounds, but have remained at the same weight for several weeks although I am following the same diet. I lost three pounds a week when I first started to diet.

A.—No, but should not be taken in excess.

2—If you are following the same diet you should continue to notice results. You may be about the right weight for your age and height at this time.

Comfort so perfect

that you can forget you wear this sanitary pad

Today women prefer Kotex... the sanitary pad that gives comfort and freedom... in place of old handicaps and discomforts

HOW discomforting it is to be conscious of sanitary protection! And so unnecessary today, as millions of Kotex users can tell you.

These millions of women consider Kotex an absolute necessity. It gives you such wonderful comfort... permits such easy freedom of motion... that you can completely forget you wear it!

Why Kotex is comfortable

There are special reasons why this is possible in Kotex.

First of all, Kotex is wonderfully light and cool because it is made of that wonderful substance... Cellucotton absorbent wadding. It absorbs 5 times more than an equal weight of cotton!... thus giving protection without bulk.

And Kotex keeps its delicate softness. It simply cannot pack. Many air-cooled layers keep Kotex delicate though worn for hours.

Kotex conforms to body outlines, There's no awkward bulk. Corners are rounded and tapered. This adds to comfort, and makes Kotex inconspicuous.

Preferred by hospitals

A striking proof of Kotex superiority is the fact that 85% of the leading hospitals use Cellucotton for absorptive purposes. Doctors prefer it for its absorbency and vastly greater comfort.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure ... keeps your mind at ease.

3—Fastidious ... the sign of true daintiness.

4—In hospitals ... Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

5—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a patented process.

Kotex—45c for 12—at any drug, dry goods or department store. Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12.

Heavy Rains Cause Highway Detours

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 20.—Heavy rains of the past few days have caused several bad slides on highways. One at New Eagle necessitated a detour. Others in the Bentleyville and Gretna districts, the latter north of this city, have kept the maintenance department of the Highway Department busy for three days.

GUESTS SCRUB UP MR. MACK'S HOUSE AND AWAY GOES 'ATMOSPHERE'

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 20.

CHARLIE MACK is so proud of his new home up Newhall way that he invited his partner, George Moran, Mrs. Moran and Bert Swor to visit him over the week-end.

The three arrived. But no Charlie. Mack, however, sent a message tellin' 'em to take the key, go right in and make themselves ter hum. He'd be gettin' there bime by.

Now, the Black Crow's house is Spanish architect. Part of the bricks show through the stucco to give the appearance of age. Inside, the place has also been artifically aged. One feature is the smoked, old fashioned lamp chimneys, that cover the electric light globes. All told, there must be about 50 of these.

Charlie Mack.

When the Morans and Bert Swor spotted the soiled chimneys, they figured something should be done about 'em. Charlie couldn't be having that sort of thing in his new house. Whereupon the three of them shed coats, rolled up sleeves, toted the chimneys into the kitchen, and for three hours scrubbed them clean.

At the end of which time, Mack arrived. He groaned when he saw what they had done. "My Heavens, it took three days to smoke those chimneys up," he said. Whereupon, the valiant four got out candles and spent the best part of the week-end smoking the chimneys again. Fun? . . .

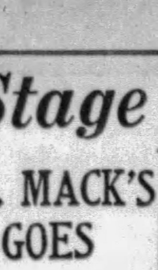
Wm. Collier, Sr., Gets Sarcastic

WILLIAM COLLIER, Sr., in the course of his long stage career, once played Waterbury, Conn. During the first act, not a ripple from the audience. Not a chuckle during the second. At the end of this act, Collier was called upon to make a curtain speech:

"I want you folks to know," he confided, "that I didn't come to your town to give a theatrical performance. I just stopped off to have my watch fixed!"

You can believe this 'un or not. But it happened.

Corinne Griffith sent her English shepherd dog to the kennels in Lankershire to be bathed and flea treated. Lankershire is approximately 40 miles from Corinne's beach home in Malibou. The dog had been brought from Beverly Hills to the beach and that was the extent of its travels.



Corinne Griffith

A man drove it to Lankershire. Just as the car reached the kennels, the dog, frightened by the new environment, leaped to the sidewalk and ran like a streak.

Two days passed. Not a sign of the dog. Corinne advertised, promising a liberal reward. No luck. On the morning of the third day, the cook opened the kitchen door to get the milk and there stood the English shepherd dog. Its four paws were bleeding. It was panting. Its eyes were blood shot. But its tail wagged gladly.

How that animal ever found its way back to Malibou 40 miles over mountains and through congested beach traffic is something Corinne can't understand. Who can? Albert Payson Terhune please write . . .

Silver Slipper Show Gets Blues Singer

Aleen Denniston, blues singer and dancer, has been added to the revue at Billy King's Silver Slipper, the new night club in the Kenyon Theater Building, Manager King announced today. It's Stupidity, Not Humidity

SHE was young and she was fair. She was one of a number of girls rehearsing dance steps for that kind of a scene for "Happy Days" over on the Fox lot. Earl Lindsay directed.

"I'm so hot and tired," the girl complained, a-libi-ing a particularly bum step.

"It isn't the heat," barked Lindsay, "It's the stupidity!"

SCREENALITIES: James Gleason's pet monkey ate stewed rhubarb. And was promptly ill. Which leads Jimmy to agree with Darwin. Rhubarb affects him — Jim, not Darwin — the same way . . . Victor McLaglen traipsed to Agua Caliente, and left a large part of the family roll on the gambling tables . . . Clara Bow is another recent traipser to that resort. Clara spent more time sight see-ing than gambling . . . Rumor: That the cigars George Jessel smokes aren't the same brand he gives away . . . Frank Fay gets up every a. m. at six and runs six miles. He suggested that Archie Mayo join him. Archie plunked a protective hand over expansive tummy and said he was satisfied. . . . Evelyn Brent arrived home from the studio t'other eve with what threatened to be a severe flu siege. She escaped the siege by resting. And—that's all.

Hansel and Gretel In Syria Mosque Saturday

"Hansel and Gretel," the fairy opera of Humperdinck, the only one of its kind ever written, will be the offering of the visiting French-Italian Opera Company in the Syria Mosque Saturday afternoon. The story of the opera is well known to children and grown-ups alike.

The cast to be presented by the French-Italian Opera Company in this performance will comprise American singers, the oldest of them having hardly reached a quarter of a century, with the exception of the father, Alfredo Valenti, a veteran opera artist, long connected with the Covent Garden of London. The mother of Hansel and Gretel, Ivy Dale, happens to be younger than her children.

URGES HOOVER FREE SCRIBES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—After a call upon the three Washington newspaper reporters held at the District of Columbia jail for contempt of court, Representative La Guardia, (Rep.), of New York, proposed that the President should pardon the trio.

They were simply carrying out their duties in telling the simple truths about prohibition, LaGuardia said, adding that while they were in jail bootleggers were still at liberty and doing business "with the full knowledge of the court, and the authorities."

The reporters, Linton Burkett, Gorman Hendricks and Jack Nevin, Jr., were sentenced to 45 days each for contempt of court in refusing to give the grand jury certain requested information about bootleggers they had obtained in preparing a series of articles on crime conditions in Washington.

"Surely public opinion of the country should come to the rescue and prevail upon President Hoover to exercise his presidential prerogative and pardon these men with the thanks of the nation for having performed their duty and rendered a great public service," LaGuardia said.

COWBOY-KILLER AGAIN 'GUILTY'

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—John Ramsey, cowboy of the Osage Hills country, was convicted the second time today of the murder of Henry Roan, Osage Indian, and sentenced to life imprisonment by a jury in Federal Court.

Ramsey was accused of slaying the Indian at the instigation of William K. Hale, so-called "Cattle King of the Osage Hills," so Hale might collect $25,000 insurance which he held on Roan's life.

Ramsey has faced three juries on the charge. The first disagreed. The second found him and Hale guilty, but Ramsey was granted a new trial. Hale, who is serving a life sentence for the murder, was brought from prison to testify for Ramsey.

Firemen Unable To Stop Mine Fire

City firemen were unable to put out a fire in a coal mine on Clearview avenue, West End, according to a report submitted to Council by Fire Chief Richard L. Smith. Residents on Clearview avenue complained to Council that the fire had become a menace to property and the fire bureau was asked to relieve the situation.

Council accepted Smith's report yesterday and referred the problem to the department of public works for the engineers to solve.

Eighth Ward Vets Apply for Charter

Chocolate Cake Boom Coming, Bakers Say

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—To the American Bakers' Association the year 1930 looks like a big one for chocolate cake eaters.

Last year it was angel food; this year, devil's food. Next year, chocolate cake, even if it is inclined to be fattening.

Borger's Ex-Mayor Held as Rum Seller

BORGER, Tex., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Former Mayor Glenn A. Pace, of Borger, was arrested here last night on a charge of sale and transportation of liquor. Bond of $1,500 was approved.

The county grand jury indictment gave September 1 as the time of the alleged violation while Pace was still mayor. He was deposed during Borger's clean up.

95 PIANOS LOANED FREE

Ninety-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments), will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue. Instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

If you are NOT yourself

Are you being denied the happiness that is due you in life?

S.S.S.

Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

© S.S.S. Co.

IT is easy to abuse our golden life-given body, but Nature has a way of signaling danger. If heeded, graver troubles may be avoided. That tired, exhausted feeling, lack of appetite, aches and pains, flabby flesh, skin troubles—all speak of a body weakness—a lack of the normal count of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

So, if you are not yourself, look to the red-blood-cells to give you sturdy health.

Every normal person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles to the cubic millimeter—those vitalizing, tiny red-cells which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people

WOMEN VOTERS OPEN STATE CONCLAVE

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

IF THERE is any honor in leading sidewalks that honor is gladly bestowed upon Capt. William H. Moore, of the Pennsylvania Apartments, Bellefield. Army officer and globe-trotter, Capt. Moore has been transferred to Pittsburgh to centralize the activities of the Reserve Corps.

But what we started out to say was that Capt. Moore not only has three sons who are graduates of the Military Academy and a fourth who will graduate in a few months, but a fifth has already taken the entrance examinations.

This item for the paper would be complete if we could only add that Capt. Moore himself graduated from the academy. We will; he did.

The foregoing makes a pretty paragraph, doesn't it? And we want to thank the contributor. We telephoned Mrs. Moore to verify the facts and she said the item was all right except that the first three sons had graduated from Mississippi colleges, that the fifth hadn't yet taken the examinations, but had hopes and that the good Captain himself was not a West Point graduate. Another paragraph lost!

ONE million stories (at least 12) have been written about the poor but honest book-lover who, browsing about in one of Pittsburgh's second-hand book shops, purchased for a nickel or ten cents a precious classic which turned out to be worth thousands. One more or less won't hurt.

Sadie, the cook, wanted to send her old sweetheart in Sweden a gift on the second anniversary of his successful operation for appendicitis. She decided upon a book.

Sadie was frugal. When she hit upon a dust-covered volume, which contained pretty pictures, in one of those second-hand shops she bought it—for eight cents.

Sadie's sweetheart kept the book for years until one day he became hard up. He sought the nearest bibliophile and offered his book for sale. The expert said, "I'll give you eight cents for it." Sadie's sweetheart said, "That's o. k. with me." And that's all there was to it.

(You understand, of course, that this was spoken in Swedish.)

A gentleman who saw Luke Barnett in action for the first time at the Variety Club banquet was, of course, impressed with Luke's impersonations. But he was equally struck by Luke's "straight man," Senator Frank Harris.

Mr. Harris has probably worked with (ostensibly against) Luke more often than anybody else and he provides a perfect foil. He, too, is a good actor. In fact, we think the owners of a certain theater in Diamond street would do well by giving the Senator a chance on the legitimate stage.

A contribution from Charley Doyle:

"A tactful Welshman, who polished up on his diplomacy while shaving Lloyd George on many occasions on the "tight little isle," is the foreman of one of the city's largest tonsorial parlors, the parlors featuring one dozen Italian barbers.

"The boss (barbe) is George Daniel, of Oakland, and the institution is owned by John Cicero, who often puts his foreman's ideas in effect over his own.

"Daniel, by the way, is the father of George Daniel, Jr., former captain and star of the Schenley High School football team. The latter now holds a big position in the Oklahoma oil fields. He is one of the most popular students ever to attend the Schenley school."

HOSPITALS ON WATCH FOR FILM FIRES

Fireproof Vaults Used for Storing Negatives Here; New Ordinances Sought

Pittsburgh hospitals are taking voluntary precautions to prevent film explosions such as occurred at Cleveland and more recently in the University of California Hospital, San Francisco, Director of Public Safety James M. Clark said today.

The Mercy Hospital and St. Francis Hospital have constructed fireproof vaults on the roof of their buildings, where all films used in the X-ray departments are stored. Fifty per cent of the hospitals of the city use slow-burning films, or what is known as acetate cellulose films. Others have voluntarily made safety changes.

Director Clark said that as far as he has been able to learn, hospitals are obeying the city ordinances covering the question. Just as soon as he obtains a report from H. L. Ley, superintendent of the bureau of inspection, he will recommend to City Council that films used in large quantities be stored in separate buildings.

Mr. Ley investigated the explosion of X-ray films at the Cleveland Clinic Hospital last May, but has not as yet submitted his report. Mr. Ley said that he expects to have the report ready within the next week or two. He is waiting on further data from Cleveland.

Director Clark believes the present city ordinances do not go far enough, and feels they should be revised.

WOMEN VOTERS IN CONVENTION IN PITTSBURGH

CITY HOST FOR FIRST TIME

Five Morning Conferences Precede Regular Session; Noted Personages Here

The annual convention of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters opened in the William Penn Hotel today. It is the first time the state organization has ever convened in Pittsburgh. The formal opening was preceded by five morning conferences, from which will be taken the league's program of work for the coming year.

Robert P. Shick, distinguished member of the Philadelphia bar; Dexter Keezer, economic advisor to the Baltimore Sun; Dr. Ernest M. Patterson, of the University of Pennsylvania; Miss Beatrice Pitney, of New York; Dr. John A. H. Keith, state superintendent of public instruction; Dr. Charles E. Dickey, county superintendent of schools; Ray L. Huff, of the Pittsburgh board of education, and Miss Grace Stokes, chief probation officer of Allegheny county, were the conference speakers.

In the conference on "Efficiency in Government," which Mrs. John O. Miller supervised, Mr. Shick spoke on "Reorganization of the Court System in Pennsylvania," saying that the court system is not equipped to mold its machinery to the changing needs of the day. The problem of reconstruction is in making its three constituents, judge, lawyer and jury, see that a change is necessary.

Miss Gertrude Ely, president of the league, presided over the "living costs" conference in which the regulation of public utilities was discussed by Mr. Keezer. The speaker declared it was the public's lack of faith in its own regulative system of public utilities that was responsible for the recent speculation and drop in the stock market.

FIGURES SUBMITTED

He produced figures proving that public utilities went higher and dropped lower than did the same sized group of industrials. That President Hoover is following a hands-off policy is a mistaken impression, the speaker went on to say, showing that public utilities in the District of Columbia, where the President has his only jurisdiction, have already felt the power of his regulations.

Dr. Keith and Dr. Dickey both spoke concerning the effect of the Edmonds act on public school education; Dr. Patterson and Miss Pitney talked on international cooperation, and Mr. Huff and Miss Stokes on juvenile delinquency.

MRS. MILLER PRESIDES

Mrs. Miller, former state chairman, is presiding at the informal luncheon and Miss Gertrude Ely, her successor, at the business session this afternoon. After the buffet supper this evening, Miss Ely will make her presidential address.

Dr. James F. Cooper, who is to address the convention tomorrow afternoon on birth control, is medical director of the American Birth Control League and one of the foremost authorities on the subject. He has been a student on the subject for 12 years, his interest in it having been aroused by conditions he found in the slums of Boston in the course of his work as clinical instructor in the obstetrical department of Boston University medical school. Subsequently, during five years' residence in China as professor of clinical laboratory methods in Fukien Union University at Foochow, he devoted himself to extensive researches into the population problems of the Orient and his studies were continued in Europe prior to and after the war. His five years of war service was with the medical corps of the British Army. Before studying medicine, Dr. Cooper was a minister in the Congregational Church.

Outstanding on the convention program will be the banquet address of Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, of the University of Wisconsin, who will have "Adventures in Education" as his subject tomorrow night.

WATER RATES NOT CHANGED

Rates for water furnished by the city, probably will be fixed for 1930 on the same basis as obtains this year, judging from a recommendation to Council by James W. Gray, chief water assessor.

The minimum rate for domestic consumers is 18 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Gray appeared in Council chamber yesterday but his report could not be received officially as Council had adjourned and the remaining members did not constitute a quorum.

John S. Herron pressed for a reply from the Pennsylvania Water Company on Council's request for lower rates to consumers in the Homewood-Brushton district.

The South Pittsburgh Water Company, serving residents in the South Hills, charges the 18-cent rate levied for city water. The Pennsylvania Water Company, however, refuses each year to meet the city rate and demands a minimum of 30 cents.

WILKINSBURG 'Y' OPENS DRIVE

The financial and membership campaign of the Wilkinsburg Y. W. C. A. was officially opened yesterday at a luncheon at the "Y" Cafeteria. An address was given by the Rev. Harry Nelson Bassler, pastor of the Trinity Reformed Church.

The drive ends Saturday of this week, and in those five days the workers hope to raise $15,000 and to materially increase their numbers. The funds will be used for the maintenance of the association's functions. C. E. Wolford is head of the men's division of the campaign, and Mrs. Walter Radcliffe has charge of the women campaigners.

Fruit, Supplies Sought for Charities

Gifts of fruit, jelly, vegetables and groceries for orphans, aged persons and for other Lutheran charities will be received Sunday morning by the Trinity Lutheran Church, Avalon, the Rev. George B. Tejan, pastor. The services will be appropriate to Thanksgiving.

BOXES SEIZED IN VOTE QUIZ

The ballot boxes for the First, Second, Third and Fourth districts of the Second Ward, Homestead, in the custody of the County Commissioners, and the voters' ballot check books, the voting check books and the numbered lists of voters, for the same districts, in the custody of Prothonotary John Vogt, were ordered delivered to District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner by Judge George V. Moore, in Common Pleas Court.

The orders were made on petitions of Gardner, stating that he is conducting an investigation of alleged election irregularities in Homestead, and that the boxes and papers are necessary in connection with his inquiry.

Judge Moore ordered the opening of ballot boxes and a recount of votes in the Fifth and Seventh wards of Penn Township, on petition of electors that they believed fraud had been committed. The special committee of the official returning board was assigned the duty of recounting.

VERONA AID NOT GUILTY

An echo of the political warfare that raged in the Third Ward last February between forces of Alderman John J. Verona and Police Inspector James N. Hoey was heard in Criminal Court when Mario Cristofero, deputy constable in Verona's office, was found not guilty of pointing firearms at Hoey and the costs divided between the defendant and the prosecutor by the jury. The case was tried before Visiting Judge William T. Darr, of Jefferson County.

Cristofero was arrested February 16 in Central Police Station, where he had gone with Constable James Lavola to serve a warrant on Inspector Hoey, charging the latter with conspiracy to indict Harry Fink on a morality charge. Fink later was found guilty and sentenced to the workhouse and the conspiracy charge against Hoey was nolle prossed.

Evidence in the Cristofero trial was that when Lavola read the warrant to Hoey, Cristofero thought Hoey was going to resist arrest and drew his revolver. Detectives disarmed him and placed him in a cell. Cristofero testified that a sudden movement on the part of Hoey led to his action.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Does President Hoover's action in calling a meeting of financial experts and others in an effort to stabilize general economic conditions, appear as wise to you?

J. F. DONLEY, Union Trust Building, treasurer: "Yes. A crisis has arisen in the stock market. This was inevitable due to inflated prices. President Hoover's action in attempting to bring order out of chaos is commendable. It should bring results because big businessmen know the financial pulse and are able to bring about a settlement to real stability."

J. F. Donley.

BERNARD F. SCHNEIDER, Sixth avenue, insurance: "From the standpoint of most businesses, this meeting would be very profitable in that much uncertainty as to the future will be ironed out. In line with this it is wise to predict that many who have lost in speculation will turn to more stable forms of investment to protect their money and interests. President Hoover did a wise thing."

B. F. Schneider.

JAMES S. BOGGS, Sixth avenue, salesman: "President Hoover is to be commended for calling a conference of the leaders of finance, business and agriculture to dispel the pessimism that exists in many circles anent the present economic situation. I can conceive of no better way in 'killing this pessimism' than his optimistic attitude. It should be reflected by the country at large. Constructive action is needed. Employers of labor should not become depressed at this time, but should do all in their power to keep their men working."

James S. Boggs.

MARIE F. WENDLING, Parkview avenue, head hostess: "I can think of no better answer to the present market condition and shaky financial situation than President Hoover's action in calling a meeting of experts. They will try to solve a problem that has been troubling most of the public since the stock market crashed almost to the bottom. That they will succeed is apparent. These men know what they are doing and what is best."

M. F. Wendling.

MIMA FRANZ, Forbes street, cashier: "I think that the president's calling of a meeting of big industrialists and financiers will do a lot to bring better business to all trades, professions and factories. What the country wants is a lot of prosperity. If this meeting does anything to continue it, then the President has accomplished an object that should go down in history as one of the best acts of his career."

Mima Franz.

PEGGY SCHAFF, Pyramid avenue: "A man of President Hoover's caliber knows what he is doing. He has done the right thing again this time. He knows that constructive action is needed in solving the problem and he has taken into his confidence the men he thinks can assist in bringing the matter to a head. Most people now are very pessimistic about their financial affairs, when in reality, there is not a whole lot to worry about. It's a state of mind for most people, rather than a condition."

Peggy Schaff.

Bill Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 20.

America already holds the record for freak movements. Now we have a new one. It's called "restoring confidence." Rich men who never had admission in life outside of watching a stock ticker, are working day and night "restoring confidence."

Railroad officials met with Mr. Hoover and agreed to lower the fares on prominent delegates rushing to conferences to "restore confidence." Writers are working night shifts, speakers' tables are littered up, ministers are preaching statistics—all "restoring confidence."

Now, I am not unpatriotic, and I want to do my bit, so I hereby offer my services to my president, my country, and my friends around old Trinity Church, New York, to do anything (outside of serving on a commission) that I can, in this great movement. But you will have to give me some idea of where "confidence" is, and just who you want it restored to.

Yours for service,, WILL.

More Air Fields Urged By Plane Manufacturer

"What Pittsburgh needs is 50 aviation fields—not just two or three," W. B. Stout, president and general manager of the Stout Metal Airplane Company, division of the Ford Motor Company, told a joint meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the electrical section of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium last night.

"Eighty-five per cent of this nation's flying is done west of the Mississippi," Mr. Stout, continued, "because of the natural landing facilities in the western plains."

Mr. Stout, one of the foremost aviation men in the country, spoke for more than an hour on the subject, "What's Coming in Aviation." He said this country is far ahead of Europe in tri-motored transport planes. He declared the United States produces the only tri-motored planes in the world that will fly on two motors.

"Giant multiple motored planes capable of carrying 100 or more passengers," he said, "are impractical. It is no surprise to American engineers that Europe has produced such a ship. What is needed for the future traveler of the air is much more than just a seat—there must be something between a pullman car and an ocean liner state-room. That means large multiple motored planes, but they will carry only 30 or 40 passengers comfortably."

RAISE FORCED BY INCREASED SALARIES

First Levy Advance Since 1922 Expected to Care For Adjustments in 1931

An increase of one-fourth mill over the present rate of taxation has been announced by the Board of Education for 1930. The school board, at a meeting yesterday, fixed the millage at 11¾ mills for the next year. This is the first increase in school taxes here since 1922. The action of the school board was in accord with N. R. Criss, chairman of the finance committee.

The levy is made in three sections and as summarized by the Finance Committee, follows: Salaries fixed by law, $7,245,000, 7 mills required; for debt service, $2,070,000, 2 mills required; other expenses, $2,846,250, 2¾ mills required. The levy for next year is at the rate of $1.17¼ on each $100 of assessed valuation of taxable property.

In its action approving the increase, the board pointed out that for eight years the taxes have remained stationary, and that with the first of the year, the readjustment of teachers' salaries will be started. This will mean an increase in expense. The board expresses hope of meeting the second step in salary adjustment in 1931 without an increase.

At its meeting yesterday the board, through condemnation, acquired four properties. Two are near Langley High School and the others near Peabody High School. In each case owners have agreed to accept the price fixed by viewers. In both cases the properties will be used as athletic fields. The board also approved an exchange of property on North Highland avenue for adding to the Peabody athletic field.

Non-Suit Ordered In Accident Case

A compulsory non-suit was ordered by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen in Common Pleas Court in the suit of H. O. O. Schmidt and Emma Schmidt against George H. Calvert, bringing to a conclusion a case which arose nearly seven years ago. They asked $75,000 for personal injuries sustained when a motorcycle and side car in which they were riding was struck January 4, 1923, by a truck on the Butler road near Allison Park. It was testified that the owner or driver of the truck was not in the employ of Calvert, as alleged.

THREE INDICTED AS LIQUOR RUNNERS

U. S. Grand Jury Names Many Others as Dry Violators; 11 Counts Face Club Owner

The federal grand jury indicted three men for alleged smuggling of contraband liquors into the United States from Canada. Joseph Jervis and Fred Black were accused of bringing 103 quarts of whisky into the country at Erie, in a boat on September 25. In another indictment Paul Schonbein is charged with smuggling 492 quarts and 96 pints of whisky, 302 pints of ale and 14 pints of lager.

A true bill was returned against James A. Fye, charging him with violating the national prohibition law by sale and possession of liquor, and with maintaining a common nuisance in the barroom of the club of the L. O. O. M. FLACCUS CASE POSTPONED

Turnkey William Flaccus, of Central Police Station, who is accused of working in collusion with certain attorneys in having prisoners engage them, was not arraigned before the Police Trial Board yesterday as scheduled, the hearing having been postponed for the accused officer to obtain additional witnesses. The charges were preferred against Flaccus by Inspector James N. Hoey.

Flaccus was suspended last week, after Hoey accused him of arranging with a prisoner to call a certain attorney. Hoey charges the practice has been in existence at police stations for some time. He charges that attorneys split fees with station house attaches for getting them clients.

'Sax" Drives Away Thoughts of Cold!

He thought he couldn't play that night, but the cold he'd caught that morning had departed. Most professional people know what really knocks a cold in a few hours; many go through the winter without any trouble from colds. It's a compound that comes in little white tablets. Take one, and that first snuffle is just about the last; or several tablets if you've let the cold go until it's serious.

Pape's Cold Compound is all you ask for; and the druggist charges 35c for a package, and it never seems to fail for anybody.

Few tests are fool-proof—but the Byrd Antarctic Expedition used one when it chose cigarettes for its two years in the ice.

Members of the expedition—all men of judgment and experience—were simply asked, "What cigarette do you like best?" And a large majority answered Chesterfield.

DRIVE BRINGS TOTAL UP TO $579,287

Leader Warns Against Over-Confidence—Final Dinner Set for Friday

With a total of $579,287 pledged for the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh, the campaign for 31 Pittsburgh and Allegheny County philanthropies today has been successful in attaining half its goal of $1,168,000 required.

Chairman Joseph Dilworth in complimenting his thousands of workers on the showing they have made, sounded a warning against over-confidence and declared that only continued effort would enable the entire amount of the fund to be in hand at the closing dinner scheduled for Friday evening in Pirate Hall of the William Penn Hotel.

Much of the success, he declared, is due to the thorough work of the canvassers and the efficient handling of the reports at headquarters. With the Hollerith tabulating machines, similar to those used in the federal census bureau, complete and accurate totals are given within a few minutes after the last captain's report is audited. The machines were loaned to the Welfare Fund for the campaign and are under the direction of R. E. Shambo, local representative.

EMPLOYE RETURNS

The momentum gained in the campaign today was the result of the large increase in the returns by captains of teams in the employe division. F. J. Chesterman, head of the division, reported a total of $65,024, and there are still many establishments that have not yet been heard from.

"The business houses and industrial concerns are running true to form and in nearly every case a liberal response is received," said Mr. Chesterman. "It was estimated that the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad offices would give 150 subscriptions and a total of about $1,150. James C. McKallip today reported 148 subscriptions with a total of $1,158. This is but one example of how accurately we have been able to forecast the return."

Workers in the employe division were advised that L. A. Behr, president of the Rosenbaum Company, had organized his establishment and that a canvass was in progress. Among the transportation companies and large industrial plants reports indicate that there will be many 100 per cent subscriptions among the employes.

TEAMS REWARDED

Teams under the following captains in the Central Division yesterday were accorded extra credit awards for 100 per cent attendance of team workers at the daily meeting: Mrs. Stewart Johnston, Mrs. Joseph Dilworth, Mrs. W. B. Trainer, Mrs. S. W. Munnis, Mrs. Earl V. Braden, Mrs. Felix B. Snowden, Mrs. O. F. Knight, Mrs. J. B. McKillips and Mrs. S. E. Dieschler.

The women's teams still have a material lead. The Sewickley team reached a total of $121,333 and leads all the rest. The house-to-house canvass yielded $2,474.50.

ROBBER FIRES, MISSES VICTIM

City-wide search was being made by police today for a hold-up man who last night fired two shots at the proprietor of a grocery after looting the cash register of $20.

Dominick Tramonte, the proprietor, was alone in his store at 1053 North Lang avenue, when the man entered and commanded him to throw up his hands. The robber went to the register, rifled it and was backing out of the store when Tramonte lowered his hands in an attempt to grab something he intended to throw at the thief. Tramonte's actions brought two bullets from the thug's revolver, which narrowly missed his head.

PAY FOR HAYS ENGINE ASKED

Council has asked City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to settle a claim from the Hays Volunteer Fire Company for payment for a damaged, obsolete fire truck that was transferred to the city when Hays Borough was annexed last January.

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, responding to Council's request, reported that such a truck now was in the municipal garage, but that it had been in numerous wrecks and was obsolete.

A. A. Manzo, secretary of Hays Borough and a member of the volunteer fire company, made no claim when the truck was delivered to the city with the other property of the borough, Smith declared.

Smith indicated there was no organized fire department in the borough previous to annexation, and that the dispute over the truck arose from friction among the volunteers.

THIRD OF FUREY KIN JOINS FIRM

Son Joins Father to Carry On Insurance Business; Banquet Marks the Event

William M. Furey, general agent for the Berkshire Life Insurance Company, is busy today initiating the third generation of his kin into a partnership in his firm.

His new partner will be his son, W. Rankin Furey. Following the course of an apprentice in the insurance business, Rankin has been selling policies to the public for nearly seven years. His training days over, the happy young man today takes his place as a partner at the side of his father.

The elder Furey came to Pittsburgh from Bellefonte just 43 years ago today. He entered upon his business career as a clerk in the office of his uncle, the late H. D. W. English, then general agent for Berkshire. English made Furey his partner in 1905.

Since the death of English, in 1926, Furey has been sole general agent for Berkshire, and prominent in many outside activities, as director and member of the board of a number of large organizations.

COUNCIL VOTES $30,000 FOR BRIDGE

Shadeland Avenue Structure Over Woods Run Menace To Public, Lang Reports

Council has approved an ordinance appropriating $30,000 for repairs to Shadeland Avenue Bridge spanning Woods Run.

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, told Council yesterday that the bridge was 30 years old and a public menace in its present condition.

"The hand rail would not withstand the impact of a baby buggy, and the concrete sidewalks and roadway have disintegrated so that rain water seeps down to the steel work causing serious damage," Lang said.

Some of the councilmen were inclined to criticize the department for permitting the bridge to get in such a dangerous condition, but Lang explained he had made requests in budgets for the last two years for funds to repair the span. Council eliminated the appropriation requests, Lang said.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Triangle Men To Be Ball Guests

ONE event always anticipated in the gay Yuletide season is the annual appearance of the Princeton Triangle Club in a play here, and with the arrival of the Triangle boys come entertainments for them.

This year the Princeton Thespians will give "The Golden Dog" on Christmas night, with the scene of the play laid in Quebec in the eighteenth century.

Besides the dinners given before the play, there are usually dances, too. This year the players will attend. I've heard, the ball that Dr. and Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., will give Christmas night in the Pittsburgh Golf Club for their debutante daughter, Katherine Harkness Edwards.

YESTERDAY in "Oak Knoll," Sewickley Heights home of the Thomas Atterbury McGinleys, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, daughter of Mrs. McGinley, was formally presented to Pittsburgh society at a tea.

In the music room, where the debutante and her mother received, the bud's gift bouquets were charmingly displayed, and here and there were placed tall vases of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Tall, slender bamboo was used in one corner of the room where the bud received her guests.

In the logia connecting the music room with the dining room, where tea was served later, an aisle of tall orchid and yellow chrysanthemums made the room lovely.

In the dining room, a centerpiece of shaggy rust colored chrysanthemums combined with the yellow puff ball variety made the tea table attractive, and the tall, slim peach-colored candles in silver candelabra added a stately dignity. Long streamers of peach and rust ribbons and hothouse grapes were also used in decorating. An interesting note was the fireplace, massed with ferns and bamboo shoots.

The deb wore a princess gown of Swiss lace in a deep rust color, very long and reaching to the floor in back and falling in many pointed flounces in the front and sides. A deep bertha collar added further to the loveliness of the gown, and she wore matching slippers and white kid gloves. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, bouvardia, African daisies and butterfly orchids, tied in rust colored tulle, with a long streamer of deep rust velvet. Her mother wore a gown of beige Swiss lace, very long, with a deep flounce of brown lace, and a deep bertha collar like that of her daughter. Mrs. McGinley's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Schnabel, who received with her, wore a charming afternoon dress of grey crepe with touches of lace.

And asked to aid Mrs. McGinley were Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, Mrs. Benjamin R. B. Townsend, Miss Edna Woods Sutton, Mrs. George Singer Ebbert, Mrs. Harris R. Miller, Mrs. John C. Neale, Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Mrs. A. Fleming Fell, Mrs. Allen T. C. Gordon, Mrs. G. Grier Colliday, Mrs. Franklin C. Irish and Mrs. Sidney S. Liggett.

Then her sister buds were asked to aid Mary. Among them were Mary Franklin Robinson, Peggy Milligan, Caroline Crittendon, Katherine Collin, Rosamound Fitch, Rebecca Doyle, Susan Potter O'Neil, Nancy Allderdice, Harriet Fickes, Emily Frew, Helen Pendleton, Virginia Wright, Sylvia Robertson, Lydia Irish, Marie Louise Bickford and Laura Salisbury Evans.

AND now the fall season has still another engagement for us. From New York comes news that the Frederick Searles Armstrongs, of Park avenue, Gotham, at a dinner last night in the St. Regis, announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Beverley Randolph Shriver, son of the Van Lear P. Shrivers, of Edgeworth.

WHILE we're on the topic of weddings-to-be, I wonder if you've heard of Mildred Carlisle Burgwin's plans for her wedding? I've said before that November 30 would be the date of the event, to take place at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Ascension, with the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, dean of Trinity Cathedral, as officiant, assisted by the Rev. Dr. H. Boyd Edwards, rector of the parish. Of course you know that the bridegroom will be Richardson King Wood, of New York.

Mildred's only attendant will be her cousin, Mrs. Charles Burbank Crockett, of New York, formerly Mary Phillips Burgwin, of this city. And Dudley Phelps King Wood, of New York, will be best man.

The ushers will be John Adams Abbott, of Concord, Mass.; John Brooks Wheelwright, of Boston; Roger Shaw, of New York; George Stevens, of Atlanta; Henry St. Denis Nettleton, of London, England, and George Collinson Burgwin, Jr., and Howard James Burgwin, of Pittsburgh.

THERE'S going to be still another entertainment for Mary Blair Holmes, debutante daughter of the Joseph Horne Holmeses. On Monday night the junior J. Hartwell Hillmans will give a dinner dance for her in their home.

TODAY Mrs. William T. McCullough, Jr., formerly Martha Montgomery Jenkins, is honor guest at a luncheon her mother-in-law, Mrs. William T. McCullough, is giving in her home.

AND another bit of news. The Eugene H. Kipps, of Shields, will give a hunt breakfast for their sister, Katherine Walker, daughter of the William Walkers, at Katherine's home on Thanksgiving morning.

A NUMBER of folks will attend the first of a series of four Sunday afternoon salons to be held in the Hotel Schenley ballroom, beginning this Sunday. The Yost String Quartet and Harold Bauer, guest artist, will give the program.

Among those interested are Mrs. Oliver Hershman, Mrs. J. E. Lewis, Miss Martha Jamison, John F. Casey, Jr., Mrs. H. L. Mason, Jr., Mrs. E. V. Babcock, Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker, Charles Arrott, Mrs. W. F. Bickel, Dr. Alexander Blair, Mrs. Arthur E. Braun, Mrs. J. J. Brooks, Mrs. C. P. Kurt Paur Given Cordial Welcome by Music Club at Recital

THE usual large Tuesday Musical Club audience gave Kurt Paur, the celebrated pianist, a cordial welcome yesterday when he came to Pittsburgh as the club's guest artist. Not only was Mr. Paur welcomed for his own artistry and in appreciation of his program, but there were many who honored him because of their recollection of his father, the late Emil Paur, former conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.

Pittsburgh heard Mr. Paur in ensemble a season or two ago, but this was the first time he had appeared alone. Chopin, Liszt, Mendelssohn, D'Albert, Dohnanyi (his preceptor), Liadov and Godowski gave material worthy of the gifts of the artist. He opened with Chopin's Sonata, Opus 35, with its four movements, which include the familiar funeral march. Mr. Paur's interpretation is his great gift. In passages requiring velvety legato or pungent staccato, he is equally satisfying. He gave Mendelssohn's "May Breeze" with especial charm yesterday, and the Dohnanyi Rhapsodie in C Major with force.

At the conclusion of the recital Mr. Paur, Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman, his personal friend, through whose courtesy he made his appearance yesterday, and Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter, president of the club, received together. At the attractively decorated tea tables, Mrs. Elmer W. Flaccus, Mrs. David Murdoch, Mme. Fitz-Randolph, Mrs. M. A. Kretzchmar, Mrs. B. W. Lewis, Mrs. W. K. Steiner, Mrs. William Bigge, Mrs. Dallmeyer Russell, Miss Katherine Barnes and Mrs. Hugo Leidenroth poured.

SILVER LAME MUCH USED FOR EVENING GARMENTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Silver has a golden opportunity to shine. One of the most successful fabrics of the season has been lovely supple silver lame for delectable frocks, and also to line some gorgeous evening wraps. There is something about these glamorous fabrics that seems to satisfy some secret desire that is our heritage from childhood—the desire to dress up and be more beautiful than the most beautiful princess in all the world. Of course, when we grow up, we have the desire to present a regal appearance or at least, that is what we tell ourselves. And so we don a queenly gown of silver lame, or some other gloriously toned metallic fabric, and a lovely wrap—and behold, the princess with a radiant gown to match a radiant personality.

TO SATISFY those imperial longings, we have chosen for illustration a lovely silver lame evening frock from Berthe Hermance. It is of such suppleness, that the fabric is manipulated and drawn around the body quite closely and knotted in a huge bow with trailing ends at the back. The skirt is shirred into the bodice and is somewhat longer in back and at the sides.

THE flattering Medici collar is an outstanding—and upstanding—feature of the lovely and graceful coat from Maggy Rouff, striped coati is used to trim it. The huge collar frames the face in a most becoming manner, while the circular flare of the lower half of the garment is most flattering to any type of figure. Even the sleeves are most distinctive with the double bands of fur, judiciously placed, and the flaring fur-bordered flounce that lends animation to the model. It has been presented with the name "Zingara," although we, personally, can see little that is gypsyish about such a stunning creation.

NEW RING IDEA THREATENS DISORDER

OUT in Los Angeles there is a boxing referee who has a novel way of giving decisions. He is Jack Kennedy, who was the third man in the ring when Mickey Walker successfully defended his world middleweight title against Ace Hudkins recently. California fights are decided by the referee, with no judges having a vote, and the verdict is supposed to be given to the principal who has won the greater number of rounds. Except in the Walker-Hudkins contest, when Manager Jack Kearns filed objections, it has been Kennedy's custom to designate at the conclusion of each round which man won the inning.

Earl Mastro

Moreover, in doing so, he has had the support of William Hanlon, chairman of the California State Boxing Commission. "They call the turn in baseball by announcing balls and strikes before the batter gets a final decision, so why not in the ring?" Hanlon asks. "I am not making any official ruling on the matter at this time as something to be followed by all other referees throughout the state. I am only giving my opinion of Kennedy's system as I see it at present."

AND now we find the malady breaking out in a new spot. It is announced that when Earl Mastro and Johnny Minella meet for 10 rounds in Detroit next Friday night the referee will follow the lead of the coast official and have the winner of each round posted at the conclusion of the inning.

Furthermore, the commission says it may later have the system adopted throughout Michigan. The wisdom of the plan is open to question. It is hard to see how it can be anything other than a trouble-breeder or the cause of almost constant disorder.

THERE is altogether too much booing now for the good of the game, with partisan rooters setting up howls of protest when a decision is announced at the end of a bout.

With the referee giving 10 decisions instead of only one, what now occurs only at the close of a contest may be expected to occur just 10 times as often, keeping up the disorder throughout the duration of the proceedings in the ring.

Frank Wiener

DISORDER cannot fail to hurt any sport, and it would appear to be the part of commissions and officials to strive to eliminate it or reduce it to a minimum rather than to adopt a useless procedure that can only serve to encourage and increase it. Besides, what is there to recommend the system of awarding a fight according to the number of rounds won, anyhow? With all due respect to the Michigan boxing powers and to Hanlon and Kennedy on the Coast, their methods only tend to make a bad system worse.

IT is difficult to see the logic or fairness of giving a fight to the boxer who has won the greater number of rounds, as is decreed by the commissions of some other states in addition to California—Pennsylvania and New York included.

For it is possible for one combatant to win the greater number of stanzas by narrow margins, and yet be so severely punished in another round or two that his edge may be completely wiped out. He may even be on the verge of a knockout at the final bell, and yet get the decision because he has had a slight edge in the majority of the previous sessions.

UNLIKE the solons in some other states, the Pennsylvania commissioners are broad enough to instruct their officials to use their own best judgment in cases such as those cited above.

They admit that one clean knockout might offset a shade in two other rounds, and that the condition of the men at the finish is another thing to be reckoned. But at the same time they are keeping the round rule in the books.

ONE baseball team may score a run in each of the first eight innings to none for its opponent, but it doesn't win the game if the other club makes nine runs in the ninth, though under the round system used in boxing the first team would be the victor because it won the greater number of innings. It's all wrong, and the California-Michigan amendments to the system make it possible for a boxer who knows he has captured enough rounds for victory to go into a shell and stall through the remainder of the bout to avoid a knockout.

THE prospect that another defeat will be added here on Thanksgiving Day to the long list that his team has suffered at the hands of Pitt—he hasn't beaten the locals since his first year, 1919—doesn't discourage Hugo Bezdek, Penn State coach. "Bez" is a good loser. For instance, after his Lions had been beaten by the Panthers last fall for the seventh time in succession, he took it with a smile and remarked:

Hugo Bezdek

"Well, there's nothing like being consistent, anyhow." But the veteran coach never gives up in advance, no matter what the odds, so he is still hopeful of springing an upset at the Stadium next week in spite of what Bucknell did to his eleven last Saturday.

RECORDS of Pitt-Penn State football competition, which began in 1893, show that the Panthers have won 17 games and the Lions three, with two resulting in scoreless ties. The history of the fixture follows:

THE opinion of Manager Frankie Frederickson, the Pirate players and local fans, after the season's second exhibition of new hockey here in the Pittsburgh-Toronto game last night, that the rule changes opening up the game will work out satisfactorily and improve the sport, is shared by hockey men in other cities around the National League circuit. Lester Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, believes that one way in which the altered code will help is that it will put the various teams on a more equal footing and give the weaker ones a better chance.

"WITH everything running wide open, every club in the league has a hockey team," Patrick declares. "Our first crowd liked it

LOCAL SKATERS OVERWHELM TORONTO

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Playing like world champions, Manager Frank Frederickson and his rejuvenated Pirates made hockey history at Duquesne Garden last night when they broke the National League Record for scoring in a single game in overwhelming the Toronto Leafs, 10 to 5.

The exhibition was the most brilliant display of offensive hockey ever offered by a Pittsburgh team, and it stamped the Pirates as a club to be reckoned with in the league's new title race.

The Bucs improvement over the form they displayed in their opening game was amazing. Their team work was almost perfect, their shooting was deadly, their skating, stick-handling and checking was brilliant—and how they showed that old grit and fight!

IN GREAT COMEBACK

Before the game was one minute old Frederickson and Roger Smith were sent to the penalty box when the officials got in some fast work and banished them for tripping. And before the game was one minute and 15 seconds old the score was Toronto 2, Pittsburgh 0.

Taking advantage of the Bucs' lack of man power and using the new forward pass permit with deadly purpose, the Leafs rammed home two goals within a period of 20 seconds, Happy Day, captain and defense ace, tallying the first and feeding a perfect pass to Center Andy Blair for the second.

Two goals is a big lead to spot a team in any hockey game, and a club lacking in courage would have thrown up the sponge and tossed in the towel then and there. But not the Bucs! The score tells its own story of their great comeback, for the tally at the end of the second period was Pittsburgh 7, Toronto 3.

MACKINNON STARTS DRIVE

It was after Johnny MacKinnon had taken a pass from Frederickson to break the scoring ice for the locals in the first period, and after Day had slammed Blair's rebound past Goaler Miller to give the Leafs a 3-1 edge at the start of the second stanza that the Pittsburgh scoring deluge began.

After five and one-half minutes of play in this record-breaking second period MacKinnon and Frederickson repeated their scoring feat. Less than a minute after that Darragh took a pass from Frederickson and beat Chabot, Leaf goal guardian, to knot the count. Thirty seconds later the inspired MacKinnon put the Bucs in the lead with a goal that climaxed a great solo effort, and hardly had the crowd's cheers died down when Frederickson took a pass from Darragh and blasted the rubber disc into the net to make the Pirate scoring record FOUR GOALS IN THREE MINUTES.

ANOTHER RECORD

Seven minutes before the close of the period MacKinnon, whose play stood out on a night when every member of the Pirate squad achieved stardom, tallied his fourth goal on another beautiful one-man assault, and Herb Milks, who fit into the team play better than ever before, topped off the hectic 20-minute session by converting a pass from Frederickson into a score just before the gong.

The Pirates' scoring total in the second period was six goals! That, too, is a league record.

At the start of the third and final stanza the Bucs elected to play a defensive game, and for a time they satisfied themselves with holding the desperate invaders at bay, but the fans soon started clamoring for more scoring, and the Pirates were prompt to accommodate.

MILKS TALLIES AGAIN

Tricky, skillful Hib Milks, starting in where he left off in the previous period, fired the opening gun in the new drive after about four minutes of the third canto had elapsed, and four minutes later Bert McCaffrey fed Frederickson a perfect forward pass for another tally. Milks topped off the Pittsburgh scoring by con-

TOMORROW—"AGELESS" SOUP.

NIGHT GAME UNDESIRABLE TO DUKES

By JESS CARVER.

Some of the boys who have gone sweet on this night football are putting in the old squawk because the Dukes are not playing Haskell Friday night instead of Saturday afternoon. The answer to this is—they would!

Tony Siano.

With both Pitt and Tech sitting back and twiddling their thumbs, the Dukes ought to put close to 25,000 away for their game with the Injuns. If the ball game were moved up to Friday after supper, I'll bet dough they wouldn't get 20,000.

However, plans are being rapidly completed for the game. Intense interest will not start fermentation until Friday, with Lone Star Deitz and his Braves arrive in town. In checking back over my records, voluminous though they are, I find that this invasion of the Haskell Indians will mark the first time there have been any Injuns in the city since the last time members of the Elbow-Benders tribe of Waynesburg, Pa., came to town, fresh from the Brass Rail reservation.

PUSH 'EM OOP

The gent who is pictured at the beginning of this column is none other than the justly famed Tony Siano, crack center of the undefeated Fordham University eleven, who has been prominently mentioned for all-America honors.

Siano works his way through school. His job is in the college billiard room, where he serves in the capacity of manager.

Carnegie Tech Alumni are sponsoring a special train to California for the Tech-U. S. C. game December 14. The Tartans have secured fine rates for the trip, which includes three days in Los Angeles.

You can make the trip from Pittsburgh, riding in a lower out and back, for $171.25. The cost of meals for the entire trip, unless you are trying to fatten up, will run about $40.

All of which isn't so bad.

TOUGH ON CATS

West Virginia Wesleyan is getting a tough break for its game Saturday with Navy. Far from strong at any time, boasting only a strong backfield, the Bisons must break up this crack combination so as to get by the Navy's four-year rule.

BRUINS, HAWKS, SENATORS AND MAROONS WIN

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The Boston Bruins opened their home season here last night by coming from behind and nosing out the New York Rangers by 3 to 2 in a National Hockey League game.

The Rangers scored first, in the opening period, when Boucher caged a pass from Bill Cook. Dutch Gainor tied the count a few seconds later without assistance. The Cook brothers put the New Yorkers on top in the second and they held this lead until the final session, when Gainor evened matters by scoring again.

The winning tally followed George Owen's furious rush, which ended when Ching Johnson checked him hard just inside the Rangers' blue line. Dit Clapper, who went down ahead of the former Harvard star, reversed and hooked the loose puck, which he slammed through Roach. The lineup:

Bruins—3.		Rangers—2.
Thompson	G	Roach
Shore	R. D.	Bourcault
Hitchman	L. D.	Johnson
Carson	C	Boucher
Gagne	R. W.	W. Cook
Galbraith	W.	F. Cook

Boston spares—Gainor, Weiland, Barry, McKay, Clapper, Taylor, Owen. Ranger spares—Thompson, Murdock, Keeling, Foster, Queeneville, Vail, Goldsworthy. Officials—Mallinson and McKenzie. First period—New York, Boucher (W. Cook) 3:50; 2—Boston, Gainor, 4:20. No Penalties. Second period: 3—New York, F. Cook (W. Cook) 18:30. Penalties—Galbraith, Owen. Third period: 4—Boston, Gainor, 2:30; 5—Boston, Clapper, 13:16. Penalties—Shore and Galbraith.

HAWKS TOP AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—A team of young Chicago Blackhawks which bore little resemblance to last year's tailenders of the National Hockey League, defeated the New York Americans, 5 to 1, in their home opening last night.

Led by a pair of recruits, Art Somers and Tommy Cook, the Hawks took the lead shortly after the middle of the opening period and rolled up a five-goal lead before the Americans broke through for their only counter, late in the third frame.

Somers tallied twice for the Hawks and passed to Ty Arbour for another goal. Cook got two assists. Another youngster.

Benson to Coach Basketball At Thiel

CINCINNATI, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Charles O. Benson, University of Cincinnati freshman coach, has been appointed basketball coach at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa., according to announcement made today. Benson, a graduate of Illinois, came to Cincinnati at the beginning of the present football season. He will take up his new work on December 1.

DAILEY MAY BECOME CADET

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 20.—Saturday's game between St. Vincent and Allegheny, to take place here, will be the last game of the season both for the 1929 edition of the Bearcats and for Roy Dailey, the speedy little halfback that has starred with St. Vincent's for the past four years, and has captained that team this year.

Rumor has it that Dailey will receive an appointment to West Point Military Academy when he graduates from St. Vincent's next spring. Should Dailey go to West Point, there is little doubt but that he will continue his football career.

Crowe is working his men doubly hard this week and will make a big effort to have his boys primed for their contest with the Allegheny squad Saturday. It will mean a great deal to Crowe and St. Vincent's if the Bearcats are able to nose out the visitors and every effort will be made to wind up the season with a victory of the Meadvillites. Though the St. Vincent's team will go into the game with the dope against them, they stand a good chance to walk off with the game.

GAME CANCELED

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 20.—Announcement was made here today that the football game scheduled between Redstone Township High, of Fayette County, and Waynesburg High, here Friday afternoon, has been canceled by Waynesburg officials. A demand for an increased guarantee by Redstone caused the cancelation, according to Waynesburg officials.

HARGREAVES, ADAMS MAY BE TRADED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Eager as they are to trade several players, it is likely that the Pirate directors will not conclude or announce any big transactions until the end of the rapidly closing grid season.

Sparky Adams

Meantime, the local bosses do not care to go into detail as to the identity of the players to be affected. One guess, however, is that both Sparky Adams and Charley Hargreaves are on the Pittsburgh lists.

Adams was played only at intervals last season, the general indications toward Sparky being that he would be swapped. A late report states that Adams will be traded to the Cardinals. Hargreaves' destination appears to be shrouded in doubt.

The veteran catcher's passing from Pittsburgh was more than hinted in the action of the Pittsburgh officials in securing Al Bool, of Baltimore. Bool comes to the Buccos with a high rating as a hitter as well as a hustling catcher.

HEMSLEY IMPRESSIVE

But when the new receiver lands at Paso Robles he is very likely to encounter the stiffest kind of opposition in Rolly Hemsley, the youthful sensation from the Ohio Valley.

Hemsley stood out as the most impressive young catcher in the National League last season, despite a great show of skill on the part of Clyde Sukeforth, Cincinnati flash.

There is a suggestion that the Pittsburgh owners will have quite a little problem in signing Hemsley for next season; it has been rumored he will ask for a rather astonishing salary. In the long run, nevertheless, the matter

HUNGRY WOLF

Nelson Hendricks, a brave of the Cherokee tribe, calls signals from quarterback for the Haskell Indians, who play the Dukes at Forbes Field Saturday afternoon. His tribal name is Hungry Wolf, which means he's a terror with the meal bag. Hungry Wolf is a 175-pounder and is playing his third year of varsity ball.

SOCCER TEAMS FIGHT FOR LEAGUE TITLE

DISTRICT LOOP RACE IS CLOSE

By TOM BIRKS.

The Pittsburgh District League soccer games will hold the spotlight this week end in the absence of cup ties. Four games are listed and all show more than average interest.

The fight for leadership in the loop, now led by Douglas, may undergo a complete change, since the clubs in the first division flash capable aggregations. Douglas, Celtics, Union Switch and the Pierpoint Motors can cop the loop race. The Pierpoints are behind in points as well as behind in the matter of games played.

The Green-and-White-clad Celtics meet National Tube. There is a rumor that Midland is going to protest the National Tube game played last Saturday.

LEWIS AT SWISSVALE

Lewis S. C. travels to Swissvale to meet Union Switch. Seeing that Jack Thomas' club is fighting hard to overtake Douglas, the locals will try to get the points.

Crafton Heights visits the Homewood Playground and meets Pierpoint Motors. The Blue and White will devote its efforts to win the league title, now that it has passed from the West Penn cup ties. Last Saturday's game between Gallatin and the Pierpoint Motors again flashed the fact that a good swinging club is hard to defeat.

IS HE PLAYING?

Report comes that a player suspended by the national body is playing regularly in the Monongahela district. Whether the fan knows the player in question is a matter for doubt, but maybe the governing body will investigate whether or not the banished player is still in the game.

We see that the old question of the Beadling grounds being too small has been revived. That has been a moot point for a number of years when the entries for the West Penn challenge cup were received. The officials of the governing body usually have embarrassed the Beadling team by letting teams get into a controversy about the size of the grounds. One game was played at Beadling, and if that game was legal, so is every other game in which Beadling, by the luck of the draw, gets at home.

If Beadling's grounds are not large enough, why doesn't the governing body refuse to accept Beadling's entry fee, and get away from the annual cry of teams refusing to play at Beadling? Or, if the entry is accepted, make the game be played there, despite the size of the field?

Long's Sport Comment

and I like it, too. Of course, it is hard on the players. You can't keep a forward on the ice for more than a three-minute stretch."

Lester Patrick

Patrick's players express similar views. Bill and Bun Cook join in saying that the new game will be great when everybody has learned the rules, though they say the anti-defense regulation has them guessing and is a hard one to observe. "It's a better game for the spectators," comments Frank Boucher, "though in Canada public opinion is divided. Ottawa is strong for the new game, but Montreal and Toronto are still on the dasher." "The new rules are all right," says Leo Bourgault, "though they require many more miles of skating and give a defense man more to worry about. He has to watch the guy coming at him and the fellow in the corner." But they all agree with Harold Burr that it's enough to make a fellow want to be goal keeper's dentist.

THE stormy nature of the goalie's life under the changed conditions was demonstrated more clearly here last night than in any other game yet played in the league, with Pittsburgh defeating Toronto by the unheard-of big league score of 10 goals to 5. No such score has ever been made in major league competition within the memory of hockey's old-timers.

The success of the Pirates in piling up 10 goals establishes the first high record in new hockey and sets a mark that may be shot at for a long time without being equaled. Their achievement in making six goals in one period, an average of almost one to every three minutes, is also a new record for major league hockey. No Pittsburgh team ever scored 10 goals in a league game, though Roy Schooley's Yellow Jackets several years ago won an exhibition game, 12 to 0.

THE Pirates, with Johnny McKinnon and Manager Frederickson starring, gave a great exhibition of team work, that promises much for the future of the local club. The huge score, following the total of 10 goals in a New York game the other night, would at first thought suggest the possibility that the game had been opened up too much, but a gradual decrease to such scores as 4 to 2 or 5 to 3, as prevail under the same rules in the Coast League, may be expected eventually.

doubtless will be ironed out and Hemsley will be ready to "battle" Bool for the honor of being the club's first-string performer.

IS LEADOFF STAR

Johnny O'Connell also is a consideration, yet the peppery Verona receiver can hardly expect to get inside of Hemsley and Bool in one season. Johnny came along fast this year and will be given much consideration by Manager Ens.

Regarding Sparky Adams, it is likely that the little fellow will be sought by other major-league teams. Adams' best asset, in the opinion of some followers of the game, is his capability as a lead-off batter. Sparky is swift of foot and a tough little hombre for the pitchers, especially if the hurler is inclined to be off on control. In the jumpoff spot on a club sporting a sequence of hard hitters, Adams should score a heavy total of runs.

One or two of the present pitchers also may be included in the swapping plans.

Jimmy Reed Loses To Steve Smith

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., junior lightweight, defeated Jimmy Reed, of Erie, Pa., in a 10 round contest here last night. Smith's heavy body punches decided the battle. He knocked Reed down for the count of nine in the eighth round.

Babe Peleco, New York featherweight, won on a technical knockout in the fifth round over Herman Silverberg, of Philadelphia, when Silverberg fell down and twisted an ankle. Silverberg was leading at the time of the accident.

BROTHER SPAR MATE FOR RYAN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Back about 10 years ago, a young Pittsburgh boxer named Jack Burke won the national amateur light-heavyweight championship and turned pro and met the best of them and starred later as a sparring partner for Jack Dempsey when the latter was preparing for his match with Tom Gibbons in 1923. Among others, Burke fought Gene Tunney while Gene was the light-heavyweight champion. Several years ago, he quit the ring. Now he is back, working out daily with his "kid brother," who boxes under the name of Johnny Ryan and formerly was known as Johnny Urban. Ryan meets Young Jack Dempsey, of Conneaut, O., in the 10-round main bout at the Moose Temple Friday night.

Johnny Ryan

Every afternoon for more than a week the Brothers Burke have been going at it hammer and tongs in Flynn's gymnasium, downtown, dealing out to each other more punishment than the average boxer is called upon to take in a regular bout. His own career in the ring behind him, Jack is more than keen about seeing Johnny make good.

LOCAL PRO DEBUT

Johnny himself has had considerable experience. He has acted as a sparring partner for Jack Sharkey and has boxed many of the good heavies around the country. Singularly, the Dempsey bout will mark his first appearance in his home town as a professional. He left here while still an amateur and only recently returned to go under the management of James (Red) Mason, dean of local pilots.

Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, and Johnny Piai, of Oil City, have been matched for the semi-final at the Moose Club.

Tiny Eddie ONeill, the mammoth heavyweight of Steubenville, O., and Ken Harley, Negro, of Wilmerding, have been signed to box the opening six-rounder at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Both are knockout victims of George Panka, Harley going out in a round at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, during the summer and O'Neill making a hit in a three-round stand against Panka at the Garden Monday night of last week. O'Neill scaled 206 pounds that night and appeared to be fat and out of shape. He has been training ever since at the Pittsburgh Lyceum and hopes to enter the ring next Monday at 195 pounds.

RODGERS AT GARDEN

Johnny Haggerty and Joey Katkish, bantamweight rivals, of Lawrenceville, will box the second bout at the Garden Monday night. Jackie Rodgers, local Negro bantamweight, who has stopped Carl Cavelli and Pete Mazzeo in his last two starts, will be in against the best opponent obtainable in the semi-final of eight rounds, and Jack Zivic and Tiger Joe Randall, local welterweight rivals, top off the bill with a 10-rounder.

Jim McGirr has completed his card for his weekly show in McKeesport tomorrow night with the signing of Stanley Certo, of Monessen, and Marty Bakay, of McKeesport, for the second bout. He has Al Wolgast against Young Rudy in the main bout, Tony Leone against Young Angelo in the semi-final and Jimmy Thomas against Johnny Edwards in the opener.

MASSEY NEW STAR

Lew Massey's technical knockout victory over Harry Blitman in two rounds at Philadelphia Monday night makes him an outstanding figure in the featherweight ranks. He has scored several other notable victories to date, but none as important as this one.

Herman Weiner, of Baltimore, and Harold Scarney, of Youngstown, box the main bout of a show at Cumberland, Md., December 2. Two other eight-round battles will be on the card.

KAPLAN TOPS CABANA

Iron Man of West Beats Two in Eight Rounds

HASKELL OFF FOR DUKE TILT HERE

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 20.—Three games in 10 days faced the Haskell Indians as they walloped Missouri State Teachers College Monday night, 22-6, in night football, and the Haskell crew was in high spirits as they prepared to leave today for Pittsburgh to meet Duquesne University Saturday.

Only Capt. Weller, elusive halfback, came through the game with an injury and Haskell's all-American candidate was not regarded as seriously hurt. He was taken from the Kirksville game almost immediately after an aggravation of an injury received in the Loyola game became apparent.

DIETZ CONFIDENT

Lone Star Dietz, the former all-American tackle at Carlisle, movie actor, philosopher and essayist, who coaches the Indian squad, is prepared for a tough invasion of the East, but expects his squad to pull through without an additional defeat.

These 1929 Haskell Indians are broken field runners, pure and simple. Frequently they have been outplayed in straight football, only to have Weller, his understudy Ted Wilson, Buster Charles or Haskell Murphy break loose for some sensational sprint down the field for a counter.

GREAT RUNNER

Weller has never been held to less than a 30-yard run in a game in the two years he has graced the Haskell squad. He holds the season record with a 105-yard run back of a kickoff for a touchdown against Creighton and a 75-yard return of a kickoff against the University of North Dakota for a score.

Eastern fans will be treated to one of the greatest tackles of the Nation in Eugene Fritz, the 190-pound Haskell tackle, and 1928 captain, who is the last of the famous Haskell team of 1926, which Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach, led through a season of intersectional contests undefeated.

Donchess May Become Grid Tutor at Pitt

Joe Donchess, Pitt's star end, who is studying medicine at the Panther institution, is reported to be in line for a job next year as an assistant football coach under Jock Sutherland. Donchess' four years of college football ends with this season. In the event he is signed for such a job, Donchess will continue to study medicine at Pitt, putting himself on a par with George Kowallis, former cage star, who is coaching the Pitt yearling five while continuing to study medicine.

EWALT VICTOR IN AMATEUR MITT SHOW

Sparky Ewalt, of the Charvis Club, McKees Rocks, defeated Lincoln Page, of the Superior A. C., in the feature bout of the amateur boxing program staged last night by the Twenty-seventh Ward Athletic Club in St. Andrew's Hall, Chateau street. A packed house was present to see the 24 rounds of fast milling.

FULKS VICTOR

Ewalt and Page fought an exceptionally fast bout for heavyweights, with Ewalt having more than a shade at the end of the three rounds.

A fast bout was staged between Joe Ferrerro, of Kingsley House, and Charles Fulks, of Braddock Library A. C., Fulks winning by a technical knockout route when Ferrerro was unable to answer the gong for a fourth round decided upon after the judges disagreed at the end of three. The Kingsley lad received a cut over one of his eyes in the first round.

MADIGAN BEATEN

Kid Schultz, of the Charvis Club, was too tall for Billy Madigan, of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., and the McKees Rocks boy won easily in three rounds. The summary:

135-pound class—Jackie Leonard, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., won from Joe Demasky, Spike Hobba Club, three rounds, judges' decision. Chuck Fulks, Braddock Library A. C., won from Joe Ferrero, Kingsley House, technical knockout, three rounds.

175-pound class—Sparky Ewalt, Charvis Club, won from Lincoln Page, Superior A. C., three rounds, judges' decision.

Rochester Sells Heinie Sand To Orioles

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—John Henry (Heinie) Sand, shortstop for the Rochester Red Wings, of the International League, who helped this past season in the setting of a new world record for double plays at 225, has been sold outright to the Baltimore team, it was announced last night by Warren C. Giles, Rochester's president.

Sand came to Rochester last winter from the Philadelphia Nationals by way of the St. Louis Cardinals.

WINE BEATS SCARNEY

PADDY HARMON RESIGNS JOB AS PREXY

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—P. T. (Paddy) Harmon, who planned and saw the achievement of his dream of the Chicago Stadium, last night resigned as president of the corporation operating the $7,000,000 sports arena. Harmon presented his resignation after a long conference with the board of directors of the corporation.

"I control 42½ per cent of the stock in the corporation," Harmon said, "and do not expect to be kicked around."

During the eight months the Stadium has been open, Harmon has promoted two championship boxing matches as well as several other attractions which drew record gates for indoor entertainments.

It was reported that the Chicago Blackhawks of the National Professional Hockey League, would transfer their games from the Coliseum, a smaller place, to the Stadium, if the management was taken from Harmon. The Blackhawks are owned by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, who refused to permit the establishment of a second major hockey league franchise in Chicago, when Harmon made application several months ago.

ANYONE who's ever lunched at Kramer's knows genial George Peetz at the cigar counter there. Ask him some day what he thinks of Blackstones.

Ever since Blackstones came to Pittsburgh George Peetz has had them on sale in Kramer's. And day by day their popularity is growing. "At last," say Pittsburgh men, "we've got a real cigar."

You'll see at once that every Blackstone has the unmistakable flavor of quality. Tested against seventeen well known brands in the popular price field, Blackstone received top rating on the rare quality of its tobaccos . . . on sanitary conditions of manufacture . . . on beautiful, uniform craftsmanship . . . and on flavor.

Test your taste for quality

We urge you to try Blackstones for one week. Note their mildness, their coolness, their generous fragrance. Then you will realize, as have thousands of other smokers, that Blackstones are a real cigar treat. Stop at your tobacconist's and get a week's supply. Begin the test today.

Note how long a Blackstone holds the ash. It burns slowly and evenly, giving a cool, full-flavored smoke.

W. VA. WESLEYAN, D. & E. BREAK RELATIONS

HASKELL STARS CAUSE OF DISPUTE

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—West Virginia Wesleyan College athletic authorities announced yesterday that all athletic relations had been discontinued with Davis & Elkins College because of the Elkins' institution's refusal to abide by the eligibility rules of the local school.

The athletic board of Wesleyan, at a regular meeting last Saturday adopted a resolution which read as follows:

"Resolved, that West Virginia College discontinue athletic relations with Davis & Elkins College until such time that Davis & Elkins is willing to abide by the same eligibility rules as now enforced by Wesleyan College."

After K. M. Ross, Wesleyan athletic director, had communicated with Davis & Elkins athletic director, and Ross reported that an agreement appeared impossible with Davis & Elkins, a special committee of the Wesleyan athletic board took final action in severing relationship.

Both schools are members of the West Virginia Collegiate Athletic Conference, which permits players to participate in four years of varsity athletics.

Wesleyan's protest is based on the playing of former Haskell Institute athletes on the Davis & Elkins football team, the local school's contention being that these men—Smith, Hawley and Burneau—had already had several years of varsity competition before coming to the Elkins institution.

GREAT RUNNERS ALL

Toby Uansa, of McKees Rocks, the sensational running halfback of the University of Pittsburgh this fall, who is destined for All-America fame, brings back to memory the other great Pitt backs of the past decade and more, beginning with Jimmy DeHart, who was one of the aces of the great Panther eleven of 1916, on which Coach Jock Sutherland played a star guard. When DeHart was through, Tom Davies came along to fill his shoes. More recently, there was All-America Gibby Welch, and now it's Uansa who is thrilling loyal sons of Pitt with his great open-field running.

THOUGHT CASE WAS HOPELESS; KONJOLA WINS

Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism Speedily Ended —Six Bottles Bring Glorious Relief

Daily there pour in to the Konjola Men in Pittsburgh countless amazing indorsements of Konjola from men and women who had abandoned hope of ever being well again and who found glorious health through this super-remedy.

You can get all the facts about Konjola from the Konjola Men. One is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and the other is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh, where daily they are besieged by local people who call to find out what Konjola means to them in their search for health. Konjola was not designed to bring mere temporary relief, but to restore new, glorious and lasting health, just as it did in the case of Mr. Ephraim Morrow, Gibsonia, Pa., near Pittsburgh, who called on the Konjola Man a few days ago and made this astounding statement:

"I believed that my case was hopeless but Konjola restored me to glorious health and I am only too glad to indorse it to all who suffer as I did. For years I was afflicted with stomach and kidney troubles and rheumatism. In fact, I was a total wreck. I had abandoned hope. The aches and pains throughout my body were almost unbearable. Meals ceased to be a pleasure and I found it impossible to sleep soundly at night. Daily I grew worse and when everything I tried failed to benefit me I became discouraged and disgusted.

"I was inclined to scoff at the idea of Konjola benefiting me. But my friends insisted that I give it a trial, stating that they knew it was what I needed. Finally I consented to try it. I secured six bottles and by the time I finished them I realized that this was the medicine I should have had in the first place. Konjola had done all that was claimed for it. I took four more bottles and at the end of that time I felt twenty years younger. My ailments are gone. I can hardly realize that I ever suffered from rheumatism or stomach and kidney trouble. To have health again is a wonderful thing and I owe all of mine to Konjola."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such hazardous ingredients its seeming wonders to work.

There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is sold also by all Dow Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

A. A. U. RATIFIES MEET HERE

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The Amateur Athletic Union closed a stormy convention yesterday by re-electing Avery Brundage, of Chicago, to the presidency for a second term, ratifying the selection of Pittsburgh for the 1930 National track and field championships and picking Washington, D. C., for the next annual meeting.

The A. A. U. completed the program of conciliation with the National Collegiate A. A., after a long standing controversy, by changing its constitution to permit certification of athletes by their colleges and universities for competition in A. A. U. meets. Heretofore only A. A. U. registration has been accepted in National, district or club meets, but under the new regulation the statement of a college or university as to the eligibility of any of its athletes will be accepted without reservation by the A. A. U.

This move is expected to have far-reaching effect in harmonizing the activities of the A. A. U. and the colleges, heretofore in frequent conflict, if not actual open warfare.

HADDOCK TURNED DOWN

The hottest fight of the convention took place before Boston was finally voted the custody of the 1930 National senior boxing championships. St. Louis made a vigorous bid for the fistic attraction, offering a flat guarantee of either $10,000 for the whole tournament or $5,000 for half of the eight events, but on a motion to split the tournament, the delegates voted 88 to 42 to send it entirely to Boston.

A radical step designed to have the A. A. U. take over control of amateur hockey and possibly amateur skating, so as to have jurisdiction over these sports in the 1932 Olympics, was proposed, but tabled for another year. Through its president, William S. Haddock, of Pittsburgh, the United States Amateur Hockey Association expressed willingness to yield its governing powers to the A. A. U. Since it would involve a change in the A. A. U. constitution to do so, however, the suggestion was put aside.

After winning its fight on boxing, Boston yielded the National marathon championship to New York, to be held on Staten Island.

WASHINGTON NEXT

Brundage was re-elected unanimously as president for 1930, along with the following: First vice president, Judge Fred L. Hoffman, Cincinnati; second vice president, L. A. Henry, Palo Alto, Cal.; third vice president, Herman Obertubbessing, New York; fourth vice president, R. L. Probst, St. Louis; secretary-treasurer, Daniel J. Ferris, New York.

Washington was chosen as the next convention city, after bids also were made on behalf of Chicago, Indianapolis and Miami Beach.

Five new allied members were accepted. They are the International Railroad Athletic League, representing 14 railroads, with headquarters in New York City; the Grand Trunk Western Recreation League, Detroit; the German-American Athletic Union, New York; American Billiard Association, New York; and Missouri-Kansas-Texas System A. A., St. Louis.

POST-SEASON GAMES LOOM

SHARON, Pa., Nov. 20.—With football season nearing an end, talk has already been started about post-season games in order to better clear up several titles.

Sharon High, with promise of an undefeated year, has been involved in the talk although just who they would play is rather indefinite. The locals, if they beat Greenville and Grove City, will have Northwestern Pennsylvania honors under their belts without a negative vote as all other clubs have been beaten in the past.

Youngstown Chaney, providing these boys beat Rayen, has been mentioned. But neither Chaney nor Sharon would be able to get additional honors from such a tilt. Rochester, undefeated in the W. P. I. A. L., also is suggested.

Coach David Stewart would be in favor of a post-season game if the contest didn't cut too much into basketball. He has some five cage men on his grid squad and doesn't want to interfere with Coach A. W. Dickerson's plans for the winter sport.

It is possible that a game can be arranged between Bessemer, Lawrence county champs, and Sandy Lake, Mercer County champs, two nice Class B teams. These two squads are leading the newly-formed Tri-County League, neither having been defeated. Just how the title will be decided unless a post-season fray is played is not known.

Brookfield, Trumbull county leader, also is mentioned as a probable opponent for Sandy Lake.

Detroit Apologizes To Michigan State

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—University of Detroit has forwarded a formal apology to the athletic board of Michigan State College regarding student rioting in East Lansing and Lansing Saturday after the football game between the two school teams.

Drinking was indirectly blamed for the affair by Coach Charles E. Dorais of the Titan eleven.

Whether the disorder, which led to the arrest of 22 youths and imposition of fines on each, will result in a break in athletic relations, "rests in the hands of the State College board," Dorais said.

PIRATES SET RECORD WITH 10-5 WIN

verting a pass from Frederickson into the Pirates' tenth goal.

Day and Ace Bailey, the latter the leading scorer in the National League last season, teamed up to engineer a couple of "consolation" goals for Toronto near the close of the fight. In each instance Bailey was on the passing and Day on the scoring end.

The goals and assists totals were: Goals, MacKinnon 4, Day 4, Milks 3, Frederickson 2, Darragh, Blair; assists, Frederickson 5, Bailey 3, Darragh 2, Briden, McCaffrey, Blair, Day.

Never in local hockey history has one club "stolen the show" from an opponent as completely as did the Bucs after the Leafs jumped into their 2-0 lead in the first minute of play last night. Although the Leafs are a strong, speedy aggregation that ranks as one of the favorites to cop the International Group banner, they were completely outclassed in at least 50 of the 60 minutes of competition.

Happy Day, Art Duncan, Art Smith and Lorne Chabot, all veterans and all ranked as performers of more than average ability, made up the defense against which the 10 goals were scored.

As is generally the case in a free-scoring game, play was fast and furious throughout. Manager Frederickson and MacKinnon had to play like wizards to attract particular attention on a night when the play of all the Pirates was of the highest order. Cliff Barton, young forward, made his debut in the Buc lineup, and Duke McCurry, making his debut as assistant pilot, used excellent judgment in making substitutions.

The triumph not only put the Pirates right up among the leaders in the league race, but it also served notice on the New York Rangers, who appear here Saturday night, that they are going to be in for a real battle.

Harold Cotton, a Pirate until last season, made his debut as a Pirate enemy, and Charley Conacher, younger brother of Lionel, another former Buc, got into the fight long enough to draw a penalty. The lineup:

Pirates.		Toronto.
Miller	G	Chabot
Smith	D	Horner
MacKinnon	D	Day
Frederickson	C	Blair
Milks	W	Cox
Darragh	W	Bailey

First period—Scoring: Day, :50; Blair (from Day), 1:15; MacKinnon (from Frederickson), 12:10. Penalties—Frederickson, tripping; Smith, tripping; Blair, roughing; Lowrey, roughing; Cotton, roughing; Brydson, roughing; Duncan, tripping (2). Stops—Miller 18, Cabot 26.

Second period—Scoring: Day (from Blair), 2:24; MacKinnon (from Frederickson), 6:25; Darragh (from Briden), 6:10; MacKinnon, 6:41; Frederickson (from Smith), 8:30; MacKinnon, 12:20; Milks (from Frederickson), 13:05. Penalties—Day, roughing; Duncan, roughing; Conacher, tripping; White, roughing; Smith, tripping. Stops—Miller 11, Chabot 22.

Third period—Scoring: Milks, 3:43; Frederickson (from McCaffrey), 7:50; Milks (from Frederickson), 10:15; Day (from Bailey), 12:06; Day (from Bailey), 12:50. Penalties—Drury, roughing; Day, roughing (2). Stops—Miller 12, Chabot 13.

Referees—O'Hara and Denneny.

HOOVER SHAKES FATALISM OUT OF BUSINESS

President Indicates His Belief That Trade Cycle Is Open to Modification

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—President Hoover has rendered a service in shaking the business community out of a state of Oriental fatalism.

In initiating a series of conferences with business leaders, the President has indicated his belief that the trade cycle is not foreordained, but can be influenced, modified, and significantly altered by the volition of active human beings.

Instead of joining the mystic array of economic soothsayers and forecasters, who are trying to read in advance the fixed patterns of future trade, Mr. Hoover has set out upon the high adventure of soundly altering the pattern.

In 1921, when a business emergency faced the country, former President Harding selected Mr. Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, to head a committee on unemployment. The present Chief Executive does not have to look elsewhere to find a competent economic expert to head the movement at this time. Eight years ago Mr. Hoover and his asociates stressed the desirability of speeding up private works during time of slack in private business and of slowing down public works in time of boom, so that the permanent improvements could act as a stabilizer, reducing the peaks and the valleys in the curves that measure business activity.

UNLIKE 1921 DEPRESSION

Unlike in 1921, when the country was in the midst of a severe business depression, this time the country faces no comparable emergency. After many months of business activity, business has shown a lull in several directions. After feverish activity, it is usual for business to quiet down and is entirely healthy. The recession would have attracted little popular attention if shortly after it began there had not been a panicky liquidation in the stock market, which was little more than the aftermath of the world's greatest bull market.

Inasmuch as the slowing down in business was to a large extent superinduced by extraordinary high interest rates, which constituted a reflex of the bull speculation, the undoing of the bull market, in lowering interest rates, automatically brings some correctives. Private construction work, which has been postponed because of high interest rates and the scarcity of second mortgage money, can soon be undertaken to supplement public works as a stabilizer. Mr. Hoover recognizes this fact and that is one essential reason why he has initiated conversations with the officers of the giant corporations, which are rich in cash resources to an unprecedented extent.

Mr. Hoover is right in asserting that in times of ebbing public confidence action is far more important than words.

FUTURE BRIGHT

It is to be hoped that the public will not expect too much. Though an experiment will be made in modifying the business cycle, no one can legitimately expect an unbroken era of feverish, supernormal activity in which records are perpetually being broken. The best that leadership can hope to accomplish is to minimize the deleterious effects on business of the pessimism generated by the stock market. The long term business future of America is unquestionably bright, and the problem is to bridge over the readjustment period so that unemployment will be reduced as much as is humanly possible. When the dividend is passed on labor common, it is far more tragic than when the estates of the affluent shrink somewhat.

The economists, who recently gathered in Boston under the auspices of the Harvard Economic Society, were of the opinion that the country is faced by no widespread and prolonged depression, although the recession already under way in some industries, may be intensified by the speculative debacle.

BUY FOR CASH

Brokerage letters and other superficial comment during rallies are likely to mislead the uninitiated. After such a period as it has been through, an uninterrupted recovery is not to be expected, even though stocks may be intrinsically cheap. Accordingly, until the market has gone through a period of dullness and stabilization, bargain hunters are wisest who buy for cash, with an expectation of operating for the long pull.

The resetting of the money stage emphasizes the desirability of buying bonds at this stage of the cycle.

Another effort is being made to correct the abnormalities of Wall street, by laughter. Joseph Anthony, editor of the Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, has written "The Lost Shirt" as a light-hearted record of the recent unpleasantness in Wall street. He slyly defines investment as "a stock bought for speculation on 100% margin."

Steel Company Profits To Decline

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

PROFITS of steel companies for the last quarter of 1929 are likely to show wide variations in comparison with the earlier periods of the year. In practically all cases less will be earned than in the third quarter but in some cases the declines will be slight while in others marked drops will be shown.

The stock market should not be blamed for all of the declines in profits. Several months ago it was commonly predicted that the present quarter would show a declining tendency due to lower operating rates and weaker prices. Most steel companies did a fairly satisfactory volume of business in October with production showing a gradual downward trend.

New Orders Lacking

SHIPMENTS have continued to fall off but the most noticeable factor in the steel situation has been the poor rate at which new orders have been received for the past two weeks. This is not cause for immediate alarm to the companies which have well filled order books but all steel companies are not fortified by large backlogs.

The steel companies which are in a genuine state of depression, so far as operations go, are the organizations selling a major portion of their output to the automobile makers. These companies would undoubtedly have experienced the present slump to nearly as great an extent if there had been no break in stock prices.

Rail Orders

THE more fortunate steel makers are those selling materials going into railroad equipment or into structural steel. The gains in railroad buying and the continuance of full operations on the part of structural fabricators have partially compensated for the lack of automobile business but they have not kept production from declining to a marked extent.

The future of these two types of steel consumption is bright. The railroads have been using old equipment with few replacements for such a long period that many lines will have to go even more heavily into the equipment market next year than they have this year.

Pipe Shipments

THE pipe makers had a good month in October. Production is still at a fair rate but an almost total lack of new business leads to the belief that the balance of the year will see production of these mills down to about 60 per cent of capacity.

The success of efforts to control oil production and drilling have had much to do with the shutting down in demand for pipe, while the blow to confidence given by the break in stocks has tended to hold up other orders.

The fully integrated steel companies selling a large range of products may be expected to show moderate declines in profits while the smaller companies specializing in such products as sheets and strips will feel changing conditions more keenly.

Prices Firm

THERE has been very little shading of steel prices during the past few weeks. It must be remembered, however, that the prevailing quotations of bars, plates and shapes are somewhat lower than in the second and third quarters. These weaknesses, however, were shown several months ago.

One steel man explained the firmness in prices by the fact that there is little new business to be had under any conditions at present so that the temptation to cut quotations is not strong.

SAFETY RAZOR SALES GAIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Milton Dammann, president of American Safety Razor Corporation, in a letter to stockholders, states that in 1929 company's sales volume in every department, both in the United States and in foreign countries, is running considerably ahead of 1928 or any prior year. He states, in part, as follows:

"In 1929 our unit sales of blades, our most profitable item, will be at least 20 per cent in excess of 1928 or any prior year. Our net profits for the nine months period ended September 30, 1929, are greatly in excess of any previous nine months period in the history of the company.

"Our October business continued this increase—our November business is running even better—and we see nothing in the horizon as far as our business is concerned which leads us to believe that the progress which we have been making in 1929 shall not continue through 1930. Good times or bad times—people must shave, so we have no reason to be fearful of the outlook.

"We have not borrowed a dollar from a bank or any source since 1924. Our current liabilities are negligible. We have several millions of dollars worth of liquid working capital, in excess of our requirements.

"Commencing with 1922, we have paid dividends regularly, and for the past two years these dividends have been at the rate of $1.25 every three months, making a total of $5 each year. The business of the company and our increased net earnings predicates a continuance of dividends of not less than this rate. Your directors have pursued the policy of being prudent yet liberal with dividend declarations. This policy we intend to continue, and as fast as our increased earnings justify, our stockholders may look for increased dividends."

Ford Contracts Go To Otis Steel Co.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—Otis Steel Company has received several substantial contracts from the Ford Motor Car Company, according to E. J. Kulas, president. Mr. Kulas did not disclose the actual tonnage involved.

Ford has been reported in the market in this district for several types of material recently. Contracts have been received by various parts manufacturers and it is understood by some makers of special steels.

Although the local parts manufacturers and steel makers are experiencing the poorest quarter encountered in some time, they are for the most part very optimistic regarding the first part of the coming year.

Reserve Council Sees Lower Money

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Lower money rates were predicted by the Federal Reserve Advisory Council in a meeting with President Hoover and members of the Federal Reserve Board yesterday.

Gov. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, issued the following statement after the meeting:

"At a meeting of the Federal Reserve Advisory Council, the members of which represent the 12 Federal Reserve districts of the United States, with the President, the general business situation was reviewed and each member of the council reported that business and banking throughout his district are in sound condition and the prospects were that money will be available at lower rates."

CENTRAL ALLOY OUTPUT HIGHER

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—Current output of stainless steel at Central Alloy Steel Corporation is the highest since production of the new material was started under Krupp license, it is announced by Chairman F. J. Griffiths. Notwithstanding larger production, deliveries of stainless steel are from six to nine weeks behind orders. Demand has been increasing rapidly with the development of new markets in the automotive, pipe, building and many miscellaneous lines.

In order to supply demand for stainless steel, the company is expanding productive facilities as rapidly as possible. Latest steps in the expansion program include installation of an automatic pack furnace, five double cabinet sand blasting machines, a double tank mechanical pickling machine, and a 2,500-cubic foot air compressor. In addition a new 25-ton electric furnace is being constructed. Completion of these improvements around the first of the year will enable the company to greatly increase its production.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

ANTICIPATING BUILDING INCREASE.

That the management of American Radiator-Standard Sanitary Corporation is anticipating an increase in building is indicated by the fact that the company has started a country-wide advertising campaign over the radio. The company is one of those which would benefit materially from any sharp revival in construction, particularly with regard to homes. Much of this work has been held back by the inability to get favorable mortgages because of the high money rates.

GORHAM EARNINGS INCREASE.

Gorham Manufacturing Company reports net income, after taxes, for October, 1929, of $177,443, as compared to $135,413 for October, 1928. Net income, after taxes, for the nine months to October 31, 1929, totaled $589,813, as compared to $540,673 for the same period last year.

APPROVE C. & N. W. INCREASE.

Stockholders of Chicago and Northwestern Railway have approved the increase in authorized common stock to $300,000,000 from $200,000,000, and approved an issue of not exceeding $100,000,000 4¾ per cent bonds convertible into common stock.

MINNEAPOLIS-HONEYWELL COMPANY.

Practically all of the preferred stock of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company was converted into common stock on November 15, the date set for redemption of the preferred, the company announced.

CITIES SERVICE ACQUISITION.

Cities Service Company, through its subsidiary, Crew Levick Company, has taken over holdings of the Consolidated Service Stations Company and Towco Filling Stations Company, operating in Crawford and Erie Counties, Pennsylvania.

THOMPSON PRODUCTS COMPANY.

The Thompson Products Company, of Detroit, has received an order from the Ford Motor Company for rods and other equipment, which is expected will total about $200,000 a month.

U. G. I. TO SPEND MORE.

United Gas Improvement Corporation's 1930 budget amounts to $41,000,000, which is an increase of $6,500,000 over the current year.

STOCKS SHOW ADVANCE AT OPENING

Market Continues to Climb, With Initial Gains of 1 to 2 Points

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The stock market continued to rally in the opening transactions today, with most active stocks showing initial gains of 1 to 2 points. Western Union jumped 5 points and Westinghouse Electric 4½, and such issues as U. S. Steel, Radio, American Can, Kennecott, Hudson Motors, Consolidated Gas, New Haven, Erie, National Cash Register, International Nickel and Southern Railway showed gains of 1 to 1½ points.

The overnight news, including assurances of leading railway executives to President Hoover that they plan to push new construction and improvement projects, the statement of Gov. Roy A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, after a meeting of the board's advisory council, saying that still lower credit rates are expected, and a further moderate reduction in crude oil production, served further to bolster confidence.

Trading continued at a quiet, orderly pace, although a few blocks of 5,000 to 8,000 shares appeared on the tape, during the early transactions. Gains were widely extended during the first half hour, when more than a score of issues sold up from 2 to 10 points.

Western Union soon showed a gain of 6 points, and Norfolk and Western, American Type Founders and Air Reduction sold up 5 points. Case Threshing jumped 10 points. Stocks advancing 3 to more than 4 points included Union Pacific, Stone and Webster, Underwood Elliott Fisher, American Water Works and Atchison.

General Electric, Chesapeake and Ohio, Standard Gas, Columbian Carbon, Woolworth, Pacific Lighting and American Rolling Mill were among issues rising 2 to 2½ points.

Bankers' Bills in Good Demand; Rates Cut Sixth Time.

BRISK demand for bankers' bills is indicated by the rapid reduction that has taken place in rates on that kind of paper since the beginning of the month. Evidently as the Federal Reserve has intended it should, the bill market is now more than able to "stand on its own feet," so to speak. The volume of bills outstanding as reported at the beginning of the month has reached a new peak and approximately two months earlier than was the case in 1928. Yet in spite of this fact, rates on acceptances have dropped precipitately, the rates were cut twice yesterday, each time by ⅛ of 1 per cent as usual, making the sixth consecutive reduction since the month began, and the tenth cut from the spring high levels. Ninety-day bills are now quoted 4-3⅞ per cent, with the trend here arguing strongly for lower money rates for some time ahead.

After moving listlessly during the first half of the session yesterday, with the general run of leaders averaging slightly lower, the market turned suddenly in the last hour of the short session, with most stocks ending the day with fair-sized advances. The action of the market itself, more than anything in the way of outside developments, tended to encourage a resumption of quiet but persistent buying. The tendency of trading to turn dull when selling pressure was on the market, always accepted as a favorable omen for the immediate future, was regarded as confirming the belief that the atmosphere had been pretty well cleared and served to influence a return to the buying side.

ALMOST without exception the convertible debentures and bonds having other speculative features attached, which were the center of dazzling pyrotechnics in the investment market two months or so back, are now ruling around investment levels. The break in stocks was drastically reflected in that quarter of the bond market, as the speculative features of those bonds in consequence lost their immediate appeal. Such convertibles are now regarded as attractive for several reasons, one being that they rank before stocks in their call on corporation earnings, and moreover, because they afford a means of investment and at the same time give the purchaser a stake in the stock market in the event that speculation for the rise there should be resumed sooner than generally expected.

While it was widely assumed that the chief purpose of the conference of the President with leading railroad executives would be in the direction of endeavoring to stimulate activity that would create new business and keep labor well employed, it was reasoned that the get-together might possibly be production of developments on a much larger scale. One thing which it was reasoned might come out of the conference was a better understanding of the matters having to do with potential consolidations. It was suggested in more quarters than one, that legislation necessary to clear the way for mergers long deferred might get its start in the course of the conference.

CHANGES revealed in the weekly consolidated condition statement of reporting banks in the Federal Reserve, shaped up for the most part as had been foreshadowed by last week's bank statements. Loans on securities were shown to have been further reduced by $377,000,000, bringing the total cut in the past fortnight to $810,000,000. Investments were increased by $17,000,000 raising the total increase in such holdings in the past two weeks to about $105,000,000. Borrowings from the regional banks were cut by $42,000,000, and deposits naturally fell off with the shrinkage in the loan items. The largest proportion, or as a matter of fact, all but a nominal part of the drop in loans was accounted for by banks in this district, which had incidentally shouldered a heavy burden in that respect several weeks ago.

The average person does not fully realize the extent of the shrinkage in commission house borrowings, according to the partner of one of the largest firms in the Street. The result of the tremendous liquidation of the past month in that direction, he says, has been little short of amazing. He ventured the opinion that a survey of Wall street would probably develop the fact that such borrowings have been cut anywhere from 40 to 75 per cent. One firm which ordinarily is a large borrower is at present lending about $1,000,000 in the call money market.

STEEL TRADE CONFIDENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

The manner in which business has withstood the shock of the Wall Street panic has done much to restore confidence among buyers and sellers of iron and steel. While the output of furnaces and mills has undergone a further decline, consumption has shown no general curtailment and in a number of leading lines has held its own or has gained.

Entirely apart from the heartening effect of President Hoover's conferences, the news of the week is favorable.

Evidences of sustained activity are not interpreted as indicating an early increase in steel output, but rather as an assurance that drastic general curtailment of consumption is not in prospect.

Steel ingot production of steel corporation subsidiaries now ranges from 72 to 74 per cent and it is doubtful whether any producer is operating at more than 75 per cent of capacity. Operations of valley plants have declined to 50 per cent and the rate in the Pittsburgh district is down to 70 per cent, while Chicago output holds at 75 per cent.

Specifications for steel from the automotive industry have continued to recede, and further curtailment is in prospect. However, it is understood that the Ford company will get under production on its new models as quickly as possible and will shortly release sizable tonnages of sheets and other mill products.

Scrap markets have given further ground in keeping with the reduced requirements of steel plants.

Mills have reaffirmed prices on tin plate, wire products and strip steel for first quarter. Specifications for tin plate are beginning to show improvement. Shipbuilding plants, already heavily booked, have much additional work in prospect.

Fabricated structural steel contracts for October, as reported by the Department of Commerce, totaled 342,650 tons, compared with 319,550 tons in September.

Pig iron melt has fallen off in some lines outside of the automotive industry, but this recession is offset, at least in part, by the increased requirements of foundries serving the railroad car builders and the farm equipment makers. Three valley stacks have been blown out or banked in the past 10 days and a Buffalo furnace may go out this week.

The Iron Age composite prices are unchanged, pig iron at $18.38 a gross ton and finished steel at 2.362c a pound. Pig iron is 16c a ton lower than a year ago; finished steel, 14c a ton lower.

CHRYSLER CUTS EXPENSES

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Economies of more than $1,000,000 will be put into effect during the current quarter by Chrysler Corporation, and can be maintained through next year at the same rate on present operating schedules, according to Walter P. Chrysler.

"Notwithstanding any unsettlement in industry," Mr. Chrysler said, "or any uncertainty regarding the volume of business for the immediate future economies in operation and savings in fixed charges will be effected practically equal to next year's dividend requirements.

"The corporation's forward position indicates that its ratio of current assets to current liabilities will approximate 3.50 to 1 on December 31, 1929, as compared with 3.38 to 1 on December 31, 1928. Retail demand for cars is maintaining a very satisfactory level."

Lake Superior Ore Usage Increased

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20. — Lake Superior ores consumed by furnaces during October amounted to 5,382,561 tons, an increase of 20,994 tons over amount consumed in September and compares with 5,024,642 tons for October, 1928. Ore on hand at furnaces and Lake Erie docks as of November 1, totaled 41,134,926 tons as compared with 39,554,623 tons the same time a year ago. Number of furnaces in blast on last day of October was 180, a decrease of six from the number on the last day of September, according to Lake Superior Iron Ore Association.

World Zinc Output For October Higher

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—World zinc production in October totaled 135,697 short tons, against 133,115 in September and 130,919 in October, 1928, according to American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Walter Winchell
On Broadway

Penelope

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.

OH, I would like to give you
A gift before you go;
A tribute that would say to you:
"She loves you so."

Darling, I should offer you
Largess as you leave,
But my hands are clumsy—
I cannot sew or weave.

I cannot even sing you songs;
So many gifts I lack—
You must go empty-handed,
But, oh, my dear, come back.

—Estelle Hagedorn.

OBSERVATION

Eddie Cantor says the recent Wall Street calamity did one good thing. It, at least, made people live within their means. And Mr. Brisbane argues that more people will go back to work instead of sitting in brokerages from 10 to 3. The following sign in the garment center appears to substantiate their comments:

Simon Kolbstein,
Manufacturer of Dresses,
"Formerly with J. P. Morgan & Co."

PUN MY SOUL!

IZZY ELLISON'S stocks are going up.

"Why," he writes, "I can hardly believe my own highs!"

IMAGINE

The height of publicity gags for a cinema actress was reached during the stock market excitement. The press agent for Fox Films, knowing that more people than ever were watching the ticker, cleverly arranged this stunt which went over the tape:

"Notice. . . Certificate No. 1 . . . For Shares Class . . . A . . . Stock of . . . Fox Theaters Corporation . . . In name of Lina Basquette . . . Has Been Reported Lost . . . Finder Will Communicate With E. P. Dutton & Co."

THE RETORT PROPER

ALL his life a certain renowned producer of good shows (who once was a reporter himself), has refused to talk to newspapermen, insisting that some member of his staff speak for him. "If Mr. Hearst or Mr. Adolph Ochs or Mr. Pulitzer comes up here, I'll be glad to see them," he once said, "otherwise their representatives can speak to my representatives!"

FREE AD

S. J. Perelman, one of the more comical comedians on Judge, has written a book christened, "Dawn Ginsbergh's Revenge," the words and pictures being by the master himself. The publisher, incidentally, is Horrors Liveright, who is a nice feller, and all that, but when he wears a dinner suit he looks like a trap drummer who has been thrown out of work by the Vitaphone.

However, Groucho Marx, of the Three Marx Brothers, has indorsed Mr. Perelman's book in this manner: "From the moment I picked it up until I put it down, I was convulsed with laughter. Some day I intend reading it."

OH, MR. WILSTACH!

HEHEHEH

TAKE it from an interesting person who signs himself Tab, when "The Channel Road" broke in at Hartford recently Alexander Woollcott, one of the collaborators, made a speech at a dinner in honor of the producer, Arthur Hopkins.

Woollcott took for his subject a scene from a play in which Petrova starred. "Petrova," said Woollcott, "was immense in one scene in which she made ready for bed by putting on a long nightgown made of silver tissue. It was the best thing I ever saw in my life!"

To which F. P. A., the goat-getter, chirped: "You ought to get around more!"

IN FEWER WORDS

People, take it from Will Rogers, are like a cat when it comes to their lives; they have at least nine, and they pick out the one to write about that they think will look the best.

JUST FOR THE RECORDS

KERRY CONWAY telephoned to say that the publication of Eddie Cantor's recent story here ruined his chances for Life's $5,000 short story award. The yarn concerned the Jew who dreamed an angel came and told him he could have one wish and he asked for a copy of the N. Y. Times a year from now to see how the market was acting. Mr. Conway plaintively pouted that he had written the story months ago, but that when Life saw it in this bureau they returned it to him with their regrets.

Mr. Conway added that he was going to peddle the story elsewhere and that he hoped we wouldn't accuse him of piracy on its publication. We said we would'nt, of course. But only a few moments later a letter came from Elliott Case Graham, of the E. P. Dutton Company, which reads: "Dear Walter: It should pain you to know that the Eddie Cantor gag which headed your column Friday was much more effective when Lord Dunsany wrote it as a short story. I believe it first appeared about two years ago—in the London Mercury!"

Ex-Congresswoman Granted Pension

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—In recognition of her services to the state, the Oklahoma Memorial Association has voted Miss Alice M. Robertson, of Muskogee, only woman ever elected to Congress from Oklahoma, a monthly pension, Mrs. Frank Korn, of El Reno, president of the association, announced. The amount of the pension has not been definitely determined.

In recent years Miss Robertson has met with financial reverses. During the World War soldiers were given free meals at a restaurant operated by her in Muskogee.

Jail Cook Accused Of Torturing Boys

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 20.—Joe Kasom, cook at the Mahoning County jail, was arrested charged with abusing two boys who had been brought to the jail by an inspector for the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light Company, who, accused them of begging passes.

It is claimed Kasom locked the boys in the boiler room and forced them to stand close to a hot boiler, stripped, and also turned live steam on them. Both boys are suffering from burns and shock, it is charged.

Doody Loses Plea, Sentenced to Die

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(INS.)—Judge Otto Kerner in the Criminal Court denied a plea for a new trial and sentenced Willie Doody, alleged notorious bandit and murderer, to die in the electric chair for the slaying of Chief of Police Charles Levy, of Berwyn, a suburb.

Date of the execution was set for December 13.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d." to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

'COLONEL' MAPLE FEARS SCHEME TO GET HIS MONEY

We continue with our book review of "Palaces of Sin," depicting the shameless conduct of Washington society in 1900.

I ACKNOWLEDGE that I became nervous in the closed carriage with Mrs. Bigmout. I was anxious to learn what had become of Clara Middle, (society girl who the Colonel thought was trying to wring a proposal of marriage from him), and I asked Mrs. Bigmout if she had broken a leg, which seemed to quite flustrate the "old thing." She looked at me like "six bits." Then she began by saying, "Colonel (bear in mind, reader, that the title 'Colonel' attached itself to my anatomy after I came into possession of my aunt's money) you know that Clara Middle came from Missouri and was not used to the 'ins and outs' of society, therefore Colonel she could not hold her own among the giddy society of the Capital of the United States, consequently she is missing."

Reader, imagine a Society that is so giddy that innocent woman-hood is forced to retire! I was hot "under the collar" so I turned to Mrs. Bigmout and....

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all, it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, loggy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany. As an acid corrective it begins where milk of magnesia and bicarbonate of soda leave off. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen! Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

5-day Acid Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this 5-day test. Get a bottle of Magnesia Oxoids from Dow Drug Co., or any other druggist, on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal for five days. Mark the change in your physical condition—note how more sound and restful your sleep and how more cheerful and active your days. If you don't sleep better and have more "pep" and power, return the balance of the Magnesia Oxoids to the druggist and he will refund your money.

New Minister to China Symbolizes Friendship

President Hoover's appointment of Nelson T. Johnson, assistant secretary of state, to be American Minister to China is a timely demonstration of the genuineness of American friendship for China.

With a record of 22 years' experience with Chinese affairs, gained in various parts of China and in the Department of State, with a knowledge of the Chinese language possessed by few foreigners, and a liking for the Chinese people and a faith in their future, our new minister owes his appointment solely to his pre-eminent qualifications for his post.

Latterly as assistant secretary of state in charge of Far Eastern affairs, Mr. Johnson has been able to exercise a tremendous influence upon American policy toward China. President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg relied upon his advice and counsel throughout the Chinese crises that came during the Coolidge administration.

And his selection for the Chinese mission proves that President Hoover and Secretary Stimson are no less appreciative of Mr. Johnson's ability as an authority upon China.

Fortunately for American prestige in China, the sympathy of our new minister for the aspirations of the Chinese people is widely known in China and as widely appreciated by the conflicting forces that are wrestling with China's vast and difficult problem.

The leading men of China know, and they know that Minister Johnson knows, that China is passing through a most difficult period. And the problems which the Chinese people are facing are too vast and intricate to be solved all at once. They are waging a struggle on two fronts: They are trying to hold the gains they made in the 1911 revolution and they are trying at the same time to westernize the whole of China.

To reach either goal will doubtless take many years. But the best friends of China are those that sympathize with the aspirations of her people and maintain toward their mistakes an unfailing sympathy and an unflagging desire to assist them in their struggle to establish popular government, to unify their country, and to introduce western ideas and western methods.

President Hoover is sending to China in Minister Johnson an American diplomatist who has done his best for many years to find ways and means by which the United States could continue in most friendly relations with the people of China even in the darkest days of their civil strife.

And that is the type of American diplomat who can be counted upon to carry to the Chinese people new proof of the friendship of the American people and of their desire to aid them in all their own struggles and to co-operate with them in the common causes that brighter times in China are sure to bring.

Too Much Trouble

And They Got Nothing.

When the prices and fortunes in Wall Street were cracking heavily, officials not far away in the Navy Supply Department in Brooklyn were examining the work of a gang that bound seven guards and spent five hours trying, vainly, to break into a government safe containing $86,000.

That is a lot of work for only $86,000. If you are in the "cracking" business, Wall Street is the place. You can make or lose it more rapidly there.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE temperature of a healthy man's blood is about 37 degrees Centigrade (98.4 Fahrenheit) and its fluctuations are fractional. (A moderate and agreeable temperature for a room is about 16 degrees Centigrade, or 60 degrees Fahrenheit). His sensitive body shows signs of distress with a fall or rise of two or three degrees (Fahrenheit) in his internal temperature.

A rise of this amount in itself is enough to produce fever symptoms, headache, malaise and loss of nervous and muscular power. But the essence of the danger of a chilled condition lies in the diminished alertness of the leucocytes. Infections that are quite easily disposed of under normal conditions may now make headway. Colds, influenzas, bacteria always besieging the body but normally held at bay, get successfully busy as the immediate result of a chill.

H. G. Wells

The body is continually losing heat to the cooler air which is usually around it, and therefore it must have internal sources of heat to keep its temperature up. This heat-production is the result of the continual chemical activity of our muscles and glands, for example of the processes needed to keep our muscles taut and ready for action.

In most warm-blooded animals the skin is clothed either with hair or feathers. A hair is a rod of dead cells, proliferated from a living root, that sticks out from the skin into the outer air.

The part that lies inside the skin is housed in a tube, the hair follicle. Round the mouth of the follicle there is a sensitive nervous belt with which we have already dealt, and opening into it there are one or two sebaceous glands which secrete a natural brilliantine to keep the hair and skin supple. The outside parts of the hairs form a forest in which imprisoned air stagnates, so that heat loss by convection is reduced.

At the same time, since air is a very poor conductor of heat, heat loss by conduction is also diminished. Man, however, does not produce hair or feathers for himself; he steals them from other creatures or replaces them by woven vegetable fibres.

The chief mechanisms of heat regulation are two—variation in size of the skin capillaries and perspiration.

The skin is an adjustable radiator. By dilating the blood vessels in the skin that amount of blood that is exposed to the cooling action of the air can be increased; therefore we redden when we are too hot. We are increasing the amount of blood in our air-cooled radiator. Conversely, when we are too cold the vessels of our skin contract; we blench and the skin pales and may even become bluish from lack of bright red oxygenated blood.

Perspiration is due to the action of the sweat glands, which pour out on to the surface of the skin a fluid that consists very largely of water. That evaporates and cools us. It is our most effective method of temperature regulation. By sweating and so cooling his body a man can stand exposure to a temperature at which water would boil.

It is indeed perfectly possible for the living flesh of a man to remain in a hot chamber long enough to see the dead flesh of a mutton chop cooked by the same heat whose effects his temperature regulating machinery can obviate.

But to endure such heat the air around a man must be dry. If the air is already charged with water vapor, or if he is immersed in water, his sweat cannot evaporate and is therefore useless.

CHAPTER THREE.

The Harmony and Direction Of the Body Machine.

1. A STUDY OF ADJUSTMENT.

We are "fearfully and wonderfully made," says Holy Writ, and all that has gone before must seem to the reader but an elaboration and filling in of that statement.

The first adjustment that we have to consider is the adequate supply of oxygen to the working cells of the body. In a resting man the heart, the stomach, the kidneys and the respiratory muscles are active, and their oxygen demands must be satisfied, but the great mass of his muscles — the voluntary muscles — are quiescent, and their oxygen-requirement, although it is not zero, is very small.

The Masked Menace

Drawn by Nelson Harding

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Senators at Play

THE name of Grundy continues to be revered wherever factory chimneys are autographed.

"Bugs" Baer

Mr. Grundy apologizes to the moss-spangled West, the fungus-covered East and the mildewed South.

He plugged for the Hawley-Smoot tariff industry until the fuses blew out.

He inspired Senator Moses to intimate that the sons of the West had to get their shoes made in a blacksmith shop.

He started a debate in the Senate that sounded like 17 phonograph needles all trying to play the same record.

Mr. Grundy is no elusive ventriloquist in a huddle. He comes right out in the open and gets everything off his chest but the porous plaster.

He is now engaged in a delicate operation on himself. He will remove his own tonsils through the process of eating some very sharp words.

He has already started to Fletcherize the alphabet and manfully retracted his statement that Idaho was a backward state.

Idaho, famous for its potatoes and Senators, reached for its high hat when Grundy said it was a treadmill for flatfooted conservatives.

Mr. Grundy apologizes in the usual Pennsylvania manner by hoping that it ain't true.

In case you don't know who Mr. Grundy was, we will tell you that he is the master of hounds of the lobbyist pack.

He is the lock, stock and barrel of the campaign funds. In return for his work all he expects is a prohibitive tariff on all foreign industries, including laughing and breathing.

The Senate crossed him by removing the tariff on Christmas tinsel which will come in very handy to decorate Wall street and the Federal Reserve banks this winter.

We shall look very beautiful during the holidays all festooned and garlanded in free tinsel, which is noted for its warmth and wearing qualities.

It's an ill wind that doesn't blow somebody some static.

Isn't It So?

The great trouble with the people who don't like us is that they have such poor taste.

A man's teeth and hair are his best friends, but even the best of friends will fall out.

As a rule, cleanliness is next to godliness, but in the time of a street cleaners' strike it's next to impossible.

HOW SIMMONS GOT IT

By Herbert Kaufman

YOUR business is perishing from anemia—starving for fresh blood. Only the culls of talent and ability are content to enter your employ.

The crackerjacks are building up your competitors—supplying the mental ordnance to batter you out of the field.

All the first-class youngsters have your rating, and therefore won't trust you.

Your complacent, conceit-shriveled mind has become a WIRE-MAKING machine, through which no big ideas can lately pass.

So heavy-caliber men aren't submitting their services to your Flaubert consideration.

There must have been a time when you were broader-gauged—it's incomprehensible that ANYBODY could succeed to authority and reach the right of decision, except by the exhibition of enterprise and the exercise of shrewdness.

BUT nothing in your recent activities corroborated such qualities. In the beginning, you may have been hard-headed, but today, you're just bone-domed.

An extraordinary notion can't squeeze through the tiny peephole behind which you view values. Only as much of it as superficial judgment approves, may hope for your indorsement.

And so folk, able to command fair and unprejudiced hearings ELSEWHERE, refuse to let you reduce their sound propositions to tidbits.

They take them, instead, to progressive managements, where worth is promptly encouraged and properly compensated.

You aren't growing, so you'll soon be going to the demnition bow-wows.

YOU'VE stopped learning and must consequently cease earning overhead requirements.

You have placed yourself above the necessity of instruction, assumed the rule of everybody's teacher, and, since you consider it beneath your dignity to become a pupil as well, whatever knowledge you once possessed, is trite, obsolete and non-productive.

Your position is analogous to that of a shopkeeper who purchases no new stocks and yet expects to hold his trade and prestige.

Every real merchant knows that buying is nine-tenths of selling, and so deeply is this principle rooted, that leading houses don't wait until novelties are brought to them, but scout the highways of trade to intercept innovation and originality, before rivals have a prior chance at them.

YOU not only make NO effort to anticipate opportunity, but daily rebuff it.

The profit and loss statement has your number—and it's mainly zero.

Results finally count and never make a mistake in the figures.

You've adopted an attitude of such pernicious egotism, that, rather than acknowledge anybody ELSE equal to problems with which you can't cope, you prefer to play dog-in-the-manger to the point of ruin itself.

You'd rather sink in the quagmires of vanity than be rescued from failure by a subordinate's suggestions or an outsider's criticism.

"The fellow for whom I used to work got in the habit of knowing it all," remarked Old Cyrus Simmons. "That's how I happened to get control of the concern."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

LOTS of peeved husbands write to this department, wanting to know what ails modern wives. . . . why they can't settle down and be contented with a good man and a nice home the way their grandmas did?

But there's a plain reason why good men and nice homes can't mean to the girl of 1929 what they meant to the girl of 1829 and that reason is . . . HER JOB.

Willy-nilly, the modern girl begins work when she's around eighteen. Usually, she'd like to loaf around home until a husband comes along, but dad can't support loafers, so she grabs herself a job and proceeds to make good.

It's an exciting life but a hard one. She's up against stiff discipline and tremendous competition. She must use all her wits . . . keep herself fit . . . step right along. Gradually she becomes "conditioned" to this brisk tempo. She becomes a Live Wire . . . a Go Getter. But inwardly, she dreams the old, sweet dream of Husband, Home and Babies.

It isn't possible for her, however, to think of these things as Grandma thought of them. Grandma thanked her lucky stars when she got a good man, even if she wasn't wildly in love with him. He was her sole means of support.

YET SHE STILL WANTS HER MAN QUITE AS MUCH AS GRANDMA WANTED HERS. But she wants him in a different way . . . not, necessarily, as a provider, but as a partner and pal, and as a father to her babies. AND SHE WANTS MARRIAGE . . . but that marriage must be more than a haven . . . it must be an opportunity for interest and advancement which can compete, in richness of reward, with the job she gives up.

HER MARRIAGE MUST PROVE AS PROFITABLE IN EVERY WAY AS HER JOB . . . HER HUSBAND MUST BE AS MUCH A HUSTLER AS HER BOSS.

Sometimes she gets all she has dreamed of getting. But sometimes, as she'll tell you herself, she just gets stung.

He's good, yes. He's steady, hard working, patient, kind, helpful around the house. He'll do anything she asks and he's satisfied with anything she does. That's just the trouble. HE'S TOO SATISFIED . . . TOO SETTLED.

Being settled was the supreme virtue in grandma's eyes. It's no virtue in granddaughter's . . . It's a positive vice. She has been conditioned to a world where, if you're settled, you're cooked. She has expected marriage to be a Going Business, like a firm. But here's Henry, with his head in a newspaper and his feet on the davenport, asking her why in heck she can't sit down and take things easy instead of going out to meet these doggoned people. What sort of future can there be with a man like that for a girl who, for five or six successful years has thought of everything in terms of "future?"

But Henry doesn't consider that point. To him, marriage and wives are, or should be, what they were a hundred years ago. TO BE GOOD TO A WIFE . . . that was dad's and grandfather's ideal for a husband. It's Henry's. But that isn't enough for Henry's wife. A man must be good FOR a wife, as well as good TO a wife, to make the grade with her.

Which Henry can't understand. And so when she eventually marches back to her job . . . or into the divorce court . . . he considers himself the worst abused creature on earth.

Text for Today

Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.—Philippians, iv:8.

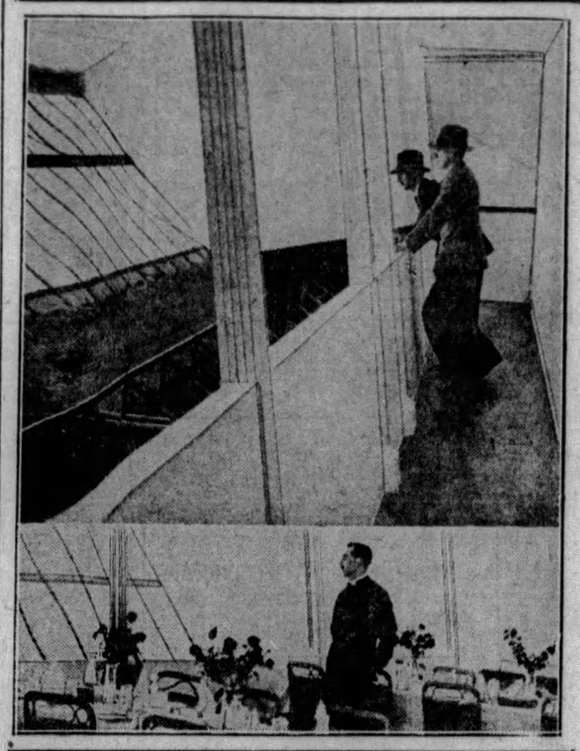
A Modern Hotel?

No, a Modern Flying Machine.



TWO PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN ON THE BRITISH R-101, BIGGEST AIRSHIP EVER BUILT

In looking at these photographs you might say "They were taken probably in some modern hotel of unusual construction."

Not at all, these pictures were taken high up in the air, on board the British passenger dirigible R-101.

Meanwhile, the United States isn't doing much except watch and wait.

The country that INVENTED the airplane and made the first flights in a heavier-than-air machine watches and waits for other countries to do what this country SHOULD be doing.

We have the ENGINEERS, the SKILL, and heaven knows we have the MONEY.

We SPEND a great deal, but we don't get much.

We shall wake up eventually, of course. A ship something like this might COMPEL us to awake rather disagreeably, as one wakes on falling out of bed, if it brought a load of TNT and poison gas to New York, Washington, Chicago, or some Pacific coast city.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—In the wake of the Wall street hurricane, one scarcely hears a single moan of jazz. It was dying before the crash and the rout seems now complete. Not for years has the metropolis been so pleasantly sedate. Cafes without music are getting the big play.

Ultra smart people are going to the opera and theater in closed horse-drawn cabs. Night clubs, where gin-swigging youngsters held forth, are one by one making their bow. People sobered by sterner realities of life seem to shrink from them. Their keynote is simplicity.

More than 50 well-known jazz orchestras have disbanded in the last few weeks. The young generation is not dancing the hours away. And for some reason drinking is suddenly not at all "smart." It was a merry mad epoch and nothing has been so heartening as the reaction.

The flapper and cake-eater types disappeared like a magician's evanishment. The wide pantalooned silly has climbed into working clothes. Thousands of girls are letting their hair grow. Skirts are growing longer daily. Paint and powder are being discarded.

Disillusioned girls awakened to the fact that America had suddenly become a new world. They could not work all day and hit the high spots at night. They faced a wall of sound economics and only the girl who took her job seriously had a Chinaman's chance.

Thousands of girls, as a matter of fact, interested men only in frivolous moments. Marriage was something else. Few men have frivolous moments these days. They are recouping losses by working every hour of the day and sleeping every hour of the night. Life is no longer a musical comedy with words by P. G. Wodehouse and music by Irving Berlin.

In the theater, stamping and dragging dancers along with baby talk singers went out like a light. Graceful, long-skirted ladies are warbling sugary sentiments. The "It" girl has faded from the film. And this morning—cross my heart—I received an invitation to an old-fashioned taffy pulling.

A spy gallops up to tell me that among the utterly blase worldlings he has seen blush with his own eyes are Robert L. Ripley, Karl K. Kitchen, Herbert Bayard Swope, Percy Hammond, Edgar Selwyn and Ed Wynne. For that matter there are very few who cannot turn a rosy red when pushed. Or when caught talking to themselves.

New York automobilists—Oh, yes, quite a number still have cars—are besieged by an army of professional moochers who thrust their arms palm upwards through limousine windows during traffic halts. They usually ask for only "a nickel to get to Brooklyn" and the modesty of their appeal evokes a generosity. But those who are refused become vicious. With a nail point they leave scratches on the polished sides of cars.

New York, says an inspired writer in London Sketch, is preparing to erect an apartment house with a bungalow on its roof. There is also a hot tip out that a hotel over here is going up that will have electric lights in every room.

The dowager Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt again proved her queenship of the social realm at the opening of the opera. Every glass was turned on her as she walked down the aisle and hundreds waited outside to see her depart.

The haughty and venerable Mrs. Vanderbilt, for the first time, graciously halted before the circle of cameramen in the lobby. But probably never again, for a tabloid photographer called out: "Psst! Dowager! The big smile, please!"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HAVE you the self-control which makes it possible for you to keep cool under alarming or aggravating conditions?

Or do you lose the poise and mastery which would react to your benefit when such circumstances arise?

Do you lose yourself in anger so that you are unmindful of consequences? And then is your first thought to harm those or the thing that gets in your way?

It may be a desire to hurt in a physical way. You want to do bodily harm. You would not hesitate to use the most severve measures to produce the result you have mapped out.

If you are a person of this sort you must realize that it would be perilous for you to become angry. That it is never safe for you to give way to emotion.

Why allow yourself to reach the level of the brute?

You are less than human if your desire is to injure those who prove antagonistic to you in any particular.

You have all to lose and nothing to gain when you lose self-control. And under such a condition the other person has a great advantage over you.
